CRASH KILLS PRINCE MDIVANI

ANOTHER PLAN TO PREVENT WAR UP TO MUSSOLINI

New Peace Proposal Drafted at Geneva.

GENEVA, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Italy, France, and Great Britain got together tonight on possible ways to keep peace in Africa and only Benito Mussolini's final approval of the draft plan was needed to get it under way.

The tentative program, which will be submitted to Ethiopia tomorrow, was worked out at two conferences Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy, Premier Pierre Laval of France, and Capt. Anthony Eden of Great Britain held this evening.

After the final meeting Laval said he was still awaiting word from Il Duce, who had been adamant to his earlier telephoned plea to accept peace formulæ involving an Italian pledge not to go to war against Ethiopia during peace negotiations.

Accord Revealed at Dinner.

News that an accord had been reached was announced formally by J. A. C. Avenol, secretary general of the league of nations, at the end of the dinner he gave the council members.

The fact that Aloisi had approved the draft was deemed significant by observers. It was felt that he would not give preliminary approval unless his chief, Il Duce, had indicated he would sanction the action.

Mussolini's approval or disapproval of developments was not expected to be made public before the meeting in the morning.

Council members planned to present the tentative draft tomorrow to representatives of the Ethiopian government and it was considered likely the latter would seek modification.

Mussolini Wins Points.

Mussolini seemingly won several points in the negotiations. The Ethiopians, according to information from French circles, will not participate in the projected political negotiations, which will be confined to England, France, and Italy. Ethiopia will be dealt with through regular channels, if the revised plan is put into effect.

Furthermore, it was understood, the council resolution will not directly refer to these political negotiations. If this proves to be true Mussolini has succeeded in divorcing the projected negotiations from the league, it was pointed out.

It was understood, also, the draft calls for a resumption of arbitration, makes allusion to the Italo-Ethiopian treaty which pledges nonresort to force, and stipulates that the league continue to keep the conflict on its agenda for examination in September.

Another Parley Suggested.

A conference among representatives of Italy, Ethiopia, France, and Britain next week, either at Paris or Ventimiglia, Italy, was one recourse reported under discussion.

Tonight's peace formula was reached after the previous plan had been firmly rejected by Mussolini.

That plan, drafted by Eden, Laval, and Maxim Litvinov, soviet commissar for foreign affairs, envisaged: Revival of the Italo-Ethiopian conciliation commission; mutual pledges of nonresort to war during arbitration; conversations among France, England, and Italy, signatories of the 1906 treaty guaranteeing Ethiopia's integrity; time limits for reports on progress to the league council, which would meet again Sept. 4.

Italy immediately objected. Laval immediately got his good friend Mussolini on the telephone.

It was of no avail. Il Duce stood firm. He did not want, he explained, the clause involving pledges against war. He did not like linking of peace efforts to the league council, nor did he fancy having Italians sit down at the council table with Ethiopians as equals, the latter on the ground that Ethiopia did not sign the 1906 treaty.

Post and Wife Complete First Leg of Moscow Hop

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Wiley Post and his wife flew to Renton airport, 12 miles south of Seattle, at 6:30 p. m., completing one leg of their 8,000 mile flight from San Francisco to Moscow, via Alaska and Siberia. Post arranged with an air service for replacing the plane's wheels with pontoons and came to Seattle.

Memory of Ice Storm Eases Heat Suffering

Greensburg, Ind., Aug. 1—[Special.]—Residents here today, with a return of sweltering heat, found relief in discussing the ice storm of last night which reduced the temperature from 93 to 71 degrees. The ice did not resemble hail, pieces being of various shapes. Tops of many automobiles were punctured.

LAKE SEARCHED AFTER SLAYER'S FAREWELL NOTE

Push Murder Quiz; Stege Skeptical.

Police investigators and coast guardsmen last night were searching the shores and waters of Lake Michigan for the body of Mandeville W. Zenge, 26 year old carpenter who caused the death of Dr. Walter J. Bauer of Kirksville, Mo., by a savage mutilation early Wednesday.

The belief that Zenge killed himself by drowning was based on the finding of a suicide note, along with his hat and coat, in a Yellow cab which he had engaged at 10:45 p. m. Wednesday to take him to the Navy pier.

The cab driver, John Giannini of 1933 Dayton street, who followed instructions of the passenger and awaited him at the shore end of the pier, gave up his vigil at the end of an hour and a half and later turned the coat, hat, and note over to his company.

Note Sent to Prosecutor.

This property was sent to the state's attorney's office yesterday morning after an inquest into the death of Dr. Bauer, a 38 year old chemist, had been opened at the Jackson Park hospital and continued to Aug. 15.

In the note Zenge confessed that he was worried to distraction by the fact that the former Louise Schaffer, 23 year old nurse of Kirksville, had jilted him to marry Dr. Bauer.

Perhaps significantly, however, he made no mention of his brutal attack that ended the life of his love rival.

Stege Thinks Note a Hoax.

Some of the investigators, confronted with this evidence, frankly declared the opinion that the note was a hoax and that Zenge had written it in an effort to throw the police off his trail. One of these was Supervising Police Captain John Stege.

"There are a lot of contradictions in that note," he asserted. "For one thing, he asks that Mrs. Bauer not be notified. Yet he knew the newspapers would publish it. Why should a man wishing to commit suicide go through that elaborate rigmarole with the cab? He could have jumped in the river or he could have ridden to the pier in a street car. He could have shot himself with a pistol; we know he had one. I'll believe Zenge is a suicide when I see the body."

Martin Durkin's Suicide Ruse.

Capt. Stege recalled that Martin Durkin, a notorious criminal of a decade ago, wrote a note stating that he was "going to end it all" and left the missive in his coat on the Michigan avenue bridge. Durkin is still alive, serving a life sentence for murder in the Joliet penitentiary.

Other investigators, including Lieut. Otto Erlanson of the homicide detail, were convinced that suicide would be the logical end of the man who performed the mutilation. They saw nothing inconsistent in his use of the cab, holding that his anxiety to have his property properly disposed of would have impelled him to leave the note in a place where it was sure to reach the authorities.

Expects to Find Body.

Lieut. Erlanson predicted that the body would rise to the surface and be found within the next 48 hours. The rules of strict logic, he said, could not be followed by a man in the strange emotional state of Zenge. The lieutenant also called attention to the suicide threats that Zenge made before he left his home and job in Canton, Mo., on July 23, and to his expression of his inferiority complex in the note.

J. Andy Zenge of Canton, Mo., father of the missing man, arrived in Chicago last night, accompanied by another son, Leighton, and C. V. Stagg, a relative by marriage. At the Harrison hotel he declared he wished to confer with police today, but admitted he had no additional facts to present to them. When asked if he believed his son to be a suicide he replied only:

"That's one of the things I want to investigate."

Story Retold at Inquest.

Nothing was brought out at the inquest, nor in statements made to Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty by Mrs. Bauer, to change the story of how Dr. Bauer came to his death.

He had been asked for a ride in his car as he stepped from the Jennings house, a hotel, in Ann Arbor, Mich., by a man he had known as E. L. Jones of Chicago, who was also registered at the same hotel. This was on Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Bauer, who was professor of chemistry in the Kirksville College of Osteopathy and Surgery, was in Ann Arbor taking a summer medical course

MODERN CARRIE WRECKS PARKING SIGNS WITH CAR

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Carrie Newton, 50, has started a crusade to make auto parking here as free and open as the west.

"I'll tear 'em down every time they put those signs out to keep me from parking on the streets that I pay taxes on," Mrs. Newton said today in defiance of all who reserve curb areas.

"I'm sick and tired of driving around looking for parking space and seeing bus outfits making a depot of downtown streets and saying that I can't park there. I'll show them I will park there."

After she carried her first armload of the signs to the dump she was fined $25.

Today she began knocking over the signs with her car. She was arrested. Other motorists began parking in the "forbidden zones."

"Council has no right to lease the streets and if they want to go to court I'm ready," Mrs. Newton challenged.

Vigor of Mrs. Newton's campaign led her to a padded cell tonight after she seized a chair and smashed all the windows in the women's ward.

Lightning Kills One as Storm Chases Heat

Rain and electrical storms, coming simultaneously with a sudden shift of winds from the southwest to the northwest, apparently broke the heat wave and sent temperatures in Chicago tumbling eleven degrees from 93 to 82 degrees within less than two hours late yesterday.

In the electrical displays accompanying the rain, which struck shortly after 4 o'clock, a Civilian Conservation corps worker was killed by lightning, the transmitter tower of radio station WBBM near Glenview was struck and put out of commission for a time, and city lighting in Libertyville was interrupted for more than an hour. Rainfall was heavy in the north and northwest portions of the Chicago area.

Struck as He Boards Truck.

The CCC man killed was Guy Legg, 21 years old, of Duncancille, Ill., who had been working on the Skokie valley lagoon project. With a group of other men he was about to climb into a truck near Willow road and Skokie road in Northfield.

The bolt struck in the midst of the group, killing Legg outright and stunning Stephen Mastko, 21 years old, of Streator; Eugene Garrett, 20, of Atwood, Ill., and Francis Poulter, Kansas, Ill.

Walter B. Moore, 16 years old, 1106 Isabella street; Frank Collins, 17, of 1162 Isabella street, both of Evanston, and a third boy whose name was not learned were rescued by coast guardsmen after their sailing canoe capsized about a mile off the Wilmette lake shore during the squall.

Two persons were drowned during the day and five others died of heart attacks attributed in part to the heat, the coroner's office reported. Morrie Lamantia, 15 years old, of Hammond, drowned in the Calumet Memorial pool, Wentworth avenue and 153d street, Calumet City. Samuel Mitchell, 42 years old, 6438 South Union avenue, was taken dead from the lake at 57th street.

Mercury Equals 1894 Mark.

The weather bureau explained that the day's temperatures were not extreme, but that the discomfort felt in the city was the result of high humidity. The mercury climbed to 93 degrees at 3 p. m. and again at 4:30 p. m., equaling the record high for Aug. 1, set in 1894. The shift in the wind came at 4:30 p. m., and the mercury tumbled to 82 degrees at 6 p. m.

Another sharp drop which began at 8 p. m. sent the temperature down from 81 degrees at that hour to 70 degrees at 10 p. m. The midnight reading was an unofficial 73 degrees.

The forecast was for thundershowers today and tomorrow and cooler today.

TWO U. S. DOCTORS HELP SAVE LIFE OF MAN AT SEA

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

CHERBOURG, France, Aug. 1.—Dr. J. Bentley Squire and Dr. Eugene H. Pool of New York, passengers aboard the liner Berengaria, assisted in saving the life of a Portuguese sailor who had been rescued by the liner, it was learned when the ship put in here today.

On July 25 the Berengaria sighted distress signals from the Portuguese schooner Normandie, and a life boat was lowered to render aid. The boat took off a sailor, Antonio Francesco Conentras, who had been severely injured some days before. Without medical aid his condition had become critical. He was taken aboard the Berengaria and operated on by the ship's surgeon, Dr. O'Brien, aided by Drs. Squire and Pool. Now, he is recovering.

A collection was taken up aboard the liner, amounting to $200, and presented to the injured man by Mrs. Leslie Howard, wife of the noted British actor.

Baruch and His Wife Fly to Side of Ill Daughter

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—After cutting short a vacation in Europe because of the illness of a daughter, Bernard M. Baruch, financier, and his wife, flew here today from Quebec. His daughter, Mrs. Renee Baruch Samstag, bride of Robert Samstag, is in Doctors' hospital recovering from an attack of pleurisy which set in after a recent operation for appendicitis. Mr. Samstag said that her condition is not serious and that she will be able to leave the hospital next week.

Excited by Cannon Shot; Burned by "75" Blank

Denver, Colo., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Albert B. Sanford, 72, acting curator of archeology at the Colorado State museum, walked in front of a .75 millimeter gun as it was fired with blank ammunition during a Colorado day celebration today and was injured seriously. He became excited as an old cannon was fired and jumped forward as National Guardsmen fired the modern gun. He was burned on his face, arm, and chest.

Torture Woman with Fire Until She Discloses $70

Mrs. Sophia Frinker, 35 years old, 13104 Houston avenue, was robbed of $70 last night by three young armed bandits who invaded her house and tortured her until she revealed the hiding place of her money. The young gunmen bound her to a chair, removed her shoes and stockings, and seared her feet with lighted matches until she told them the money was concealed in a kitchen cupboard.

Ex-Husband of Miss Hutton; Auto Wrecked

BARCELONA, Spain, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Prince Alexis Mdivani, former husband of Barbara Hutton, American heiress, was killed today and a woman companion believed fatally injured when the automobile in which they were riding overturned at Albons, Gerona province. The prince was 31 years of age.

According to reports reaching Barcelona tonight, occupants of a passing automobile found the overturned automobile in which Prince Alexis and his companion were riding.

Auto Hits Culvert.

The passers-by pulled his body and that of the woman from beneath the wreckage.

Apparently the accident resulted when the machine struck a culvert beside the highway.

Prince Alexis was already dead when hauled from beneath the car, it was reported. The woman was said to be breathing faintly. She was taken to the office of a physician at Gerona.

Girl Is Unidentified.

The accident, according to reports received here, occurred while Mdivani was driving at a high rate of speed. He was said to have been taking a young French girl to Perpignan to catch a train for Paris. The girl, a friend of Mdivani's sister, wife of the noted Catalonian painter José Maria Sert, had been visiting at the home of the Serts in Palamos.

The Serts were informed by telephone of the death of Mdivani and rushed immediately to Albons to take charge of the body.

Physicians at the Gerona clinic operated on the young woman, who was described as attractive, and said she was suffering from a fractured skull. The physicians said she had carried no documents by which she could be identified. Her condition was described as critical.

WED TWO HEIRESSES.

Prince Alexis was a familiar figure in international society circles. He married Barbara Hutton, heiress to the F. W. Woolworth 5 and 10 cent store millions, at a civil ceremony in Paris June 20, 1933.

This was his second marriage. His first was solemnized at Newport Villa, May 15, 1931, when he was married to Louise Astor Van Alen, only daughter of Mrs. James Laurens Van Alen and the late Mr. Van Alen. She was a direct descendant of John Jacob Astor, founder of the Astor family in America. They were divorced after a few months.

His marriage to Barbara Hutton was ended at Reno last May 13. Since then there have been many rumors of impending engagements and marriages between the exiled Russian and members of famous families of Europe or America.

Brothers Wed Actresses.

Alexis was a brother of Prince David Mdivani, former husband of Mae Murray, film actress, and of Prince Serge Mdivani, former husband of Pola Negri, who later married Mary McCormic, opera singer.

One of the Mdivani sisters, now the wife of José Maria Sert, Spanish mural painter, had recently been host to Prince Alexis, and it had been to visit her that he had recently gone to Spain. Another sister was married to Charles Huberich, international lawyer of Paris.

The young prince was descended from the Mdivani family that acquired the title of prince in 1752 for prowess in warfare in Georgia, which became a Russian province in 1801. Prince Alexis was a son of Gen. Zachary Mdivani, former aide-de-camp to Czar Nicholas of Russia. The general died a few years ago in Paris.

Enjoyed Polo Playing.

Prince Alexis was a polo player. He had recently spent several months in

SECOND DEFEAT FOR ROOSEVELT ON UTILITY BILL

'Death Sentence' Is Beaten 210 to 155.

President to Reply

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Attorney General Homer S. Cummings late today indicated President Roosevelt will have an important announcement at his press conference tomorrow on the revelation before the senate lobby committee that E. P. Cramer, a New Jersey advertising man, had suggested the starting of a "whispering campaign" on Mr. Roosevelt's sanity.

During the day White House aids urged the President to act decisively on the matter as a means of silencing the "whispering campaign." They pointed out that the President might find some action at law which he could press as a private citizen to make the case a public issue.

The aids recalled that Theodore Roosevelt sued George J. Newett, publisher of an obscure Michigan weekly, in 1913 for a libelous editorial charging he was a drunkard. It was published after Theodore Roosevelt had left the White House and was campaigning on the Progressive ticket. Col. Roosevelt asked and received nominal damages of 6 cents.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—In a thunderous defiance of President Roosevelt the house today voted to persist in its antagonism to the "death sentence" in the utility control bill.

Every weapon at the command of the administration was thrown into the battle on the floor which preceded a vote on the motion of Representative Sam Rayburn [Dem., Tex.] to agree in conference to the senate section in the bill providing for abolition of holding companies considered "unnecessary."

Exclude Lobbyist.

But the vote against the motion was 210 to 155, with party lines forgotten. Then, as if to emphasize its disregard of the leaders' threats that they were incurring the wrath of the White House, the members adopted a resolution which, in effect, calls for the exclusion of Ben Cohen, administration lobbyist, from future conferences on the bill. The vote on this resolution was 183 to 172.

As a reasult passage of utility control legislation in any form at this session appeared problematical. Senate conferees on the bill have announced that they would never agree to a measure without the "death sentence."

In a last minute attempt to sway the house Representative Rayburn introduced into the record the report of testimony at today's session of the senate lobby committee that a New Jersey advertising man had suggested to utility companies the "whispering campaign" regarding President Roosevelt's sanity, which was so widespread recently.

In Ranks of Enemy.

Rayburn intimated to the representatives that members voting against his motion would place themselves squarely in the ranks of the President's enemies.

Moreover, Rayburn warned his colleagues there would be a record vote on his motion. The last vote on the "death sentence," taken exactly a month ago, was by "tellers" and the names of the congressmen were not recorded. Those voting "no" today, he said bluntly, would be listed as opposed to the President and he would be in a position to punish them.

Despite these threats today's 210 to 155 ratio did not differ much from the 216 to 146 teller vote on July 1. The administration leaders were able to muster only nine more members to their standard, decreasing the number of rebels at the same time by six.

Order Versus Disorder.

Rayburn fought desperately in support of his motion to agree with the senate conferees and was applauded by the administration stalwarts. But Representative George Huddleston [Dem., Ala.], another of the conferees, brought down the house with his assertion that the controversy involved the comparative merits of "an orderly trial" versus "a lynching bee."

Aware that the sentiment of the house seemed to be against him, Rayburn caused the clerk to read a report of today's testimony at the senate lobby inquiry regarding the "whispering campaign" against President Roosevelt.

"Do you want to line up with such people as that?" asked Rayburn.

Intimidation Charged.

Huddleston in reply said he was as indignant as any one at the "despicable insinuation" against the President's mental soundness.

"But why," he inquired, "was this report read here at just this time? It has no relation to this dispute. Its purpose, just as has been the purpose of the senate committee's hearings, is to intimidate those who honestly disagree with the senate's position on this bill.

"The death sentence section in the senate bill, compared to the regulatory section in the house bill, is comparable to an orderly, legal execution versus a murder, a court trial to a lynching bee.

"Rayburn Wants Surrender."

"Mr. Rayburn wants us to surrender to the senate and to Mr. Ben Cohen. He gives up the fight without firing a single shot. I thought he was a fighting man. But do the rest of us want to surrender? Are we to yield to these cowardly, lyir insinuations, submit to the domination of Mr. Cohen, signify our fear of the character assassination coming out of the senate committee hearings?"

Whoops and yells from the membership greeted these rhetorical queries. The house became excited. When Representative John G. Cooper [Rep., Ohio] arose, he was jeered by the Rayburn followers. They in turn were shouted down by the followers of Huddleston.

After the Rayburn motion had been defeated, Huddleston immediately proffered his resolution which did not mention Cohen by name, but which contained the following language:

"That it is the will of the house that a conference be held under just and fair conditions and that it shall remain the right and privilege of the managers on the part of the house, if in their judgment it is desirable to promote these ends, that such conference be held without the presence there of any person not a manager upon the part of either house or senate."

The vote in approval of this resolution was closer than on the Rayburn motion, a number of representatives asserting that such a resolution constituted an interference with the conduct of the senate conferees.

CHICAGOAN ON STAND

B. B. Robinson, La Salle street broker in Chicago, again was the chief witness at the house lobby inquiry today while the senate committee occupied itself with testimony regarding the Roosevelt "whispering campaign."

Robinson was questioned at some length about the whereabouts of H. C. Hopson, head of the Associated Gas and Electric corporation, who has been sought unsuccessfully by both committees for two weeks. Robinson caused some excitement when he revealed that he had talked by telephone to Hopson last Sunday night. Robinson said he was "contact man" for Hopson in Washington during the utility campaign.

Warns Hopson to Silence.

"But I don't know where Hopson was at the time," Robinson told the committee. "In fact, I warned him not to tell me. I didn't want to be the instrument whereby he was found."

The witness suggested that Hopson be looked for either in Scarsdale, N. Y., or in Florida, if the committee wanted him. He described Hopson as the victim of a throat ailment and a general toxic condition which probably accounted for his reluctance to appear for the rigors of a committee examination.

"I've seen Hopson sink into a coma after meals," he testified, "and fall asleep during a long distance telephone conversation."

"Was he a drinking man?" asked a committee member.

"No; I knew him for two years before I ever saw him take a drink," Robinson answered.

Robinson repeated that he had met with and talked to many congressmen and senators at "parties and poker games" in Washington.

"But I never tried to bribe or intimidate any one," he insisted. "I did get a clear picture of how to carry on a fight against the utility bill."

A revealing picture of how the senate committee staged its "revelations" concerning Representative Nat Patton [Dem., Tex.] was given to the house committee by E. V. Sellers, former friend of Patton, who was the senate's "surprise witness" a week ago. Sellers testified that Patton carried away a box from the hotel suite of a utility official. Patton said the box contained cigars, but Sellers testified it was smaller than a cigar box and apparently made of pasteboard.

Concealed Two Days.

Sellers admitted that he volunteered his testimony to Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.] and that a stenographer took down his testimony at a secret session attended by Senator Black and Senator Sherman Minton [Dem., Ind.]. His testimony was kept quiet for two days while the committee questioned Patton and other witnesses about the incident, then Sellers was brought forward as if he had been discovered suddenly.

Sellers' testimony is to be denied by Patton's daughter and his nephew. The daughter, Miss Bonnie Patton, asserts that Sellers told her after testifying before the senate committee:

"I know that box contained nothing but cigars. In fact, I helped smoke some of them."

SUGGESTED WHISPERING

The witness who gave the senate lobby committee so much excitement over what the members termed a "whispering" campaign against President Roosevelt was E. P. Cramer, a tall, thin haired advertising man of Orange, N. J. Under questioning by Senator Black, chairman of the committee, the witness admitted that he suggested such a campaign to C. E. Groesbeck, chairman of the board of Electric Bond and Share corporation, on March 28.

"Did you have any basis for such a campaign?" Senator Black asked.

"None whatever," Cramer replied. He insisted later, however, that he thought "something was wrong" because "there's so much confusion down here."

Like Fight on Hoover.

"You knew it was false?" Senator Black asked.

"I don't know," the witness said.

Asked whether he intended the campaign to be false, Cramer said it was intended to be "analogous to the campaign against President Hoover."

"Well, it worked, didn't it?" asked Senator Minton.

"I don't know," Cramer said. He denied taking any part in such a campaign and said he didn't know whether his suggestion was carried out.

At the direction of Chairman Black, Cramer read into the record the letter he wrote to Groesbeck, from which excerpts follow:

"I suggest that the officers and directors of our company [Electric Bond and Share] take the leadership in organizing or at least formulating a plan for organizing the security owners of America for the purpose of destroying the New Deal and giving America a sane and honest program in its place.

Suspicion His Desire.

"Among other things I conceive it possible for such an organization to accomplish are:

"A whispering campaign designed to create popular suspicion that the New Dealers and especially the New Dealers in chief are incompetent or insane, discrediting them in the same way that Michaelson [Charles Michaelson, publicity director for the Democratic national committee] so successfully discredited President Hoover."

Among other things suggested by Cramer was a congressional investigation of the brain trust. When asked whether he still favored such an investigation, he replied:

"I certainly do!"

Calls Cramer Stranger.

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—C. E. Groesbeck, chairman of the Electric Bond and Share company, tonight said he did not know E. P. Cramer, who testified today before the senate lobby committee, and had never had any dealings with him.

"I have been informed that a Mr. Cramer of Plainfield, N. J., testified before Senator Black's committee regarding a letter which he wrote me in which he suggested that a whispering campaign be started in connection with New Deal legislation," Groesbeck said. "I have never seen Mr. Cramer and until today I had never heard of him. I had never seen the letter and did not know of its existence.

"The idea of a whispering campaign is in my opinion too ridiculous to even consider, and I do not believe it is necessary for me to state that such a thing would not be tolerated by me personally or any of my associates. Naturally I cannot be responsible for suggestions and statements in letters written to me."

Start Wrecking Chimney, Once Tallest in World

Destruction of the old 250 foot car barn smoke stack at Washington boulevard and Western avenue, for many years after its construction in 1894 the tallest in the world, will begin today. The structure has been adjudged a hazard. The big chimney was a part of the old traction power house at that site, but chimney, power house, and land were purchased ten years ago by the Olson Rug company. The power house, used for a time as a warehouse, was torn down a year ago.

DRIVING CHANGES ARE SLIGHT UNDER NEW TRAFIC CODE

Enforcement Is Delayed; Starts Today.

BY HAL FOUST.

Police Commissioner Allman yesterday was delayed a day in his issuance of an order to enforce in Chicago the new Illinois trafic code, legally effective on July 9. Enforcement, the commissioner said, will begin today.

Motorists on the streets and boulevards will notice little difference in driving under the new regulations since practice and precedent govern automobile operation in Chicago more than does the letter of the law.

The speed limits are boosted five miles an hour by the new code, but Chicago trafic always has moved faster than the old technical maximum of 20 miles an hour in residential districts and 30 in suburban districts. An innovation that the police might enforce is a requirement that no one drive so slowly as to impede a reasonable use of the pavement.

Parking Drive Continues.

Parking regulations in Chicago are unchanged. The only legal parking is with both right wheels within six inches of the curb.

Capt. David Flynn, head of the police trafic division, has been conducting a quiet but consistent campaign of enforcement of these widely violated parking rules. In the last month 2,660 tickets have been issued to motorists parked diagonally from the curb or on the left side of the street. Capt. Flynn points out that diagonal parking is not legal even where merchants have painted diagonal lines in front of their curbs.

In Joliet yesterday was held the third meeting sponsored by the Chicago Motor club this week in which justices of the peace, police magistrates, and state's attorneys have called on Gov. Horner to modify the new trafic code at a special legislative session next month, so that these lower courts will not be deprived of jurisdiction over cases of trafic code violation. A hundred officials from seven counties attended the meeting.

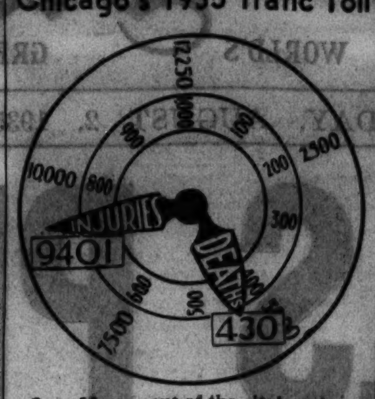
SEEK TO END 'BOTTLENECK'

Members of the city council trafic committee yesterday approved a plan to relieve trafic congestion at Foster avenue and Sheridan road, which will be submitted to the council today for approval. The plan was proposed by Otto Jelinek, trafic engineer for the Chicago park district, and urged by Ald. Frank Keenan [49th], in whose ward the congested intersection is situated.

Under the plan southbound trafic in Sheridan road would be rerouted into Kenmore avenue between Devon and Winona avenues, Kenmore being made a one way street for that distance. The southbound trafic would enter the outer drive at Winona avenue. This would eliminate all southbound trafic at Foster and Sheridan.

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

FIVE PERSONS DIE OF AUTO INJURIES; 2 ARE CHILDREN

Five persons injured in trafic accidents in the Chicago area died yesterday. Two of them were children. The victims:

Eillene McGuire, 3 years old, 7525 Normal avenue, died in the Auburn Park hospital of injuries incurred near her home earlier in the day when she ran into the path of a laundry truck driven by James Sullivan, 55, of 9828 Drexel avenue.

Robert Wasthow, 7 years old, 4921 Merrimac avenue, struck while crossing the street in front of his home by an automobile driven by James Kontzotalos, 35, of 4639 Montana street, died soon after in the Danish American hospital.

Eitel Right, 73 years old, 7509 Greenview avenue, died in St. Francis hospital in Evanston of injuries incurred Wednesday when he was struck by a truck driven by Armand Fillon, 3730 Sheffield avenue, at Howard street and Ashland avenue.

Mrs. Anna Matzner, 64 years old, a Californian visiting at 1929 Addison street, died in St. Joseph's hospital of injuries incurred July 23 as she was crossing the street near that address and was hit by a car driven by Ted Lykowski, 22, of 3833 North Kimball avenue.

Paul Ortegel, 57 years old, 820 Manchester avenue, Westchester, one of four persons injured Sunday in an automobile collision in the suburb, died of his injuries in the Westlake hospital at Melrose Park. An inquest session in the afternoon was continued until Aug. 30 pending the outcome of injuries of the others. They are Ortegel's son, Peter, 28 years old; the latter's daughter, Patricia, 6 years old, and Frank Fullam, 23 years old, all living at the Manchester avenue address. J. A. Rose Jr. of River Forest, driver of the other car, was not injured.

These deaths increased the 1935 trafic toll for Cook county to 545. Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 430 persons had been killed and 9,401 injured in automobile accidents within the Chicago city limits.

FALLS DEAD AT BANK DOOR.

Abraham J. Blumenthal, 50 years old, 1531 Thorndale avenue, a bookkeeper for the General American Tank Car corporation, died of a heart attack yesterday at the Monroe street entrance to the First National Bank and Trust company.

OPPOSE CHARITY PROJECT IN EDITH McCORMICK HOME

BY AL CHASE.

A third zoning fight involving the former home of Edith Rockefeller McCormick was threatened yesterday when Bellevue place property owners announced they would oppose any attempt to open the mansion as the Olivet Institute galleries. The mansion property, at 1000 Lake Shore drive, extends from Oak street on the south to Bellevue place on the north.

Mrs. Howard Linn, president of the committee in charge of the Olivet institute project, announced on Tuesday that the proposed galleries would be "a clearing house for superfluous belongings which persons would like to dispose of and which others would like to acquire at a bargain price." The proceeds, she said, would go to the institute, a social welfare organization.

Organize to Oppose Lease.

Richard S. Folsom, attorney for the board of education, who lives at 61 Bellevue place, and who was active in the two previous zoning battles, announced yesterday that the informally organized Bellevue Place Protective association was prepared to oppose the Olivet lease now awaiting approval by Judge G. Fred Rush of the Circuit court.

"We understand they want to put into the residence a business cloaked with a charitable outer garment," said Folsom. "It'll be a second hand store; they'll buy stuff and sell it, which is business, and as the land is in territory zoned against business, they can't act unless the zoning board of appeals rezones it. We're prepared to fight such a move, as we successfully did a proposed tea room and an art selling project."

"For Charity, Not Profit."

Edwin L. Brashears, receiver for the McCormick property, said yesterday that Evan Evans, chairman of the board of directors of Olivet institute, is trying to see all the nearby Bellevue place residents in an effort to convince them that the project would not be undesirable. The galleries would be operated for charity and not for profit, Brashears said.

Among the Bellevue place property owners who were lined up with Folsom in the other two zoning battles and who are again grouped together to oppose the entry of business are Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, who lives at No. 60; Attorney Edwin W. Sims, No. 112; Arthur D. Welton Jr., attorney, No. 45, and Charles E. Peace, attorney, No. 105.

SENATORS GAIN NOTHING BY QUIZ OF MORGENTHAU

Declines to Give Opinion on Revenue Measure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Members of the senate finance committee, who must shoulder the unwelcome burden of putting President Roosevelt's "soak the rich" taxes into law, threw up their hands in despair today when Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau either could not or would not tell them what the administration wanted.

Mr. Morgenthau sat mute when Senator Harry F. Byrd [Dem., Va.] asked why he didn't go out and tell the country frankly that the tax program was a "farce." He refused to budge an inch when Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], the committee chairman, told him he was "the first secretary of the treasury that hasn't been willing to state his views to the finance committee of the senate."

"It may be," Morgenthau said, "but as long as I am secretary the treasury is not going to have any opinions on a revenue measure."

No Opinions of Own.

With respect to the 270 million dollar house bill on which debate began this afternoon, with the hope that it could be enacted not later than Saturday, Morgenthau had no opinions of his own and he refused to say whether it carried out the suggestions of President Roosevelt in his unheralded message of June 19.

After Senator Harrison had persisted in his efforts to get some opinion from the secretary regarding the house bill, Morgenthau replied:

"Your committee has its experts and the treasury has experts. You place me in a very embarrassing position when you ask me about a bill already introduced in the house."

"I have no intention of trying to embarrass you, but, if possible, to remove our own embarrassment," Harrison replied. "Whether or not I accept the President's philosophy, and I have talked to him many times, as I am sure you have, it is apparent to me that this house bill has been based on the treasury's recommendations."

Senators Appear Surprised.

Senators around the raised platform appeared surprised when Morgenthau let this statement go unchallenged, and Harrison continued:

"If the administration has changed its attitude since the time of the President's message I am willing to go along, but I don't want to get caught coming and going on this proposition."

Mr. Harrison already has been caught three times "coming" or "going" and there was a note of irritation in his speech. When the President's message came up, the senator confidently assured his colleagues that no action was wanted for this session. A few days later, after calling at the White House, he was just as emphatic in his assertion on the senate floor that the President wanted the wealth taxes passed in four days.

Plan Later Repudiated.

Two days later the President repudiated this plan.

Harrison explained to Morgenthau that Mr. Roosevelt had proposed corporation taxes graduated from 10¾ to 16¾ per cent, while the house committee had adopted rates of 13¼ to 14¼ per cent, with a $15,000 dividing line.

"Is it your opinion as secretary of the treasury that we could get more revenue from the rates suggested by the President, without an excess profits tax, or from the house rates with an excess profits tax?" he demanded.

"I consider that a technical question that my training does not qualify me to answer," Morgenthau replied.

Do you think the administration would be satisfied with any tax bill that congress enacted?" Harrison persisted.

"The administration would have to be," replied Morgenthau, making a painful effort to smile.

April Letter Produced.

Harrison then produced a letter Secretary Morgenthau sent up last April, when the bonus question was under consideration, suggesting inheritance taxes based on the individual income rates. He estimated a yield of 300 to 600 million dollars a year.

"Do you still favor inheritance taxes with an exemption of only $1,000, as in the case of unmarried income taxpayers?" Harrison asked.

Morgenthau first said he had changed his mind about the inheritance taxes, but later modified this, saying the letter was merely a suggestion as to what might be done.

"Well, do you think the exemptions on inheritance taxes ought to go down to $1,000?" Harrison repeated.

"It is all a matter of statistics," said the secretary.

"What did you intend in your letter?"

Takes up Another Line.

Senator Harrison, apparently realizing the futility of this procedure, sighed and took up another line of inquiry. He wanted to know whether all the details of the probable revenues from President's proposal were discussed before his message came up.

"No," said Morgenthau.

"The treasury had made no study of these details?" asked Harrison, evidently astonished.

"I withdraw that," said Morgenthau hastily. "The treasury constantly makes studies of taxes and I hope the present staf is familiar with the various possibilities.

The only definite answer Morgenthau vouchsafed was when Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah] asked what policy he favored with respect to the settlement of estates before paying taxes.

"Favor Liberal Policy."

"We favor a liberal policy," he said. When it came to details, however, he bowed his interrogators to Robert H. Jackson, counsel for the bureau of internal revenue.

Senator Augustine Lonergan [Dem., Conn.], obviously having in mind the case of Henry Ford, wanted to know what would happen to a 500 million dollar estate of a manufacturer who died and left a sole heir.

"Assume that it is free of debt, but all of it is tied up in factories, machinery, products and unfinished products and materials," Senator Lonergan said. "The taxes under the existing estate and proposed inheritance taxes would be 440 million dollars. How would you proceed to collect?"

Payment from Earnings.

"If it were free from debt it would be comparatively simple to collect the taxes," Jackson replied. "There would be earnings. Plenty of people would be glad to underwrite a bond issue."

"You mean a 440 million dollar bond issue on a 500 million dollar property?" Senator Lonergan persisted.

"Well, figuring on a ten year basis, the earnings would take care of it," Jackson said.

"Have you ever seen a business put on a forced sale that sold for more than 10 or 20 cents on the dollar?" Lonergan asked.

Jackson insisted that the ten year collection period would prevent a forced liquidation, but Senator Thomas P. Gore [Dem., Okla.] reminded him that after five years the interest alone on the deferred payments of estate and inheritance taxes would be 12 per cent. Senator Gore, smiling, indicated some doubt that the property could earn 440 million dollars, after paying interest of 12 per cent, in ten years.

Quizzed About Deficit.

Senator Byrd then questioned Morgenthau about his suggestion that the wealth taxes should be applied against the national debt.

"What is this year's deficit?" he asked.

"The President's message fixes it at four billion dollars," Morgenthau said.

"Four billion dollars. Well, then, this tax program amounts to about 7 per cent of the deficit," remarked Senator Byrd.

"Seven per cent is seven per cent," Mr. Morgenthau mused, somewhat tentatively.

"Why don't you go out and tell the country frankly that this thing is a farce?" Senator Byrd asked, without getting an answer.

Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, appeared before the committee in favor of exempting up to 5 per cent of corporation net profits from taxation if given to organized charities. President Roosevelt opposed this plan, but the house committee had included it.

Republicans Make Attack.

Led by Representative Bertrand H. Snell of New York, the minority leader, Republicans opened a lively assault on the soak the rich bill and resorted to filibuster tactics to delay adoption of the six hour general debate rule, which was later adopted, 261 to 78.

Representative Allen T. Treadway [Rep., Mass.] demanded a reading of the 96 page tax bill, and this went on for a long period while Democrats steamed. Representative Tom Blanton [Dem., Tex.] demanded that it be stopped, in the interests of economy, saying it was going into the record and "costing the taxpayers $50 a page."

"It doesn't cost any more than your political speeches," Treadway replied.

Snell denounced the President's program as "unsound and un-American" and said it represented a "ruthless application of the political axiom that the power to tax is the power to destroy."

Sees Danger to Recovery.

"It may be instrumental in helping the President's next campaign," he said, "but it will be infinitely more instrumental in destroying all hope of economic recovery and in fastening upon this nation and its people a new form of government, which will destroy our material prosperity, kill all human incentive to work in order to acquire a competence, wipe out the profit system, which is the mainspring of human endeavor and national progress and, finally, destroy individual freedom of action in this country by making every citizen a ward of the federal government."

Condition Is "Fair"

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Julius Sanstang of Brooklyn jumped this afternoon from the Brooklyn bridge into the East river. Out of work more than two years, he hoped the publicity would develop some help for his mother and himself.

He began to swim toward the Manhattan shore, but was carried by the current to a point opposite Beekman street. There he was seen by George Ramsey, special officer of the Beekman Street hospital. Ramsey and some workmen rescued Sanstang. There was a bruise over his left eye and blood was oozing from his ears, nose and mouth. He complained that it was difficult for him to breathe.

Sanstang, 22, says he is a radio mechanic. A doctor reported his condition as "fair."

ROBBERS KILL J. H. OUGHTON AT DWIGHT, ILL.

Keeley Institute Chief Is Shot in Head.

Dwight, Ill., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Dr. James H. Oughton, head of the Keeley institute here, a hospital for the cure of alcoholism, was wounded fatally this afternoon when he was too slow in putting up his hands at the command of one of four robbers who invaded the business office of the hospital. Dr. Oughton, who was wounded twice in the head, died two hours later in the Dwight Community hospital.

Six See Shooting.

Six employés of the institute were in the main office when two of the four robbers entered and threatened them with revolvers. Dr. Oughton heard the commotion from his private office adjoining and was shot by one of the men as he entered the main office.

The robbers hurriedly seized a steel box that was lying on one of the desks and, running to their automobile outside in which their two accomplices waited, were driven away. Witnesses said the men headed toward Chicago on state highway No. 66 in their 1933 black Chevrolet coach with yellow wire wheels. The car bore no license plates. The robbers overlooked $200 on desks in the office and about an equal sum in the safe.

Son of Founder.

Dr. Oughton was the son of J. H. Oughton, a chemist and one of the three founders of the institute in 1879. He was 53 years old. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Barbara Oughton; a daughter, Barbara, and two sons, James and Richard.

15 Give $70 to Legion Fund and Avoid Gambling Fines

Fifteen men arrested as keepers of seven alleged gambling resorts raided by the police on Wednesday avoided fines in the South State Street court of Judge Thomas A. Green yesterday by contributing $70 to the Police post of the American Legion. The places raided were at 1611 East 55th street, 5209 Lake Park avenue, 5400 Kenwood avenue, 5205 Harper avenue, 1252 North Paulina street, 166 West Washington street, and 308 West Washington street.

NORRIS TO FIGHT U. S. LOANS FOR POWER CONCERNS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, public power advocate, today said he would oppose any loans to private utility companies from the government's $100,000,000 fund for rural electrification.

Expressing himself as shocked at indications that Morris Cooke, rural electrification director, planned to use the bulk of the money for loans to private companies, the Nebraska Republican said he intended to protest to Cooke against such a policy.

Cooke said yesterday private utilities had offered to undertake a $238,249,000 rural electrification program, putting up 40 to 50 per cent of the money if they could borrow the remainder from the rural electrification administration. Cooke indicated about 95 per cent of the federal fund, made available in the $4,880,000,000 work relief appropriation, probably would be lent to private companies.

Norris said private utilities have been bringing suits against the government or municipalities at every turn to block public developments. "I don't see any reason to lend them money to continue their nefarious conduct against any municipality that wants to put up a municipal electric system," he added.

PRESIDENT ASKS 4,000 ON RELIEF FOR TAX SURVEY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today authorized the bureau of internal revenue to spend $5,113,125 of work relief funds to put more than 4,000 "white collar" relief clients throughout the nation on jobs checking delinquent taxes, investigating returns on gross incomes of less than $25,000, and making a nation-wide tax check of retail liquor stores.

The information collected, officials said, should aid the government in increasing tax returns.

ROOSEVELT WILL HUNT BETRAYERS OF DEMOCRACY

Miami, Fla., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Theodore Roosevelt came back to the United States tonight from stalking big game in Brazilian jungles and talked of hunting prey of another sort.

"I'm going hunting," he confided with a chuckle, "for betrayers of the Democratic platform."

He parried other political inquiries with the reminder he has been "completely in the blue" since leaving Miami six weeks ago.

Roosevelt said he planned several political speeches in the near future.

TRIBUNE WRITER TELLS STORY OF THE ETHIOPIANS

Explains How They Have Kept Their Freedom.

This is the first of a series of vivid letters received yesterday from The Tribune's staf correspondent, Mr. Barber, depicting Ethiopia and life as it is lived there.

BY WILL BARBER.

[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ADDIS ABABA, July 10.—[By Mail.]—Contrast Ethiopia with our own country or Europe, and you won't find much to praise. Instead you will be tempted to use Europe's favorite term for Ethiopia—a "tin pot kingdom"—and from there it will be easy to go on to think, as a lot of people do, that it is "really rather decent" of the Italians to take it over and civilize it at so much expense to themselves.

All you will need to do is to forget conveniently our American notion that all peoples have a right to rule themselves, however badly, however backwardly. The league of nations seems to have done it with great consistency as regards both the Chinese and the Ethiopians; in fact, that seems to be the only consistent policy of the league. Of course, if you like a good scrap, you can stand by, for Emperor Haile Selassie's warriors, though they are poorly equipped, have their own pride and courage and geography on their side. This article may give you a sketch of what Mussolini's boys are up against.

Ethiopia Poor but Undeveloped.

Ethiopia isn't much of a show. The country is poor, because it is undeveloped; but with a little development it might be rich. You can discount about 75 per cent of the stories of its enormous mineral wealth—only $200,000 of platinum was mined last year, for example—but agriculturally Ethiopia should be wealthy. The emperor is trying to make it so, and by all accounts he is doing a good though slow job.

The capital, Addis Ababa, without electric light except in a few houses, without drainage, with scarcely a good house, or a good store, or a good street as we Americans know them, would be outclassed by almost any American hick town. Then, Ethiopia's ancient customs—slavery, despotism, feudalism, and unthinking cruelty to man and animal—alternately rouse the anger and excite the scorn of more civilized nations.

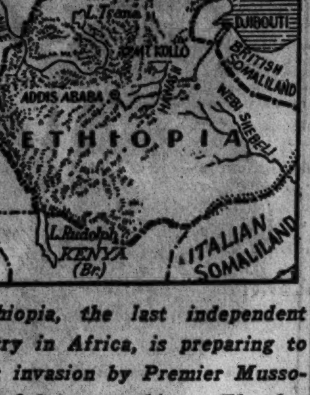
But Ethiopia is the last country in Africa where the natives rule. It is the last spot on earth where black man or brown man—Ethiopians are brown and black and even yellowish olive—can look at the white man as an equal and feel and be independent. It is the only country in Africa that has been able to resist invasion and to remain free, so these people must have something to them. Even today, when the soldiery of Italy, who are imbued with the pride, if perhaps not with the valor, of imperial Rome, menace the northern, southern, and eastern frontiers Ethiopia merits the title given it by the ancient Greeks—"land of the independents."

Liberty and Geography.

Independence is chiefly a matter of geography—wholly so, if you except the warrior race that has inhabited the country for upward of 2,500 years. Just geography of the fifth grade in grammar school, but you don't appreciate it till you feel the scorching sun of the Red sea, till you are baked, fried, roasted, and boiled as your train creeps across the Somali desert outside Djibouti, till you shiver and cringe in the torrential downpour of the summer rains at Addis Ababa, and till your lowland heart and sea level lungs beg for a lower altitude.

When all that has happened to you—but Chicago's such a fine place winter or summer—you can understand geography and the four natural factors in Ethiopia's independence. They are sun, mountains, wind, and rain, as Mussolini's black shirted, cocky young men are finding out this summer.

FIGHTS FOR LIBERTY



Ethiopia, the last independent country in Africa, is preparing to resist invasion by Premier Mussolini's fighting machine. The hot sun, mountains, wind and rain are four great factors in preserving this independence and making this African empire a difficult country to conquer. Ethiopia is a country of 350,000 square miles—roughly the area of Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, and Mississippi lumped together.

Thousands, perhaps millions, of centuries of merciless sun have taken the lowlands that surround Ethiopia on all except the southwestern and northeastern frontiers and made them into scorched and parched deserts, where only goats and Somali or Danakil nomad tribesmen can live. Those deserts today, as in the past, form Ethiopia's best natural barrier against invasion.

Then there are the mountains, into which the Ethiopian has retired on the rare occasions when invaders have succeeded in crossing the deserts. In the north, in the part of the country inhabited by the old stock of Amhara, grandsons of Ham, the mountains rise thousands of feet, with several peaks thrusting up to almost 14,000 feet. Snow covered Dajan reaches 15,160 feet, and Mount Kollo 14,100 feet. The mountains fall away, west and east, into rolling uplands, where millions of cattle could graze and only a slight effort of man is needed to bring three crops a year out of rich soil.

The sun and the mountains enter into combination with the wind and the rain to complete the natural defenses. They also form the wealth of Ethiopia.

The wind is the monsoon. It blows out of the Indian ocean, sweeps in hot, dry gusts across the coastline deserts of northeastern Africa, rushes over the uplands and breaks against the high and sun-baked mountains of northwestern Ethiopia. It brings the rains that water the high plateaus and turn dry riverbeds into roaring torrents. A few minutes before the rain the rivers could be crossed dryshod—your boots would even be covered with dust—but when the rain comes the rivers become impassable.

Rain Blocks Roads.

In the rainy season, which starts in June and ends in mid-September, except that this year it started two months earlier, all roads [or such tracks as exist] become impassable mud and the streams in the deep gorges rise many feet. The Takkaze, or Terrible, which runs irregularly northward to the Nile and skirts the Italian possession of Eritrea, rises eighteen feet as it rushes down from the tableland 7,000 feet up. It makes an impassable barrier between the central and northern provinces in the rainy season.

To every one who knows Ethiopia and guesses at what Mussolini may do next, the rains, far more than the league of nations or the efforts of Great Britain or an appeal to the Kellogg anti-war pact, explain why war has not begun yet.

Throughout history lowland peoples have looked toward the mountains and fertile plateaus and dreamed of conquest, but geography and their own natural fierce courage have kept the Ethiopians free. Can geography still do it? This is a question that can be answered only by the ultimate test in war of the value of the Italian troops.

Rain Also a Danger.

Ethiopia, without her allies of sun, mountains, wind, and rain, would be just another bit of desert like the Sudan or the Sahara, and Mussolini would never bother to trouble himself or the world about the matter.

The rain, while it blesses Ethiopia, is the greatest of all natural dangers to this country. For besides bringing wealth to the uplands the rain means the Nile, and, in the classic phrase, "the Nile is Egypt and Egypt is the Nile." To continue, "And Great Britain has Egypt and the Nile." She means to keep them and a 30 year old treaty with Ethiopia, signed by the Emperor Menelik, forbids Ethiopia to construct any dam that might obstruct the course of the Blue Nile, which rises in northwestern Ethiopia, runs twenty miles through Lake Tsana, and tumbles hundreds of miles down the mountains to join the White Nile near Khartum, bearing the silt that makes the Nile basin fertile.

Nile Factor in Situation.

The Nile is not concerned directly in Ethiopia's present struggle with Italy for independence, but possession of the Nile obliges Great Britain to favor the aspirations of Italy as a means of keeping a good ally in Africa in case the Ethiopians should ever try to abrogate the treaty. However great the British efforts at present to prevent war between Italy and Ethiopia, the Nile is and "must be British," and its best defense will be the ultimate consideration when Great Britain takes sides.

Farmers in the American cotton states already have reason to curse the act of nature that threw up Ethiopia's mountains and made the Nile, for Britain has constructed dams across the Nile and is developing a vast triangle enclosed by the Blue and White Niles for growing cotton. In a few years, if all goes well, Great Britain will have her own cotton. Then American cotton growers, just as the Egyptians do today, will regret the day Britain got astride the Nile and Menelik made his treaty.

To complete a geographical sketch of this country of 350,000 square miles—roughly the area of Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, and Mississippi lumped together—the White Nile also draws a great and important flood of water from western Ethiopia, while to the east and northeast and southeast the land is almost waterless.

Hawash Sinks in Sands.

The big Hawash rises in the central highlands, rushes bravely in the rainy season through deep gorges and floods lowlands, but, just as many an Italian soldier will want to do, gives up in the Somali desert and sinks deep into the sands not many miles from French Somaliland. The other big river that runs eastward, the Webi Shebeli, is braver, but about twenty miles from the Indian ocean in Italian Somaliland it turns abruptly to follow the coastline 200 miles and then also disappears into the sands, leaving only marshes to mark its destination. Not much for the Italians.

Then besides Tsana there are lakes in the south, but they contribute little to the defense or the wealth of Ethiopia.

That is one worry off Mussolini's teeming mind, but, unless modern weapons such as airplanes, gas, tanks and machine guns, plus heavy artillery, overwhelm the Ethiopians in a few short battles, the Italians will have much to do before they can conquer this country. You only have to see the independent bearing of these people—"they act as if they owned the place," and to Italy's regret they still do—to realize that even if the last battle is won by the Italians it will take them years to settle the country, reorganize it along Italian lines and make a profit.

By that time Mussolini stands an excellent chance of being only an exciting memory.

ALLOT ILLINOIS $4,800,500 FOR 2 WEEKS' RELIEF

An allotment of $4,800,500 in direct relief funds was received from the federal government yesterday by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission to cover expenses for the first two weeks of August.

Illinois was one of thirteen states to which was allocated only enough money for half a month. What the state will receive for the last half of August, it was said, will depend partly on how much money the state itself can raise for relief and partly upon the swing from the dole to work relief jobs.

However, no official explanation was forthcoming from Washington for the half monthly allocation. It was understood, however, that the capital is anxious first to watch the development of the Works Progress administration before allocating more direct relief money.

The WPA, one of the latest of the government spending agencies, has four billion dollars to distribute.

BRITISH LEADER WARNS ITALY TO KEEP THE PEACE

Foreign Chief Insists War Must Be Averted.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Reviewing the international situation in the house of commons today, Foreign Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare reiterated Great Britain's determination to stand by the league of nations.

"We are fully conscious of our obligations both under our treaties and under the covenant of the league and we intend to uphold them," he said.

After warning the commons that if war broke out between Italy and Ethiopia there would be a "world calamity," Hoare said:

"Italy has complaints against Ethiopia. Let her make them in a proper and regular manner. There are complaints which can be settled without recourse to war, which would lead to confusion in Europe and perhaps the dtstruction of the forces of peace.

Sees Disaster in War.

"A war would be wholly bad, long or short, whoever was the victor. If war breaks out all the pacts in the world would be little more than scraps of paper. There would be endless controversies, crises, and disastrous reactions outside Europe."

The foreign secretary then told the house that throughout the Italo-Ethiopian controversy he had tried to keep the United States government fully informed of the attitude of the British government and the gravity with which it regarded the situation.

"It was with great satisfaction, though no surprise, that I noticed the condemnation by the American government of any possible recourse to war," he said.

"I should not be honest with the house if on this last day before recess I did not say the state in Europe remains one of gloom and apprehension."

More Troops Sent to Africa.

ROME, Aug. 1.—(AP)—A vigorous assertion in the Rome newspaper La Tribuna that the league of nations had no recourse but to accept Italy's own solution of her dispute with Ethiopia was backed up today with the dispatch of more soldiers to Africa.

"Total solution" of the controversy, officials and the controled press have said time and again, must involve Ethiopia's complete submission to Italy—submission to be brought about by force, if need be.

The steamer Quirinale sailed out of Naples for Massaua, Eritrea, this evening, carrying 585 soldiers of the sanitary corps equipped to establish nine field hospitals. They followed more than 2,000 troops and workmen sailing earlier aboard the Viminale and the Romolo. Both vessels were to pick up more men at Messina, Sicily.

Simultaneously the government increased interest on its latest ordinary issue of 1,000,000,000 lire [$81,000,000] and on savings accounts from 4 to 5 per cent. Financial circles said the aim was to stimulate bond sales and increase cash savings. The bond issue was announced June 20 to cover the deficit for the fiscal year ending June 30, increased because of large scale troop movements.

WOMEN OF ETHIOPIA BEG TO FIGHT BESIDE THEIR MEN IN BATTLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Aug. 1.—Ethiopia's barefooted, brown skinned, and backward people today again pledged themselves to protect their independence by fighting the Italians to death.

There were two patriotic massmeetings in the capital. Neither was organized by the government. Women of all classes of society and young men from the middle class simply gathered at the call of their leaders because they feel that war is inevitable.

Youths of the recently formed patriotic society, "Love of Country," gathered in a vast dank field opposite the war ministry and 2,000 men, women, children, and soldiers listened to their orators tell the need of standing rifle to rifle and spear to spear to resist the Italians.

Even more impressive and indicative of the Ethiopians' feeling was the women's rally later in the day. It was the third meeting of the Women's Patriotic league, and the purpose was to raise money for the Red Cross. About $20,800 was pledged.

"Our husbands are going to battle, what is the use of our staying here? Let us die with them," was the refrain of most speeches. Others dwelt on the necessity of helping the wounded and encouraging the warriors.

Franklin Roosevelt Jr. Is Truck Driver for Day

Belleville, N. J., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—A truck driver for a day was the rôle recently filled by Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., third son of the President, it was learned here today. Young Roosevelt, on vacation from Harvard university, is gaining business experience in the Belleville plant of the National Grain Yeast company, of which his brother, James Roosevelt, is president. Franklin Roosevelt is working in the departments of the plant. His truck driving experience was gained while working in the delivery department.

LUMBER WORKERS STRIKE.

Escanaba, Mich., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—With demands for increased wages and better working conditions, 300 employés of the I. Stephenson company plant at Wells went on strike late today. This is the third strike in the upper peninsula lumbering industry in the last few weeks.

"NO WAR," URGES ROOSEVELT IN AFRICAN CRISIS

Asks Peaceful Solution as League Acts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—As the league of nations began consideration of the East African controversy President Roosevelt today expressed the hope that the dispute between Italy and Ethiopia will be settled without warfare.

"At the moment," the President said in a public statement, "when the council of the league of nations is assembled to consider ways for composing by pacific means the differences that have arisen between Italy and Ethiopia, I wish to voice the hope of the United States that amicable solution will be found and that peace will be maintained."

Seen as Repair Attempt.

In the statement President Roosevelt was seen as attempting to repair the damage he did to the state department's cautious diplomacy in the crisis last week when he said he considered the Ethiopian-Italian dispute no concern of America. This definition of the American position was hastily delivered by the President in an outline of American neutrality aims.

As the "no concern" statement was in sharp opposition to state department assertions that America was deeply concerned for peaceful solution of the controversy, state department officials bended their efforts toward securing a retraction from the White House. These efforts were reported to have been responsible for the President's public statement of today.

Backs League's Action.

The public statement, according to foreign experts, again puts the moral support of the United States behind the league's arbitration moves. Secretary of State Hull had flung American support behind the league in his reply to Emperor Haile Selassie's appeal to the United States to invoke the Kellogg-Briand anti-war pact as a means of halting conflict between Italy and Ethiopia.

The President's move was also interpreted as supporting Great Britain which has taken the lead in supporting pacific settlement. This interpretation was strengthened by Sir Ronald Lindsay's visit to the state department yesterday. The British ambassador is reported to have discussed coöperation by America and Great Britain toward avoiding war.

In his reply to the Ethiopian appeal Secretary Hull said that the league appeared to be mediating the dispute satisfactorily and that this government was loathe to believe that Italy and Ethiopia as signatories to the anti-war pact would resort to arms.

A week later in a public statement, which was seen as an effort to placate pacifists and internationalists alienated by the course of the clash, Secretary Hull said the United States was interested in maintaining the sanctity of the pact and in the world wide maintenance of peace.

HARLEM'S BLACK EAGLE RIDES WHITE CHARGER IN MILITARY REVIEW

ADDIS ABABA, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Col. Hubert Julian, the "Black Eagle of Harlem," rode a white charger down the streets of Addis Ababa during today's military review.

That gave rise to reports that the American Negro flyer, who has volunteered his services to Emperor Haile Selassie, would be put in command of Ethiopia's air force.

Receiving the press, Col. Julian solemnly announced that Italy has 800 planes and Ethiopia 10.

CHINESE HUSBAND OF TORSO SLAYER SEEN IN MICHIGAN

Smith and Dunkel Women Mute in Court.

Michigan police were searching the Kalamazoo region last night following admissions by Chinese farmers there that Harry Jung, Chinese husband of Mrs. Evelyn Smith, the confessed slayer of Ervin Lang, was seen there as late as last Sunday night.

Roy Arnold and Bert Gray, state's attorney's investigators, last night were in Kalamazoo, where they talked to one of the farmers whose name is also Harry Jung. Dispatches said that Farmer Jung denied knowing the other Jung's whereabouts.

Mrs. Smith admitted that she and Jung drove to Kalamazoo, in the same borrowed car they used to dump Lang's body in a swamp north of Hammond, on July 10, four days after the murder. The following day she took a bus to New York, where she was arrested last Saturday night.

Women Arraigned For Murder.

While the search for Jung was centering in Michigan, Mrs. Smith, her usual blithe self, and her co-defendant, Mrs. Blanche Dunkel, Lang's mother-in-law, were arraigned for his murder before Acting Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court.

"Standing mute" before the bench —Mrs. Dunkel choked with sobs and Mrs. Smith alert and with a quizzical expression on her face—the pair made no answer when Clerk Harry Harmon demanded their plea.

Mrs. Dunkel looked up imploringly for a moment; Mrs. Smith muttered something to the prosecutor, Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty.

"They both stand mute, your honor," Dougherty said. "I suggest that not guilty pleas be entered for them."

This was done and the case was set for Monday with the understanding that witnesses would not be summoned. It is possible that either or both will change their pleas to guilty at that time. In a series of questions, Judge Harrington then ascertained from the sobbing Mrs. Dunkel that she was 42 years old, of German-Irish descent and had no lawyer.

Ordered to Hire Lawyer.

"I am the guest of the state's attorney," she said. The judge did not acknowledge this statement but informed her that since she had $400 in a bank account she could not have the services of the public defender. She was told that she would have to hire counsel and that the public defender would act for her until she did.

Answering questions readily when it was her turn to speak, Mrs. Smith said she was 46 years old, was born in Germany, had no lawyer, no funds and no property. Her case was then given to Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach and without further ceremony both women were sent to the county jail.

Lang's mother, Mrs. Margarreta Lang, 3729 Greenview avenue, yesterday was granted letters of administration in the estate of her son by Clarence P. Wagner, assistant to Probate Judge O'Connell. According to the petition filed by Attorney Andrew J. O'Donnell, Lang left personal property worth $3,000, consisting of a $2,500 life insurance policy, $500 in a safe deposit box, and $100 worth of miscellaneous property.

Just a Bum, Says Mrs. Smith.

Before being taken through the tunnel to the county jail, Mrs. Smith submitted to an extraordinary interview in which she cheerfully discussed her early life and admitted for the first time that her real name is Evelyn Valkovia.

"I'm just a bum, I guess," said the woman who has confessed to stupefying Lang with liquor, strangling him with a rope and later cutting off his legs with a hack-saw—all "as a favor to Mrs. Dunkel."

"All my life I've been a bum, ever since I was 9 years old," she continued, turning politely from one questioner to another. "I've never been afraid of anybody or anything and I'm not now, not even the chair. I'll take that back. I was afraid of a girl once, a girl that I bummed with. Her name was Joyce and she was big and mannish. She carried a gun and I was kind of scared of her."

Not to Blame, She Asserts.

"Are you going to stand by your confession?" a reporter inquired.

"Well," said the tall, scrawny woman, pensively fingering the artificial bloom on her sallow cheeks, "I made it; it's true. But I'm not to blame. Mrs. Dunkel egged me on and hounded me until I did it."

"What did you do it for, money?"

"No, I never got a cent."

"Well then why?" persisted the questioner.

"Just as a favor," said the murderess blandly.

"A favor!" gasped her listeners in chorus. "It was quite a favor."

"Yes," she agreed cheerfully. "I guess it was."

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 1. —(AP)—The Haugwitz family's old baronal castle at Hardenberg has been thoroughly dusted and its staf of thirty-five is excitedly awaiting the arrival tomorrow of Count Court von Haugwitz-Reventlow and his bride, the former Barbara Hutton Mdivani.

Court's elder brother, Count Heinrich, head of the family, who uses few of the castle's many rooms, has reopened the main part, renovated fifteen rooms, and moved his own apartments to another part. It was learned Heinrich speeded up the date of the newlyweds' arrival by wiring them last week:

"The castle is now in order. If you do not come now I will close it down again."

Britain Protests Arrest of Citizen by Japanese

LONDON, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare told the house of commons today that the British government had made representations to Japan concerning the arrest of a British citizen. GAMBLING DEVICE DESTROYED; $400 AWARDED OWNER

A judgment of $400 against Lake Forest and its police chief, Frank Tiffany, for dismantling a confiscated pin-ball gambling machine, was returned yesterday by Justice of the Peace Michael J. Haney of Lake Forest in favor of James Tyrrell of Waukegan.

The machine was seized in the pool hall of Frank Steele in Lake Forest some days ago. Steele pleaded guilty to possession of a gambling device and paid a fine of $5.

Tyrrell, who owned the machine, then sought to recover it through a writ of replevin. He was informed that it had been destroyed in accordance with a Lake Forest ordinance. Tyrrell then brought the suit for $400, which he declared was the value of the machine.

NEW DEAL GOAL IS DICTATORSHIP: COL. McCORMICK

'Roosevelt Revolution' Hit by Publisher.

Mount Carroll, Ill., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, assailed the New Deal in a speech here tonight on "Save the Republic" before a patriotic rally of citizens and newspaper editors. He declared that when the mask of "economic planning has been stripped off the New Deal we are confronted with the hideous face of dictatorship, of tyranny, of prison without trial, and, in due course, of political assassination."

Col. McCormick was the guest of honor and principal speaker at a "back to Americanism and the constitution" rally called to stimulate interest in fundamental Americanism. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Commercial club here.

Progress Is Reviewed.

Speaking from Martin street hill in the center of Mount Carroll, Col. McCormick reviewed the accomplishments in science and invention since the civil war.

He called upon the younger generation to carry on these achievements, declaring there is "as much room for enterprise and imagination and courage as there ever was, and as much room for achievement as there ever was—unless it is to be stilled by an inquisition or a cheka."

"Do you want to go forward into this promised land of achievement and opportunity . . . or do you want to be the first generation of American drones, living pitiably on the dole at the sufferance of relief workers?" he asked.

Decisions Are Discussed.

Col. McCormick assailed the activities of the New Deal and discussed six points on which the Supreme court recently ruled against legislation sponsored by the administration in Washington.

"Haven't we had enough of rule by minds in the alphabet stage? Or do we want to be ruled indefinitly by these irresponsible infantiles, without restraint or constitutional limitation?" he asked.

TEXT OF SPEECH

Following is the text of Col. McCormick's speech at Mount Carroll:

You are gathered here with the exalted purpose of restoring the government of the United States into the keeping of men and women who wish to preserve the republic.

Even before the Supreme court spoke you appreciated that the President in office and a large majority in congress intended to change our republic of states, united by a constitution providing for a national government of limited powers, administered by three separate branches, into a single omnipotent state ruled over by a despot like the dictatorships of Italy and Germany.

I have been informed that you have invited me to address you at this patriotic meeting because you consider that I was the first person to speak in opposition to the dictatorship sought to be set up in Washington.

Sees Purpose of Legislation.

If I opposed the alphabet laws from their inception it was because I distinguished the purpose of the legislative and executive usurpations. At no time was I doubtful of the significance of the Roosevelt revolution, as President Roosevelt himself described his action. At no time did I approve his conduct or the political and economic philosophy upon which it was based. I never deplored or detested the institutions under which all the progress of mankind has been made. I was never a disbeliever in our republic nor at any time a doubter of its institutions. I have never thought that we should be misled by evil conditions of either an economic or political nature to even consider a change in our form of government.

Frequently, as I read these reiterated attacks on American ways, I have reviewed the great events that have taken place in my lifetime and before its beginning and discussed them with my mother, who lived to witness the crash of 1929.

Tells Stories of Troubles.

Indeed, she who had seen the civil war, the panic of '73, the Haymarket murders, and the hard times of '93 was not greatly perturbed, and observed wistfully that circumstances could not become much worse for either of us than they had been at my birth, when my father, having lost everything, and her father being deeply in debt, she had to seek asylum in the house of her sister, and she retold stories of troubles in her early days and tales of hardship told by her mother and grandmother quite beyond anything I could remember in this country.

Yet her generation had come into a generous birthright. The free continent had been discovered; the ocean had been crossed; the constitutional republic had been established.

Much also had been done in applied science. The cotton gin and agricultural machinery had made possible the end of human slavery and had banished starvation for the first time in history. Already steam drove boats, railways, and factories. The telephone came in her lifetime, and running water.

No Steam Heat Then.

In my boyhood there were elevators, gaslight, and furnaces, but no such thing as steam heat, and no house was warm on a cold day.

Horse cars and omnibuses, with straw on the floor to keep the feet warm in winter, were well patronized, for the streets were not paved; few people owned private carriages, while walking had its disadvantages in the absence of continuous sidewalks and in street crossings that were dusty or muddy according to the season. It was a memorable occasion when a friend of my father drove us to see the first asphalt street. Chicago was not fully paved until less than thirty years ago.

When my father, representing the then forthcoming World's Fair, took his family to Europe, I accepted the Pullman car, at which Mark Twain had marveled, as a matter of course, and the steamboat which had so excited Charles Dickens. Both were illuminated by oil lamps and neither was equipped with plumbing.

Poles Discovered in His Time.

On shipboard Capt. Zalinski, famous as the inventor of the dynamite gun, had one of the first kodak cameras, and Commander Emory was pointed out as the rescuer of Gen. Greely, which brings to mind that both the north and south poles have been discovered during my time, but long after my own trip to the arctic.

In London we had no telephone. There was no gas in our house, no running water in the rooms.

Reading was by candle light, and two candles were the standard of light for reading, either for study or for amusement.

When I was sent away to school I found that the bicycle had not yet come to that part of England. There was, however, an old relic called a "bone shaker" in the school, a two wheeled wooden vehicle that a man was supposed to straddle, touching the ground with his toes. An adventure was to coast it down a hill to the alarm of my companions.

The so-called safety bicycle was developed at that time and became an important stepping stone in the design of the automobile and the invention of the airplane.

Find Change in Chicago.

When we returned for the World's Fair we found quite a change in Chicago. Cable cars had been introduced, and a new marvel—an engine that made electric light!

At that time fire was one of the great menaces of the city. Cholera, typhoid fever, yellow fever, smallpox, and tuberculosis were still beyond the control of the medical profession.

The saddest letter I have ever read was written by my grandfather upon the discovery that his wife was dying from consumption. The theory of bacteria had just come into being. My grandfather, a farsighted man, accepted it, but in his misery he was unable to differentiate science from his religious training and could not understand why "germs" would be allowed to attack so lovely and pure a woman.

In summer we moved to my grandfather's farm, where I now live. We did not have a telephone, electricity or gas. We had a wooden windmill which did not pump all the water needed. During the annual drouths we drove stock to the river and hauled water for the milk cattle and the hogs. The roads were entirely unpaved, and in the spring horses frequently sank in them up to their bodies.

Worked Hard All Day.

Farm life consisted of working all day long, pumping such water as the windmill did not supply, if the well had not run dry, and chopping firewood. The only time that the farmers got to town was when they drove their farm teams to church.

Mr. Edward Hurley and my father built the first paved road in Illinois, a mile long and about seven feet wide. General road building was not begun until fully fifteen or twenty years afterwards.

The steel air-motor, one of the sensations of its time, and a step forward in steel engineering from which airplanes have benefited, improved conditions, but sometimes left us short of water.

When the telephone reached the city of Wheaton my grandfather brought it to his farm. We planted the poles and helped string the telephone wires.

Shortly after the telephone came an electric railroad brought electric current to Wheaton. Additional wires were strung along our pole line, then electric light, the electric motor, the fan, and the pump electrified our farm thirty years before the Tea Pot Domes on the Tennessee river and the Missouri river mud pies occurred to the kindergarten minds of the brain trust.

Replaced by New Line.

Other farms tapped our line. It was extended. Later we conveyed it to the power company, and now a large pole line has replaced our little one and has long been part of a comprehensive system.

Not long before this time we learned of Edison and were hearing about a man called Nicola Tesla. Somewhat later Marconi came into our sight.

My grandfather, who was among Edison's earliest supporters, had me given such instruction in electricity as was then obtainable. In consequence, and as the result of great effort and great persuasion on my part and great kindness on her part, my mother allowed me to install an electric bell at our front door. It worked, to everybody's surprise, and her friends all employed me to do the same. That would violate the child labor laws today. It would, of course, also violate union rules, but there was no electricians' union then and there were no electricians. Later I took the full college course in electricity.

There were both oil lamps and gas street lights in Chicago, but the latter were so new that during a good part of my boyhood it was difficult to keep children from breaking them. Electric lighting began after the year 1900. Five years later we equipped the whole city with arc lights and operated the pumps of the waterworks with electric motors.

Recalls X-ray Discovery.

In 1895 Röntgen discovered the X-ray. To him, to heroic experimenters, and to those who have produced it commercially we are indebted for an invaluable aid in diagnosis and in the treatment of the dread disease of cancer.

During my boyhood I saw the first automobile race, a race which was not completed. Less than half of the automobiles climbed the grade of the bridge across the Chicago river, and not one was able to get over the hill in Lincoln park.

I saw the forerunner of the speedboats of today, called an "explosion boat" because of its noise.

Some of my contemporaries think that the Spanish war of 1898 marks a turning point in American character. It was a pure crusade to free the Cubans from Spanish tyranny; it drew American armies into the Philippines, which most of us had never heard of, and eventually into Peking. The political results have betrayed our high purposes, but it led to the eradication of yellow fever and typhoid fever, two of the greatest achievements of any time, and two of the greatest justifications of any war.

War "Grim Necessity."

To me the war twenty years later was a grim necessity, with no compensations but self-preservation, and carried on by the party in power with more attention to political advantage than to the welfare of the soldiers or the cause of victory.

In 1902 I saw automobiles used in Europe. The same year Santos-Dumont was celebrated for his efforts to fly a cigar shaped gas bag. This gave me the idea to rent a balloon, in which I rode some fifty miles out from Paris. Navigation was simple. The pilot threw cigaret papers overboard. When they fell we considered that we were going up; when they rose we knew we were falling.

It was not much of a stunt, but the town of Tournan, where we landed, gave us a banquet, and we were escorted up the Champs Elysées in a procession when we returned to Paris and were elected to the Aero club of France.

The next time I went up in a balloon was to direct batteries of cannon and without banquets, processions or club memberships.

Hears Man Will Fly.

It must have been memory of my balloon flight that took me to Washington in 1908, where I heard that a man was to fly a machine, for my generation had been brought up on the story of Darius Green and had been told that flying machines and perpetual motion machines were obviously impossible and could not be patented.

I waited all day for the demonstration, but not until the still air of dusk was an awkward looking contrivance brought out and attached to a starting apparatus. When the machine rose in the air and flew, I felt the supreme sensation of a life not devoid of thrills. Wright flew for as much as a mile or two, and modestly landed away from the crowd. I have never seen him since.

It has taken many men and much cost—almost thirty years—to develop the invention into the commercial vehicle that now covers the world. It only took Jim Farley ten minutes to wreck it and cause the death of ten gallant soldier pilots, sacrificed on the altar of spoils politics.

Gets "a Nasty Shock."

Wireless telegraphy and radio did not astonish me because they were within the range of my experience, but the former gave me a nasty shock. All the night of March 20, 1918, we had been replying to heavy shell fire. We had fired on the enemy batteries, on his approach trenches, and, as dawn came, on his departing trench. Whether the expected attack was broken up by our fire, as we like to think, or by a heavy rain that neutralized his superiority in gas shells, or had never been planned, it did not come, and I went back to inspect my batteries and other groups in my command.

At the wireless station I found that the operator, a native of Germany, had taken and translated an announcement boasting that "In the presence of his imperial and royal majesty the armies of the northeast have broken the English front along a distance of eighty kilometers. After driving these enemies into the sea our armies will wheel and shut up the French and the Americanish against the mountain wall in a ring of steel."

For long days we lived in such an atmosphere of impending doom that the march to the battle and the battle itself were a relief.

In Suspense for Long Time.

In just such a suspense have we all been living for the last two years. Is it not a joy of combat to be fighting for our country again?

War films first drew my interest to moving pictures, although their commercial success was already established and their technical perfection yet to come.

Telegraphing of photographs was inaugurated by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE ten years ago. Perfection of this form of communication has only recently been achieved by the Western Electric company, and their use has just been a subject of heated controversy among the members of the Associated Press.

Artificial cooling of rooms has resulted in a system efficient for large buildings and is becoming practicable for the home.

These are a very few of the accomplishments of my generation, selected because they have especially impressed me or because I have had a small part in their achievement.

We inherited textile and farming machinery, plumbing, furnaces, ice boxes, sewing machines, steam engines, railroads, steamboats, gas light, telegraph, and telephones.

Many New Inventions.

Among the innovations too infinite to recapitulate this generation has added electric light and power, electric railroads, electrical printing machinery, electric sweepers, washing machines, steam heat, air conditioning, paved roads, automobiles, talking machines, moving pictures, photo engraving, wirephotos, wireless telegraphy, X-ray, radium, radio, and airplanes.

The generation before mine added to the devices at the service of mankind and to the dynamic wealth of the world more than all of the generations that preceded it, and my own has added more than that one and all of its predecessors combined.

Strange consequence. This indescribable achievement has led to a doctrin that we and our forbears have produced everything and that all that remains for the coming generation to do is to divide the fruits of our efforts.

I scorn the suggestion that our race has exhausted its courage and its capacity. I claim that the young men of today have the courage of the men of Concord, of Chancellorsville and of Château-Thierry.

Opportunity for Youth.

You young men have the honesty, the courage and the enterprise to go forward with a generation of achievement of your own, to carry forward the torch of civilization and leave to your successors a civilization as far beyond that which we have made as ours is beyond the splendid achievements of our fathers.

What does lie ahead for you? What paths remain to open? What continents to explore? What inventions to make? What monsters to conquer?

Though it is too much to ask me to foretell all that your generation should do, I can indicate some of your first steps.

Make the airplane as safe, as cheap, and as universal as our generation has made the automobile. Make it possible for any one of your children to leave this building and fly straight to his home, be it in Milwaukee or in Manila. This will not be as great an advance upon the present stage of aviation as the modern automobile is upon the horseless carriage of my college days. You may have to sacrifice some smallness of character to bring it about. You may have to see some man or men rise high above the plain of mediocrity and the valley of failure. Would you consider the rise of another man as outstanding as, yes, as rich as Henry Ford, too big a price to pay for such a blessing to mankind?

Would Create Wealth.

Perfect a device to use the energy lost in stopping the momentum in all the trains, trucks, elevators, boats and other machinery. The value of such a device to humanity will be only less than that of the steam engine. It will create activity and wealth as great as is produced by any one of the great industries created by my generation. It will employ profitably and honorably the unfortunates whom the taxeaters have thrown upon the dole.

Perfect the cooling systems that we have begun as we perfected the rude house heating of our youth, so that men may live as comfortably in the deserts and the tropics as they now can live in Wisconsin and Minnesota winters.

Bring into production the tropic lands with their untouched resources. They are no more difficult of access to you than were the American swamps and forests to your fathers.

What if Amundsen has discovered the south pole and Peary the north pole, and a few of us have opened the sub-Arctic forests and are opening the Arctic mines? We leave to you for development, if not for exploration, an area as great as the North American continent, almost the entire Arctic and the sub-Arctic world in which to find minerals and fuel to supply the inventive geniuses of your generation.

Seas to Be Explored.

Oil wells have been drilled under water off the California coast. Explorers have penetrated a mile beneath the ocean surface. Has it occurred to you how much of the submarine earth lies within five thousand feet of the top? All of the rivers and all of the lakes, all of the Baltic sea, the Black sea, the Caspian sea, half of the Mediterranean, eighteen million square miles of ocean bottom—a greater area than North and South America, as fully explored as the Americas were when John Smith drove communism from Virginia.

Tired old men and timid young men to the contrary, explorers have not penetrated far into the dark continents of chemistry, of mechanics, and of electricity. In the applied sciences mechanics is taking up the metal alloys as fast as chemistry finds them. Printing presses are calling for new qualities in inks, and inks provide new uses for printing, which allow that old art and profession to keep pace with entirely new forms of conveying information.

The limit of closed circuit electricity, which the politicians have just discovered, was reached thirty years ago, but open circuit or tube electricity is a promised land which we of my generation may view but not enter, but in which you may become Franklins, Bells, Edisons, and De Forests.

Scientific Field Open.

In pure science the discovery of heavy atoms or atomic isotopes indicates that other unknown worlds lie before you, that when an effective way of disintegrating matter is found, amounts of energy will be made available, far greater than we have produced from coal and oil engines.

There is as much room for enterprise and imagination and courage as there ever was, and as much room for achievement as there ever was—unless it is to be stilled by an inquisition or a cheka.

Do you want to go forward into this promised land of achievement and opportunity, which we can see but will not live to enter, or do you want to be the first generation of American drones, living pitiably on the dole at the sufferance of relief workers?

I need not ask that question here. The would-be imitators of Mussolini do not come from this part of the country. We have not been deceived by the parlor pinks.

We know that the depression came upon us as a consequence of the great war and that it has been protracted by the most reckless legislation and the most egotistical administration this country has ever experienced.

Accident of Politics.

We suffer because accident of politics threw our government into the hands of a band of self-satisfied sociologists, none of whom had ever earned his own living or supplied work to others.

Accustomed to receive money for the asking from their fathers, mothers, or other sources of support, they have thought it easy to obtain whatever the incompetent fragment of the population wanted from the self-supporting elements.

For three years the ship of state has been sailed by a crew from the Bab ballads. You recall:

"Little Jack Horner
Sat in the corner,
Eating a Christmas pie;
He put in his thumb,
And he took out a plum,
And said, 'What a good boy am I!'"

Each of our Jack Horners has been sitting in a corner eating pie; each has pulled out a plum and each has cried, "See what a good thing have I."

Hence, the unbearable burden of taxes under which industry has been staggering, and of licenses, codes, and regulations which a unanimous decree of the Supreme Court has held to be unconstitutional.

Dictatorship Is Objective.

Haven't we had enough of rule by minds in the alphabet stage? Or do we want to be ruled indefinitly by these irresponsible infantiles, without restraint or constitutional limitation? For be very sure that what they seek is a dictatorship modeled after those of Lenin, Hitler, and Mussolini.

The act deceptively and falsely labeled the National Recovery act, passed by congress under the lash of President Roosevelt, sought to give him the absolute power to write criminal laws and to put American citizens in jail for disobeying them.

Lest you think I am mistaken or that I deceive you in this, I will read from the decision of Chief Justice Hughes:

"The question then turns upon the authority which section 3 of the recovery act vests in the President to approve or prescribe. If the codes have standing as penal statutes this must be due to the effect of the executive action, but congress cannot delegate legislative powers to the President to exercise an unfettered discretion to make whatever laws he thinks may be needed or advisable.

May Impose Own Conditions.

"As already noted, the President, in approving a code, may impose his own conditions, adding to or taking from what is proposed, as in his discretion he thinks necessary 'to effectuate the policy' declared by the act. Of course he has no less liberty when he prescribes a code on his own motion or on complaint, and he is free to prescribe one if a code has not been approved."

Can you find in any country a more complete description of the power exercised by a dictator?

But the chief justice goes on to say: "Such a sweeping delegation of legislative power finds no support in the decisions upon which the government especially relies. Such a delegation of legislative power is unknown to our law and is utterly inconsistent with the constitutional prerogatives and duties of congress."

Justice Cardozo said of the same case:

"The extension becomes as wide as the field of industrial regulation. If that conception shall prevail, anything that congress may do within the limits of the commerce clause for the betterment of business may be done by the President upon recommendation of a trade association by calling it a code.

"Delegation Running Riot."

"This is delegation running riot. No such plenitude of power is susceptible of transfer. The statute, however, aims at nothing less, as one can learn both from its terms and from the administrative practice under it.

"Even if the statute itself had fixed the meaning of fair competition by way of contrast with practices that are oppressive or unfair, the code outruns the bounds of the authority conferred. What is excessive is not sporadic or superficial. It is deep-seated and pervasive. The illicit sections are so combined and welded as to be incapable of severance without destructive mutilation. But there is another objection, far-reaching and incurable, aside from any defect of unlawful delegation.

"If this code had been adopted by congress itself, and not by the President on the advice of an industrial association, it would even then be void."

Nothing can be plainer. Congress has assumed powers it does not possess. It has conferred these powers upon the President. The President has exercised these unconstitutional powers and exceeded them.

Jailings Are Cited.

American citizens have been put in jail under pretense of these tyrant-made laws, and even in their absence. For instance, Fred C. Perkins, the little battery manufacturer of York, Pa., was held in prison for disobeying a code written by and for his great competitors, and so was the little pants presser of New Jersey, and who knows how many others whose protests have been stifled.

If this is not dictatorship and tyranny then Mussolini and Hitler are constitutional officers.

You may observe, and justly, that no judge should have suffered a citizen to be put in jail for a legal act just because it was forbidden by a czarist ukase. Many judges did refuse to permit this infamy. But all judges are not heroes, and the pressure upon them was ferocious. They all had before them the peremptory removal without cause of Federal Trade Commissioner Humphreys, which has also been invalidated by the Supreme court.

Confronted with Question.

Concerning this Justice Sutherland said in delivering the opinion of the court:

"We are thus confronted with the serious question whether not only the members of the quasi-legislative and quasi-judicial bodies but the judges of the legislative Court of Claims, exercising judicial power, continue in office only at the pleasure of the President.

"We think it plain under the constitution that illimitable power of removal is not possessed by the President in respect of officers of the character of those just named. . . . For it is quite evident that one who holds his office only during the pleasure of another cannot be depended upon to maintain an attitude of independence against the latter's will."

Decisions Are Summarized.

We find, therefore, in these unanimous opinions of a Supreme court composed of judges appointed by five Presidents from both political parties, that:

First, congress has invaded the powers of the states.

Second, has invaded the powers reserved to the people.

Third, has conferred unconstitutional powers upon the President.

Fourth, that the President has exercised and exceeded the power so conferred.

Fifth, he has removed a quasi-judicial officer in violation of the constitution of the United States.

Sixth, he has thrown into prison American citizens innocent of any offense against the laws of the United States.

The power to make criminal laws which the President purported to obtain from his abject congress is not only foreign to our constitution but unknown to our history since Magna Charta.

George III.'s Policy Recalled.

George III., against whom our forefathers revolted, did not attempt to exert it.

Charles I., who invented the doctrin of emergency and whose head paid the price of his tyrannies, did not try to exercise it.

Even the Tudor tyrants, Henry VI. and VIII., stopped short of creating criminal laws by royal fiat.

For precedent for an executive making criminal laws we must go to Louis XIV., Peter of Russia, Ivan the Terrible, Genghis Khan, and Adolf Hitler.

That is where the Roosevelt revolution would take us. And when I say this I defy any member of the administration or of the brain trust or of congress to dispute me.

When the mask of economic planning has been stripped off the New Deal we are confronted with the hideous face of dictatorship, of tyranny, of prison without trial.

Let us be warned in time that we do not become enslaved like the citizens of Russia, of Italy, and of Germany.

FREE DUTCH SCHULTZ; JURY IS ASSAILED BY N. Y. FEDERAL JUDGE

Malone, N. Y., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Arthur [Dutch Schultz] Flegenheimer, Bronx beer boss, was acquitted of income tax evasion charges here tonight after the jury had been out 28 hours and 23 minutes. It was his second trial.

Federal Judge Frederick H. Bryant silenced a spontaneous outburst of applause from the packed courtroom. Anger was written all over his thin face.

"Before I discharge you," he said, "I will have to say that your verdict is such that shakes the confidence of law abiding people in integrity and truth.

"It will be apparent to all who have followed the evidence in this case that you have reached a verdict based, not on the evidence, but on some other reason.

"You will go home with the satisfaction—if it is a satisfaction—that you have rendered a blow against law enforcement and given aid and encouragement to the people who would flaunt the law."

The twelve farmer jurors rose slowly, their faces flushed, and kept their glances averted from the court and from the spectators who had cheered them.

SIX NEWS MEN DEFEND RIGHT TO PRINT TRIAL

Cited for Contempt After Defying Judge.

Angleton, Tex., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Six Houston newspaper editors and reporters went into court here today to defend their right to print testimony in the murder trial of Clyde Thompson, prison farm convict charged with killing a fellow prisoner.

The six were named in contempt charges filed by District Judge M. S. Munson, after three newspapers, the Houston Chronicle, Houston Post, and Houston Press, had refused to obey the judge's order not to print the testimony. The judge charged that printing of the testimony would hinder efforts to obtain a jury in the trials of Ed Ebers and Raymond Hall, convicts also charged in the slaying.

Attorney Answers Citation.

Frank Liddell, attorney for the Post and Chronicle, in his answer to the contempt citation, claimed:

That the decree of contempt was insufficient to constitute any basis for contempt proceedings.

That it appears on the face of the contempt order that the court is without jurisdiction of subject matter upon which it purports to act.

That it appears that the contempt order attempts on the part of the court to deprive the respondents of the right to publish a full, true and impartial account of evidence adduced at a public trial in a Texas District court.

Liddell and John H. Crooker, attorney for the Houston Press, argued that Judge Munson had not filed his written order on the contempt charges until July 29 and that the newspapers could not be in contempt because their stories were carried on July 23, 24, and 25.

Judge Munson waived them aside with the ruling that his oral orders to the three reporters were made on July 23 and that the editors had ample notice not to print the testimony.

Admits Easy Jury Choice.

Defense attorneys drew from Sul Ross Harrington, District court reporter for twelve years, the admission that juries in the trials of Raymond Hall and Ed Ebers, charged with Thompson in the slaying of Everet Melvin and tried after his conviction, were obtained with ease and apparently were not hindered by printing of the testimony.

Defendants in the case are Editor George Cottingham and Ed Rider of the Chronicle, Managing Editor Max Jacobs and Frank White of the Post, and Managing Editor Ed Pooley and Harry McCormick of the Press.

Reporter Begins Sentence.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Shannon Cormack, Miami Beach Tribune reporter, today began serving a twenty-four hour sentence in the Dade County jail for contempt.

The sentence was imposed last March by Circuit Judge Jefferson B. Browne of Key West as the result of a story which the judge held reflected unfavorably on him.

Cormack's appeal to the Supreme court was unsuccessful.

CUT RAGWEEDS, JANITORS' UNION ASKS MEMBERS

Chicago janitors were asked yesterday to cut the common ragweed, the pollen of which affects hay fever victims, from parkways and vacant lots in their neighborhoods. The request came from Jerry Horan, president of local No. 1 of the Chicago Flat Janitors' union. Letters sent by Horan to all members of the union pointed out that the pollen is heaviest on the weeds during August. Mr. Horan said that if a janitor finds patches of the weed too large to be cut by himself aid will be furnished him.

Forlorn Baby Duck Finds Good Mother—a Bulldog

The maternal instincts of Duchess, a French bulldog, caused her to "mother" a forlorn baby duck which her owner, Mrs. Fred Scheffler, 3347 Pensacola avenue, found in an oat field near Streator, Ill., on Sunday. So successful was Duchess that the duckling now will not leave the dog. When they are separated, Mrs. Scheffler said yesterday, both dog and duck are inconsolable.

GERMAN UNREST FANNED BY NEW THREAT TO 'FOES'

Hitler Bids Reich to Honor Hindenburg Today.

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Suppressed and smoldering German unrest had as fuel for its fires tonight new warnings to faltering Nazis, new repressive measures directed against Jews, "Steel Helmets," and "state enemies," and lurid newspaper extras.

But the Nazi Fuehrer, Adolf Hitler, took no notice of the growing tension. He calmly and laconically ordered all flags to be flown at half staf on all public buildings tomorrow in commemoration of the first anniversary of the death of the former president and field marshal, Paul von Hindenburg.

Nor was preparedness for disorders included in the instructions Werner von Blomberg, minister of war, gave to the army in outlining tomorrow's solemn ceremonies. The password was to be "Hindenburg." A special mounted guard of honor was to ride to the tomb in the Tannenberg memorial. A wreath was to be placed by the commander of the East Prussian army corps.

New Developments Listed.

Berlin police, however, were under orders to be prepared for any eventuality, indicating municipal authorities were aware of the potential dangers in these new developments:

A new threat to the Steel Helmets, veterans' organization, from Hitler's personal bodyguard, the "Black corps."

Dissolution of the Steel Helmet units in Neuhaldensleben county, near Magdeburg.

Omission of the east Prussian "Steel Helmets" from the list of those invited to attend on Hindenburg memorial services at Tannenberg tomorrow.

Orders from officials at the Westerland resort on a North sea island, giving Jews 24 hours to leave the place;

A Stuermer extra [bitter Jew baiting newspaper] giving a lurid account of the relations of accused Jews with Gentile school girls;

Efforts of the Berlin chamber of industry and trade to stop the bootlegging of foreign goods which has increased with rising prices;

Calls Jews Unwanted.

A pageful of Jewish pictures in Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbel's "Der Angriff" under the caption, "Unwanted";

New indications that the campaign against "state enemies" will be aimed at Freemasons as well as other groups;

A "be careful" warning to Jews in the vicinity of Berlin's Bayerischerplatz;

Notice by a Nazi welfare organization at Finsterwalde, near Berlin, that those who trade with Jews need expect no support;

A district leader's order at Elbing expelling from the Nazi ranks any party member continuing business or social relations with Jews.

Tonight thousands of Germans devoured the Stuermer extra, but the anti-Jewish newspaper's ceremonious unveiling of an advertising board near the entrance to Bayerischerplatz, in the Jewish quarter of the city, drew only about 200 persons. Jews were conspicuously absent. A half dozen shouts of "Out with Jews" was the only out of the way occurrence.

This demonstration was the reason for the "be careful" warning to Jews which the executive committee of the Jewish community mimeographed and threw into every Jewish apartment in the neighborhood.

Populace Is Excited.

The Stuermer's extra did not lull an excited populace. It advised: "Join in the fight against the Jews, the devil's people." "Take heed for enlightenment." "Protect your daughters! Protect your brides! Protect your wives! Watch out for your German race!"

A sixteen page edition carried many pictures of many pornographic disclosures allegedly made at the trial of Albert Hirschland, leader of a girls' school, accused of relations with 100 Aryan girls. He was arrested May 29 and tried last month.

Injuries received in riots along the Kurfuersten Damm July 15 proved fatal today to a Jewish doctor, M. Kleinfeld. He was knocked down in the anti-Semitic disturbance.

German Glider Pilot Dies After Setting New Record

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—The German glider pilot, Oeltzschner, crashed today at Selb, Bavaria, and was instantly killed. Oeltzschner, with three other glider pilots, earlier this week established a world gliding record of 400 miles from Wasserkuppe to Bruenn. Oeltzschner was on his homeward flight when killed.

$250,000 Pay Cut Restored to the King of England

LONDON, Aug. 1.—(AP)—King George has had his pay cuts restored. In 1931 he voluntarily accepted a reduction of $250,000 a year in his civil list payment. The annuities of the king and queen total $2,350,000.

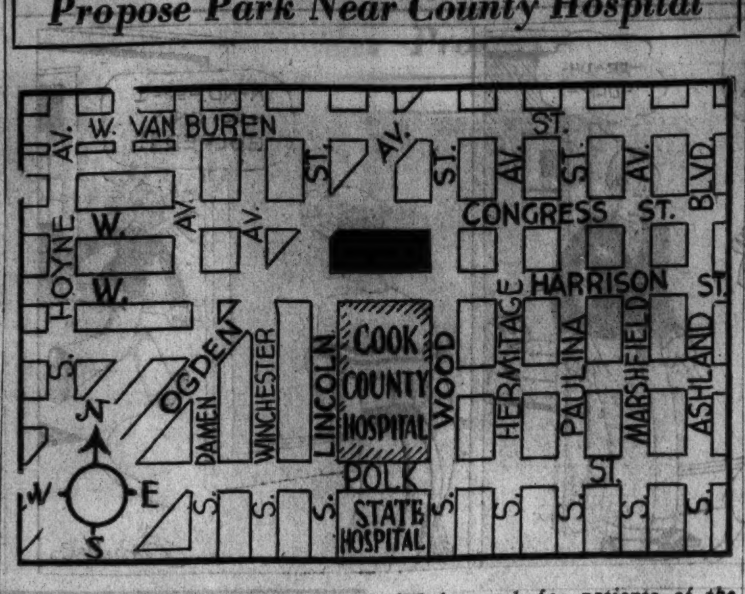
Propose Park Near County Hospital



Map showing the location proposed for park for patients of the County hospital. Black area indicates proposed site.

PLAN IS OFFERED FOR PARK FACING COUNTY HOSPITAL

Officials Back Project on Harrison Street.

Creation of a park fronting the entire length of the Harrison street side of the Cook county hospital was envisioned yesterday by a group of city and county officials in a conference at which they agreed to press for early action on the project.

The area which officials would transform into a park is bounded by Lincoln, Wood, Congress and Harrison streets. It is two blocks long, east and west, and one block wide, north and south. Buildings now standing in this area would be torn down under the plan, and replaced with a landscaped park for the benefit of hospital patients.

Universities Own Part of Area.

The Universities of Illinois, the University of Chicago and the Chicago board of education own most of the property. In private hands is a small strip along Harrison street between Honore street and an alley. Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], one of the conferees, said he would ask the city council to institute condemnation proceedings for this property.

County Commissioner Peter M. Kelly, chairman of the county board's public service committee, who, with Dr. Karl A. Meyer, hospital medical superintendent, started the park movement, said the universities and the school board have consented to have their buildings torn down.

"The building wrecking would be a project under the city department of public works for which we would try to get relief labor from the Works Progress administration," said Commissioner Kelly.

Salvage Would Help Pay Cost.

"Salvage would finance most of the cost, and the county, I'm sure, would pay the remainder. It would be a blessing for the hospital patients to have these ugly buildings removed and a park created."

"It would also be a start for a beautification of this entire area, leading toward the establishment of the greater medical center and park that has been talked of so much," added Ald. Bowler.

At 508 South Honore street is an old building belonging to the University of Illinois and now occupied by the Goodwill Industries. Permission has been given by the university officials for the wrecking of this structure, Commissioner Kelly said.

New Building Near at Hand.

Just north, on Harrison street and stretching between Honore and Lincoln streets, is the university's postgraduate medical school and dispensary. This can be removed, the commissioner said, when the university completes its new building nearby.

At Congress and Honore streets is the old Cook County Nurses' school, which its owner, the University of Illinois, has agreed to let be wrecked. On Wood street between Harrison and Congress streets is the old Marquette school, a portion of which is occupied by a relief station. Commissioner Kelly suggested that the building be wrecked.

After instructing Walter Wright, city superintendent of parks, recreation and aviation, to prepare a condemnation order for the private property, the group decided to meet again on Monday in Wright's office.

U. S. NOTE DODGES GERMAN PROTEST IN FLAG INCIDENT

Dismisses Episode as 'Unfortunate.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—In a polite but firm note the state department today sidestepped the emphatic German protest on the communist attack on the Nazi swastika flag in New York harbor last week. The American note pointed sharply that the incident was in no sense due to the neglect of New York authorities and concluded with a routine dismissal of the episode as "unfortunate."

The note was delivered to Rudolf Leitner, charge d'affaires of the German embassy, by Acting Secretary of State William Phillips. Along with the note the state department sent a copy of a report delivered to the department by the New York police.

German Note Disclosed.

Mr. Phillips acknowledged receipt of the German note, which was made public with the American reply. The German flag was torn from the bow of the German liner Bremen on the night of July 26 as the vessel was about to leave the New York harbor. The American note reads:

"The appropriate authorities in New York have provided me with a full report on this matter, and I inclose a copy for your information. You will note that the police authorities took most extensive precautions in order to prevent any untoward incident; that having learned in advance that a demonstration was planned, they consulted with the representatives of the interested steamship companies and in coöperation with them took all measures which seemed calculated to assure order; and that the incident which actually occurred was in no sense due to neglect on the part of the American authorities.

Cites Numerous Police.

"I invite particular attention to those sections of the report which indicate that a very considerable number of police were detailed to prevent disturbances; that the police suggested measures to prevent persons other than the passengers and other duly authorized visitors from boarding the vessel, but that the officers of the steamship line did not deem it necessary to adopt such measures; that unauthorized persons accordingly succeeded in boarding the steamer; that before the vessel sailed such elements started a demonstration; that police authorities took immediate and efficient action with a view to clearing the ship of all unauthorized persons, and that during the course of this action one of the police, namely, Detective Matthew Solomon, in attempting to apprehend the ringleaders, was set upon, knocked down, and sustained serious injury.

Points to Arrests.

"I also invite attention to that section of the inclosed report which indicates that the persons implicated in this disorder have been apprehended and are being held for trial.

"It is unfortunate that in spite of the sincere efforts of the police to prevent any disorder whatever, the German national emblem should, during the disturbance which took place, not have received that respect to which it is entitled."

The German protest, delivered to the state department by Herr Leitner Tuesday, said, in part: "I am instructed to make most emphatic protest against the serious insult to the German national emblem, and I venture to express the expectation that everything will be done on the part of American authorities charged with the prosecution of criminal offenses in order that the guilty persons may be duly punished."

No Formal Demand.

The German government made no formal demand for an apology. None could be expected, state department officials said, because New York authorities exercised all reasonable caution.

The American reply was hailed in some administration circles where feeling runs high against the Nazi government's religious campaigns as a distinct rebuke to Germany.

THOUSANDS OF JEWS, RUN OUT OF GERMANY, FLOCK TO PALESTINE

JERUSALEM, Aug. 1—(AP)—Hounded out of Germany by anti-Semitic boycotts and violence, Jewish immigrants are pouring into Palestine by the tens of thousands.

So great has the influx of Jewish refugees been in recent months that serious concern is felt as to how many more can be absorbed by this Biblical land.

Official figures show that 4,343 Jewish immigrants arrived in June, and for the first six months of this year there have been 28,121 compared to 42,359 for the full twelve months of 1934. In 1933 the total was 30,327.

Crowded conditions are beginning to offer a difficult problem, but on the other hand the newcomers are bringing in capital in such amounts that the country is enjoying a brisk boom in trade and industry.

AMERICAN FREED BY NAZI COURT HELD IN MUNICH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH, Germany, Aug. 1.—W. H. Tyler of New York City, owner of a music store, is under "passport arrest" here. He has not been allowed to leave the city, although a Dresden court twice ruled that he was not responsible for an accident in which a cyclist was run over by his automobile. Witnesses and the court agreed that the cyclist was at fault.

After his first acquittal June 24, the days of the accident, Tyler went to Munich. Tyler said that on July 18, while he was dancing at the Regina palace, a detective dragged him off the dance floor and placed him in a cell in the prison Ettstrasse. He said no charge was placed against him.

The next morning Tyler was taken to Dresden where he was again acquitted. When he emerged from the court he was told he must pay 5,000 marks [about $2,018] bail. His passport and his tickets were seized. He was allowed to proceed to Munich with orders not to move without police permission. He cannot travel without a passport.

CALL GRASS ROOT MEETING TO OPEN NEW DEAL FIGHT

Convene Monday; Illinois Committeemen Named.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Appointment of Illinois' five members of the permanent Republican Grass Roots committee of 50 from ten midwest prairie states, created by the June Grass Roots conference at Springfield, was announced yesterday by Frank L. Smith of Dwight, Republican national committeeman.

On call of Harrison E. Spangler, Iowa national committeeman and chairman of the group, the full committee of 50—five from each of the ten states—is to meet Monday and Tuesday at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Its purpose is to develop a plan for stimulating anti-New Deal activities in every precinct of the ten states. The Illinois members are:

MRS. LESLIE WHEELER, Lake Forest, Lake county.

C. J. DOYLE, Springfield, former secretary of state.

EDWARD A. HAYES, Decatur, former national commander of the American Legion.

JAMES H. DOUGLAS JR., Chicago, former assistant secretary of the treasury.

PHILIP W. COLLINS, Chicago, former member of the Illinois commerce commission, active in Legion circles.

Younger Members Predominate.

Predominating in the Illinois group, Mr. Smith points out, are younger Republicans not identified with old party factionalism who have not sought elective offices but have had active experience in political affairs.

Mrs. Wheeler was active in the movement for repeal of the 18th amendment. She was co-chairman of the Illinois division of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, with Mrs. William H. Mitchell as her fellow chairman. This organization was an important factor in the repeal fight in the 1932 elections.

Mr. Hayes was chairman of the resolutions committee of the Grass Roots roundup at Springfield. Mr. Doyle has served as Republican state chairman and Mr. Collins has been particularly active among the young Republicans and in Legion affairs.

Douglas a U. of C. Trustee.

The appointment of Mr. Douglas, a trustee of the University of Chicago, was not confirmed until Mr. Smith had chased him with telegrams across the continent to California. He was on a train and on his arrival in San Francisco yesterday Mr. Smith got him on long distance and completed the slate.

Word from Chairman Spangler at Cedar Rapids, Ia., was that each of the ten states—Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, and Oklahoma—will be represented at the Edgewater Beach conferences next week. Five from each state, he said, have been selected. By fall the aim is to have the movement active in all congressional districts and in most counties in the area. Headquarters for the midwest may be established in Chicago.

IDENTIFY BODY IN RIVER.

The body of a man recovered from the Chicago river at Wells street Wednesday was identified yesterday as that of Roy Jones, 55 years old, 63 West Chestnut street.

JUDGE HOLDS UP ALIMONY; SEEKS RECONCILIATION

Superior Judge Joseph B. David yesterday refused to award temporary alimony to Mrs. Goldie Buehler, 151 Abingdon road, Kenilworth, until efforts to effect a reconciliation between her and her husband, Albert C. Buehler, president of the Victor Adding Machine company, have been exhausted. Mrs. Buehler filed suit for divorce on Tuesday, charging cruelty and nonsupport. She and her husband have four children, the eldest of whom is 14.

"Why sacrifice the happiness of these children?" Judge David asked. "Try to get together."

Lawyers for the principals promised to try to effect a reconciliation.

REPORTS $1,003 GEM THEFT.

Harry Levinson, owner of a jewelry store at 739 North Clark street, reported to police yesterday that two men, posing as prospective customers, stole $1,003 worth of uncut diamonds from his store counter. Levinson said he discovered the loss after the men had left.

MRS. BLACKLIDGE IS REFUSED WRIT TO ESCAPE JAIL

Judge Joseph B. David yesterday refused attorneys for Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, former collector of internal revenue, an injunction to restrain the sherif from putting Mrs. Blacklidge in jail to complete the serving of a six months' sentence imposed for her failure to pay a $7,500 judgment. The judgment was in favor of Mrs. Susanne Nottingham, who claimed that Mrs. Blacklidge had maliciously stolen the affections of her husband, Policeman Norman Nottingham.

Judge David became angry at the arguments advanced by the attorneys, headed by Herbert M. Wetzel, who claimed application of a new state law providing that no person may be jailed for debt in a civil case. The law, the judge said, could not be retroactive.

Mrs. Blacklidge has been at liberty on bonds of $2,500 since April 29. She was allowed her freedom while she prosecuted an attempt to have the federal courts hold that as a bankrupt she cannot be held for nonpayment. An adverse ruling was made on this attempt. Attorney Wetzel said yesterday that he would file an appeal for a rehearing in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today and that this will automatically prevent the return of his client to jail for at least ten days.

ORDERS GUARDS FOR TRANSFER OF SCHOOL OFFICE

Sherif Toman took steps yesterday to guard against possible trouble in the office of county superintendent of schools Monday morning, when Noble J. Puffer takes office to succeed Otto F. Aken. Puffer was elected last November, but under the state school law does not take office until Aug. 5.

Aken claims Puffer is not qualified and is seeking an injunction in the Superior court to restrain Puffer from taking office. A hearing on the case is scheduled for Aug. 19.

Aken said yesterday that it would take a court order to oust him, and declared: "If Puffer turns up on Monday there may be some fun."

Sherif Toman ordered deputies stationed in the office after his attorney, James B. Todd, informed him that Aken can be ejected without a court order.

Residents of Warrenville Plan Constitution Club

A constitution club is to be formed by residents of Warrenville, in Du Page county, at a meeting tonight at the Arrowhead Golf club. A. C. Hoy of Warrenville, one of the group calling the meeting, said yesterday that throughout Du Page county the idea of establishing constitution clubs is going strong. Dr. William H. Hopf of Wheaton has designed a button with the legend: "The Constitution: It's for me—I'm for it."

COAL FIRM FINED OVER MIXTURE.

The Kenwood Coal company, 2723 West 47th street, was fined $25 yesterday by Judge Erwin J. Hasten in the License court for delivering mixed coal without specifying the kinds in the mixture.

ANY CAMERA IS HUNGRY for pictures like this. Give yours a treat—next time you pack up the sandwiches and salad, see that it goes along.

WITH SNAPSHOTS the fun keeps on—next week and next winter. "What a day that was." What a swell bunch—and you have them for keeps.

So don't be one who "forgot to bring the Kodak." People are never sorry about the snapshots they got—they only mourn for the ones they didn't take. Snapshooting's at its best these days—plenty to shoot at, and the weather to do it. Kodak as you go.

And as you stay at home, too. Yards look so pretty now—fine backgrounds for pictures of the family.

BAUER'S WIDOW DRY EYED DURING DAY OF ORDEALS

Long Grilling Keeps Her from Husband's Body.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Throughout a day of grueling experiences yesterday Mrs. Louise Schaffer Bauer, widow of Dr. Walter J. Bauer, mutilation murder victim, maintained a white-faced and dry-eyed calm, until her departure with her husband's body for Cleveland on the New York Central railway, late in the afternoon.

She was accompanied by two brothers of her husband of 17 days, Joseph Bauer, foreman in a malleable iron company in Cleveland, and William Bauer of Cleveland, a salesman for the same company. Neither had known of his marriage until they read of their brother's death.

The trio boarded the train at the Englewood station. Previously Mrs. Bauer had inquired, while at the state's attorney's office, what was the distance to the undertaker's establishment where the body was.

Too Late to See Body.

Her questioning by officials over, she was taken to the establishment, at 6115 South Ashland boulevard, but the body already had been prepared for shipment. She will see it for the first time today in Cleveland.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow from the Bauer family's home at 134 Benwood avenue in Cleveland. Burial will be in Highland Park cemetery there, according to tentative plans.

Other surviving relatives include Dr. Bauer's sister, Mrs. Margaret Arnold, and his mother, Mrs. Katherine Bauer. Early in the day Mrs. Bauer departed from the Morrison hotel with Policewoman Mollie Oliver, who stayed the night with her "purely as a courtesy, not because she was in custody," police officials explained. At the inquest into her husband's death, held at the Jackson Park hospital, 75th and Stony Island avenue, she sat with head down, so that her hat brim hid her eyes from cameras. She was flanked by her brothers-in-law and Mrs. Oliver.

Shrinks from Cameras.

On the witness stand she shrank away from the cameras, and at one time wrung her small, graceful hands. When she left the stand she covered her face with her hands, and when she was recalled she did likewise. Later she consented to pose for a picture.

At one point in her long questioning at the state's attorney's office to which newspaper men were not admitted, an assistant state's attorney, who with others popped in and out of the door to issue bulletins to reporters, said with apparent approval.

"She's crying now. We just told her about Zenge's supposed suicide [her former suitor, Mandeville Zenge, suspected as the mutilator] and showed her the note he left his father. Halfway through the note she cried. Look, you can see her crying now."

He opened the door, but Mrs. Bauer, hatless, but appearing neat and exquisitely groomed even in the oppressive heat of the stuffy room, was talking quietly and tearlessly with a policewoman.

Identifies Coat and Writing.

"When we told her of Zenge's suicide note, and she identified his coat and his handwriting in the note," the informant went on, "she said: 'Poor thing, he's dead, too.' I thought she was going to faint, but she didn't."

Meanwhile the widow's father, W. J. Schaffer, 50 year old farmer of La Grange, Mo., one of the most pathetic figures in the tragedy, had arrived here by train. He was seated, dressed in blue serge, heavy socks and high black laced shoes, scrupulously polished, in the undertaking establishment when he was told of Zenge's supposed death by suicide. He had not yet seen his daughter.

"It's just as well," he said quietly. "I know his father well. He used to have a dairy farm. He hasn't anything much now. I think he'd rather the boy be found dead."

Schaffer could not explain why Dr. Bauer might have written, as he appeared to have done in a fragment of a letter found by Michigan police in his Ann Arbor hotel room after his death, "My marriage, I know now, is a hoax."

William Bauer, alluding to the statement attributed to his dead brother that his marriage was a "hoax," said with obvious feeling:

"That is all boloney. He never wrote such a thing. He would not use language like that. And he would stick to a thing, whatever he did. If he made a mistake he would never admit it." He added that his brother was "the most even tempered man I ever knew."

Looks Over Her Prospects

Suicide Letter of Suspected Mutilator

Following is the text of the suicide letter left by Mandeville W. Zenge, alleged mutilation slayer of Prof. Walter J. Bauer, to be sent to his father, J. Andy Zenge, of Canton, Mo.:

"Dear Dad: I left home because I was so miserably unhappy over losing Louis [Louise Schaffer Bauer, Prof. Bauer's bride] that I couldn't get along with any one and was making every one unhappy at home. Thought maybe if I came up here I could forget, but I can't, so I'm going to end it all.

"Don't let Louise know about this, as I love her and don't want to make her unhappy. I suppose she is better off married to that doctor than she would have been with me.

Vows Love for Girl.

"She told me before I came up here she was happy, and I am glad for her.

"Dad, I guess I have something lacking in me. It seems like I have failed in everything I ever tried to do. However, this is one thing in which I'm going to succeed.

"Tell mother, Junie, Late, and Aunt Mollie good-by for me. Also Louise. O, I love that girl. There was never and never will be a girl like her.

"Dad, you and mother have been good to me. So have Junie and Late. Dad, I have a $5,000 insurance policy in the top left hand drawer of your desk.

"Know What I'm Doing."

"With it you can finish sending Junie to law school. I wish you and mother would enjoy yourselves with the rest of it.

"Late told me several times lately that I was crazy, but I am not. I know what I am doing. Am sorry I can't pay you the money I borrowed from you, but you have the car, which I hope you will enjoy. However, I believe you could use the money better.

"Tell Claude and Eileen good-by for me. I am going to take a cab to the lake and jump in. Will leave this in my coat in the cab, and the police or some one will send it to you. Bye, dad.

"Your son,

"MANDEVILLE."

The "Junie" and "Late" named in the letter are brothers of Mandeville Zenge. "Eileen" is Mrs. Eileen Stagges, a cousin of Mandeville, and Claude is her husband.

TINY COIN PLAN UPSET; POWERS UNDER BILL HIT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The house coinage committee, which a year ago quickly agreed to gold dollar devaluation, kicked over the traces today on the Roosevelt-Morgenthau coin plan.

The open explanation was that the bill presented to the committee by Secretary Morgenthau and introduced in the absence of Chairman A. L. Somers [Dem., N. Y.] gave the treasury too broad authority.

Morgenthau had been talking about issuing new half cent and mill pieces—which he said were designed by the President—to simplify payments in states which have sales taxes requiring cent fraction payment.

But the bill he sent up to the coinage committee would have authorized the treasury to issue any coins it wanted which were worth less than a cent.

"That's too much," said Somers, after the committee tabled the treasury bill. "We appointed a subcommittee to consider the matter further. If it develops that there is a real need for a midget coin of specific value—one mill or five—I wouldn't say we would turn that down."

Confessed Slayer of Girl Enters Not Guilty Plea

Mills Redmond, 27 years old, who confessed recently that he had strangled Miss Marion Cozzo, 17 years old, 6420 South Oakley avenue, last December and then stuffed her body in a sewer catch basin, pleaded not guilty before Judge John C. Lewe in the Criminal court yesterday and begged the court to give him time to employ an attorney. Judge Lewe continued the case until Aug. 14.

LAKE SEARCHED FOR SUSPECT IN BAUER MURDER

Suicide Letter Found at Height of Death Quiz.

at the University of Michigan, and "Jones"—who was later identified as Zenge, whom Dr. Bauer had never seen—had followed him there on Sunday, apparently with his savage revenge plot in mind.

Granted the ride, the stranger drew a pistol and compelled the scientist to drive to Chicago. They stopped once or twice for gasoline and sandwiches, the stranger, who wore dark sun glasses, doing the talking. In his deathbed statement Dr. Bauer said he believed the man was a criminal hiding from the police and had no idea that personal revenge was his motive.

Arrived in Chicago, the man Jones bound Dr. Bauer hand and foot and then, bestriding his body in the car, used a penknife to perform the mutilation. He then drove the car near to a filling station at 71st place and Stony Island avenue, where he fled. Dr. Bauer was taken by a station attendant to the Jackson Park hospital, where he died of his injuries three hours later.

Zenge's Threats Told.

To a physician and the police the Kirksville scientist declared that Jones was his assailant. He also said that Louise, his bride of July 14, had informed him her former suitor, Zenge, whom the doctor did not know, had made threats against him. The clinching evidence that "Jones" and Zenge were the same came early yesterday when the manager and clerk of the Jennings house identified Zenge's picture as that of the guest who had ridden away with Dr. Bauer.

Where Zenge hid from the time of his flight from the car to the moment of his engaging Giannini's cab at Rush and Ohio streets has not been determined. The composition of his farewell note, written in a small red address book, would not have taken long. It was addressed to his father, J. Andy Zenge of Canton.

The hat and coat, on the right hand pocket of which were bloodstains, and the handwriting of Zenge were identified by Mrs. Bauer at the state's attorney's officer. Her stern composure, which she had maintained since her arrival Wednesday evening to assist in the investigation, seemed to break when she read the missive.

Cries Out at Death News.

"O, the poor thing," she cried; "then he's dead, too."

Mrs. Bauer said that she had been engaged to Zenge for two years, but married Dr. Bauer because she "liked him better." She reiterated that she and her husband had separated after the wedding because she had to continue her duties as night superintendent at the hospital in Kirksville, while he had to return to his studies. They were to have met in Ann Arbor yesterday.

Her last interview with Zenge, the widow said, was on July 23 or 24. At that time, she said, he asked her if she was happy, to which she replied in the affirmative. Zenge made no threats at that time, she added.

Intimations in Dr. Bauer's recent letters that he had doubts of the wisdom of his marriage were presented to Mrs. Bauer, who stated that she knew nothing of such an attitude on his part and was at a loss to explain the quotations.

Some light was thrown on these intimations by letters written by Dr. Bauer shortly before his death and received in Kirksville yesterday.

Blames Sun for Suspicions.

One of these letters was addressed to Mrs. Bauer and expressed deep affection for her. Others were to Dr. George H. Laughlin, Mrs. Bauer's superior at the hospital, and to Dr. Vernon H. Casner. Dr. Casner was informed that Bauer had suffered a slight sunstroke Sunday and that this caused an aberration that made him suspect his wife.

"It's all so absurd," Dr. Bauer wrote, "that I cannot believe I ever wrote such a letter" [referring to his request that Mrs. Bauer and Zenge be watched].

Asked whether Dr. Bauer had ever seen Zenge, Mrs. Bauer recalled that on one occasion, several months ago, she was leaving the hospital with Zenge and the doctor was across the street. So far as she knew, this was the only view her husband had had in Kirksville of the man who later killed him. They had never, she said, met directly.

Joseph Bauer of Cleveland, O., a brother of the slain chemist, was a witness at the inquest. He knew nothing of the crime, he said, and had not even been informed of the doctor's marriage.

PAIR WINS AT POKER ON ATLANTIC LINER; LOSE TO LAW ASHORE

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Two men who sat in on a three handed stud poker game in which William Boyd, member of a socially prominent family, lost $19,200 were arrested on larceny charges today after the liner Europa arrived from Europe.

The men, described by police as being "riders on the boats for whatever they could get," are Louis Phillip, 57, and Henry Dawson, 55.

Boyd, an official of a shipping firm, said he became acquainted with the men in Paris. He met them again when he boarded the liner at Cherbourg.

The first day out Mr. and Mrs. Boyd dined with the two. Later the three men went to the card room to play. Boyd said he won $220. They played the next day and he lost his winnings and $340. The game continued, Boyd losing steadily.

Wednesday Boyd handed over a draft for $19,200. He mentioned the matter to the ship's purser, who told the captain, and a wireless message was sent to the line's New York office. The arrest followed.

A CORRECTION

On July 28, we advertised "At Evans—and Nowhere Else — Prize-Winning Model Fur Coats Direct from International Fashion Show, Waldorf-Astoria, New York."

These coats had won no prizes, as none was awarded at this show, the correct name of which was "Fashion Show and Exposition of the Fur Industry" rather than that used in our advertisement. Of the exhibits on display, many were sold to Chicago dealers other than ourselves.

We invite any dissatisfied customer to return any of these garments and receive a refund.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

ANOTHER PLANK COMES DOWN.

"Pay the Defaulted Bonds" has been removed from THE TRIBUNE'S Platform for Illinois. The plank has served its purpose. The recent session of the legislature adopted laws to enable local governments to refinance their unpaid obligations and many of the municipalities have already arranged to do so. Within a short time there should be no more defaulted bonds to dishonor the citizens, cast doubt upon our capacity for self-government, and impair the public credit.

The achievement will be a substantial one. A debt is something to be paid. The notion that debts are intended to be repudiated at the first opportunity has been a popular one in recent years when funds with which to meet obligations have been difficult to find. Congress has enacted a series of measures which were intended to legalize partial repudiations. The gold bills were written with that objective and so were the Frazier-Lemke act and the amendments of the bankruptcy act, among others. To the great credit of Illinois its statute books have not been similarly defiled. In this state we still hold that "Thou shalt not steal" is a sound guide to financial dealings, public as well as private.

We have taken the plank down in the belief that the local governments will promptly take advantage of the opportunity given them by the legislature. If they do not, it may become necessary to return to the matter. It may be added that the duty to pay debts and the privilege of refunding them should not be interpreted by the local governments as an invitation to engage in questionable financial transactions, as some of them have shown a disposition to do.

THE TRIBUNE takes much satisfaction in the progress achieved. The plank on defaults, like many others which have been included in the platforms, was not a popular one when it was added. The opposition has yielded to steady pressure and continuous publicity. In recent years we have seen the repeal of the Volstead act, the completion of the nine-foot waterway to New Orleans, the speeding up of passenger trains, a lowering of the price of milk, an end of the reign of gangdom, and the repeal [or, more precisely, the lapsing] of Illinois' tyranny law, the state NRA act. All of these policies were included in THE TRIBUNE'S platforms, and at the time of inclusion were either so unpopular or the public lethargy about them was so great that the hope of achieving the objectives seemed slim. Nevertheless, they have all been achieved.

The record offers one more evidence of the usefulness of a free press in molding opinion and thereby bringing about the gradual betterment of the conditions of life of the ordinary citizen.

REGULATION AND STRANGULATION.

One of the least understandable phases of our so-called transportation problem which Mr. Eastman proposes to settle once and for all by placing everybody—railroads, trucks, buses, barges, boats, pipelines, and airplanes—in irons is the attitude of the National Industrial Trafic league and other so-called organizations of users of transportation. They are not only supporting government regulation of highway transport, but appear dissatisfied because the bills under consideration do not envisage a complete strangulation of the trucking industry. They fail to understand that it will be utterly impossible to "weld into a national system of common carrier transport" the air, the overland, and the water routes of commerce without centralized management. Yet they savagely attack any suggestion of government ownership that will inevitably follow stringent regulation.

The railway is a common carrier by reason of several inherent qualities. No manufacturer could possibly develop the volume of trade that would utilize the facilities of any railway of national importance. Further, the railways have certain rights of eminent domain and financial structures that have their roots in public assistance through federal land grants and state and municipal contributions.

Highway and waterway transport, on the other hand, are essentially private or contract forms of carriage. A moderately large firm with a bulky output can own and operate a fleet of trucks, where it cannot own a railway. The almost entire disappearance of common carriage on our waterways and the vast preponderance of private vehicles on our roads are proof positive that these forms of transportation will not lend themselves to common carriage.

Common carriage detracts from efficiency through the necessity of standardization. It can supply only to a limited extent the specialized equipment demanded by economical freight carriage. We need only one common carrier for the heaviest loads and for distribution beyond the large metropolitan areas that motorized transport has made possible.

Efforts to impress upon highway and waterway transportation the stringent, unnecessary regulation now applied to railways have been uniformly unsuccessful in the states, provinces of Canada, and abroad. With fixed rails, terminals, and types of equipment that must adhere to those rails, the huge railway systems can be regulated to death, but it was soon found that the application of the same principles to forms of transportation not fixed to a route involved a more serious policing problem.

We can only conclude that the voice of these organizations that are supporting government regulation of highway transport is not that of the users of transport numbered in these organizations, but rather of a dominant minority that owes its existence to collective trafic management made possible by the vagaries of rate regulation and the collection of reparation. No user of transportation would advocate the extension of a system of government interference that doubled the cost of his rail distribution.

SECRETARY PERKINS' WHIPPING BOYS.

In the turmoil occasioned by the efforts of Mr. Roosevelt to gear the whole economy of these United States to his smile, of Henry Wallace to subject to his dictation the art of husbandry down to the last queen bee, and of the charming Dr. Tugwell to set himself up as the High Panjandrum of lipstick, canned peas and quinine, Madam Secretary Perkins has received little attention in her attempt to stake out a like field in which her official whims shall be substituted for government by laws.

Her bid for power, the Kerr bill, has already been recommended for passage by a committee headed by the alien-minded Congressman Dickstein of New York. It purports "to authorize the deportation of criminals, to guard against the separation from their families of aliens of the noncriminal classes, to provide for legalizing the residence in the United States of certain classes of aliens."

Actually, it hamstrings the present deportation statutes. It damages seriously what effectiveness remains in the badly mauled quota system, designed to protect American labor against an influx of cheap European competition. This it does by providing so many roads for the smuggled or law evading alien to legalize his residence that illegal entry is made as simple and attractive as legal immigration under the quota.

The supreme viciousness of the bill, however, lies not so much in its statutory relaxations, which are bad enough, but in its proposals to replace definite and mandatory rules of law with a loose discretionary system from which, in the words of a minority report against the bill, there is "no appeal nor remedy."

Ostensibly this power is lodged in an "interdepartmental committee" of representatives of the departments of state, justice and labor. Actually the former New York social worker in the labor department will dispense the bounty.

It was her henchmen who urged passage of the bill. The state department made it plain that it wants no part of the business. And, as the minority report points out, "it is inconceivable that any subordinate of the department of state or justice would take a position or attitude implying criticism of policies recommended by a cabinet officer." The interdepartmental committee is intended to be a front for the secretary of labor and a whipping boy when she wishes to dodge responsibility for her acts.

A proper criticism is leveled against the proposal in the minority report on the bill, filed by Congressman Joe Starnes of Alabama on behalf of himself and five other dissenting committee members. The report says:

"Government by persons is un-American and has always been unsatisfactory to Americans. It has always, wherever tried, led to favoritism, graft, and corruption or persistent suspicions of such. Aliens as well as citizens should be able to learn and to know what the law is and to be able to depend on practices, precedents and equality of treatment. Congress should retain control of our immigration and deportation policies."

Editorial of the Day

THE TOLL GATE IDEA IS OBSOLETE.

[Des Moines Register.]

West Virginia trucks, venturing across the state line into Virginia, are being held there for official "ransom," and truckers are refusing now in many instances to accept loads for transportation into Maryland or to other destinations outside West Virginia.

The "ransom" exacted by Virginia is a heavy fee charged for state license plates, authorizing West Virginia trucks to operate in the sister state. It has been instituted as a reprisal against West Virginia's new law establishing a permit system under which all "for hire" trucks must pay for the use of West Virginia highways.

Already, though the law has been in force less than a month, West Virginia is beginning to feel the effects of an attempt to erect a state frontier—as the Iowa port of entry bill in the recent legislature would have done—within which carriers might not proceed without paying tribute to the state treasury.

Gasoline tax revenues have declined. It has been found necessary to unload and reload heavy shipments in transit to points both within and without the state. Outside trucks won't pay to come in and inside truck fear to venture out lest they be seized. Fruit growers are faced with a crisis in the shipment of perishable products to their customary markets. And general apprehension exists that the warfare may spread soon to passenger vehicles.

Reciprocity between states, in the recognition of all state motor vehicle licenses as valid for the temporary operation of a duly licensed car anywhere in the United States, has been too well established to permit the creation now of a nation-wide system of state line toll gates. The West Virginia legislation is extremely ill advised and will prove more costly by far to West Virginians than to outsiders.

AT THE CATHOLIC YOUTH BOUTS at Wrigley field Wednesday night one boxer in particular interested this observer. He was Johnny Clinton, captain of the visitors, who appeared in the welterweight class. Those close to the ring noted that Johnny's right leg was markedly smaller than his left, that he did not use it as freely in footwork, rather pulling it along as he took impetus from his left.

So we interrogated a New York newspaper man who had come from the east for these bouts and the Joe Louis-King Levinsky fisticuffs next Wednesday night at Comiskey park. Our Gothamite friend explained that Johnny had been afflicted with infantile paralysis in early youth.

Johnny handled himself so cleverly that few among the crowd of 35,000 noticed his handicap. He won his bout in the championship class when his team needed victories with a sparkling exhibition. That's overcoming obstacles. We don't know Johnny personally, but we'd like to meet that kind of a young man.

SASS FOR THE GOOSE.

Wake-Line: In Vox Pop appeared a complaint about smoking on the buses. That reminds of a tale appearing in the Line about 10 years ago which will bear retelling.

A stylish lady with a pretty perfumed pup boarded a bus, mounted to the top deck and took an empty seat next the rail. The bus gradually filled until only the seat beside the lady remained unoccupied. At the next stop a man smoking a long black cigar hopped on and climbed to the top, seating himself beside the lady and pup.

The lady coughed delicately as the heavy aroma reached her, but the hint was ignored. Finally she turned and said austerely, "Would you kindly refrain from smoking?" to which the offender replied, "Sorry, lady, but I can smoke up here if I choose."

Without another word she reached over, pulled the cigar from his mouth and tossed it over the rail. Then he, also without a word, reached over, picked up the perfumed pup and dropped it over the rail.

Then imagine how surprised were the rest of the passengers in looking back to see the pooch following the bus with the cigar in its mouth.

HARMFUL HAIR REMOVERS.

BEAUTY at any price is the goal of many women, and "cosmetologists" vie with each other in producing subtle and effective beauty aids. Some of these attempt to paint the lily, while under the beneficent effects of others years drop away. Goodness knows we must have them. How drab and colorless many of our most charming matrons would appear without them! More power to the cosmeticians if they will make certain that the ingredients of their powders, pomades, and perfumes are harmless and free from noxious materials.

Of the tremendous number of beauty aids to which our lady friends have such frequent recourse the majority are harmless. A few, however, may cause skin irritations or even constitutional symptoms, while a still smaller number have been reported to be definitly poisonous.

There are several substances which will remove superfluous hair. One of these is thallium acetate, the incorporation of which into hair removing creams has led to many cases of poisoning. Thallium is one of the metals that closely resembles mercury and lead, and has many of the properties of each of these elements.

Most cases of poisoning appear to have followed the use of thallium paste about the lips. No doubt some of this material entered the mouth and was there absorbed or, in some cases, the ointment may have been swallowed.

For many years thallium has been used as one of the principal ingredients of certain rat poisons, and several instances have been reported in which this element gained entrance to food. The metal is also used in the preparation of a sirup designed to destroy ants. Accidental consumption of these concoctions by children has caused a few deaths.

Among the earliest indications of thallium poisoning is loss of hair from the scalp. This may be very extensive, although hair on the body, the eyebrows, and the eyelashes is not affected. Mild pains in the joints, drowsiness, lack of appetite, and weakness in the lower extremities are quite characteristic. If the cause is not promptly recognized and poisoning continues, the skin of the legs becomes dry and scaly and increases in thickness. Occasionally purplish or bluish spots appear on other parts of the body. Later there may be a marked paralysis of the muscles leading to foot drop. Following the ingestion of a large dose there will be severe cramps with diarrhea and all the symptoms of an acute intestinal intoxication or infection.

An analysis of 51 cases of thallium poisoning due to the use of a certain hair remover shows that the eyesight was affected in about one-fourth of the cases, with some involvement of the nervous system in nearly half. Most of these patients exhibited the symptoms mentioned in the previous paragraph to a greater or lesser extent.

If symptoms of thallium poisoning are acute prompt measures must be taken. The stomach should be emptied by the use of an emetic—mustard water—or through the employment of the stomach tube, and brisk bowel evacuations secured through the use of cathartics. Epsom salts is not advised. Inasmuch as the iodide of thallium is practically insoluble, sodium iodide may be given by direct injection into a vein or, if an emergency does not exist, it may be administered by mouth. Large doses of calcium will be required, as thallium upsets the calcium balance of the body.

This metal is a poison of serious moment and its absorption may injure every tissue of the body, including the nervous system. Even the medical use of thallium has been called into question.

Few if any depilatories containing thallium are on the market today. Nevertheless, new preparations are constantly appearing. It would be well if every purchaser of a hair remover could make certain that the particular compound secured does not contain this metal in any form. Beauty at the price of thallium is too costly.

HAY FEVER.

M. F. writes: When is hay fever most severe? Is there any real protective power afforded by vaccines?

REPLY.

Hay fever occurs throughout the entire pollen season, that is, from the first blooming of trees until after the autumn plants have been killed by a heavy frost. There are usually two waves—one beginning about June 15 and another Aug. 15. About half of those who are sensitive to pollen are not affected until the August pollen grains fill the air. As a rule, those who are afflicted late suffer more severely. Individuals vary in sensitivity—one person may develop all the symptoms of nasal irritation, persistent watery discharge from the nose, congestion of the eyes, while others will manifest but one or two of these symptoms in relatively mild form. Some are sensitive to several types of pollen; others, to only one. If the symptoms arise because of a single pollen, as soon as that type disappears from the air the disease vanishes.

The most common offender is the pollen of the ragweed—both the giant and dwarf—although other plants such as wormwood, mugwort, sagewort, Russian thistle, sage brush, etc., are blamed. Among the grasses that should be mentioned are Bermuda, orchard, redtop and timothy.

Vaccines [allergens] have been used with varying degrees of success and, on the whole, are helpful. As a rule, fifteen doses are given approximately three days apart. The doses are gradually increased in amount.

There are many suggestions for getting rid of air borne pollen in the home. Air filters may be installed and an efficient conditioning apparatus will rid the air of most of the offending particles because the air is passed through a washer.

PERSPIRATION.

Helen writes: What causes excessive perspiration of the face? I find that my face perspires more freely than the rest of my body.

REPLY.

The activity of the sweat glands is governed by the sympathetic nervous system which in turn is related to the heat center of the brain. A number of toxins will irritate the sympathetic nerve endings and cause profuse perspiration. For example, in tuberculosis, the condition known as night sweats is the result of absorption of toxins produced by the tubercle bacillus.

When the humidity of the air is normal evaporation is continually taking place from the surface of the skin. In the presence of a large amount of moisture in the air [relative humidity above 50] evaporation takes place slowly and perspiration collects on the surface of the body. Scores of toxins will produce excess activity of the sweat glands even when the humidity is low. Some of these affect the face along the course of the fifth nerve, which has three principal branches and is the chief nerve of sensation of the face.

An old time but erroneous belief is that excessive perspiration is an evidence of strength and good health. It may be merely a sign of nervousness.

DIVIDING ESTATE.

Chicago, July 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother died a few months ago in Canada and left some money to be divided among six children. The will was not contested. 1. Does it have to go to the Probate court and [2] how long will it take? 3. Can I borrow on this through a finance corporation and how much would they charge for interest? E. S.

1. The bank is in a position to insist on probate if the money is in a bank. If the parties can get possession of the money without the appointment of an administrator, then no necessity for probate appears on the facts that you state.

2. Creditors are allowed a year in which to file their claims, if that is what you mean to ask.

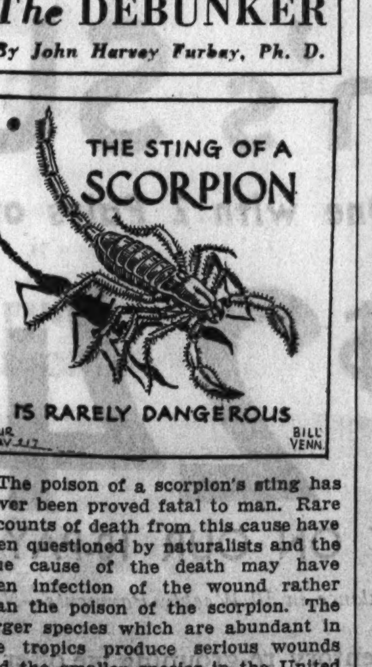
The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.



The poison of a scorpion's sting has never been proved fatal to man. Rare accounts of death from this cause have been questioned by naturalists and the true cause of the death may have been infection of the wound rather than the poison of the scorpion. The larger species which are abundant in the tropics produce serious wounds and the smaller species in the United States can make wounds that are quite bad, but the effect of the poison injected by these creatures has been greatly discounted in recent years. The poison is deadly enough, however, to kill small prey such as spiders and grasshoppers.

CHANGING THE PAROLE SYSTEM.

Chicago, July 30.—In your editorial of July 26, "Changing the Parole System," appears the following:

> Col. Chamberlin and Gov. Horner are concerned only with altering, and probably improving, the machinery of the parole system. Their plans ignore the fundamental defect of the system, which lies in the men who run the machine, not the machine itself.

I do not understand how THE TRIBUNE reached this conclusion, because I had particularly stressed the necessity for the selection of competent men to run the machine. A major recommendation was for an administrative board with definite tenure of office, which it seemed to me provided a way to avoid the "fundamental defect" and provided for the selection of the proper men to "run the machine." The recommendation is this:

> An Administrative Board with Definite Tenure of Office. This board to supersede the present parole board, its personnel to consist of five persons appointed by the governor and selected for their particular fitness without reference to politics, religion, nationality, fraternal or other affiliations. Each member selected to be not less than 30 years of age, with the equivalent of a university education and preferably a member of one of the learned professions. No person to be selected who has held elective or appointive public office within five years prior to such appointment. Any appointee of the board to be disqualified for holding elective or appointive office for a period of at least three years after leaving the board. The members of the first board to be appointed for terms of three, six, nine, twelve and fifteen years, respectively. Thereafter one member to be appointed every third year for a period of fifteen years. The pay to be sufficient to attract competent persons. No member of the board to have other occupation, but to devote his entire time to the work. The idea here is to prevent a change in the personnel of the board at the will of each incoming governor, and assure the services of men who are willing to make careers of this type of work. In other words, to provide for career men; men who take pride in their work, who become trained for it and possess the requisites for successful service to the commonwealth. Some provision should be made for retirement and pension and in the event of incompetency or corruption, action for impeachment and removal of any member should be provided, preferably by some original action in the Supreme court of Illinois.

In other sections of the report suggestions were made for the creation of a staf of competent men and women obliged to meet definite educational requirements, protected by civil service, and chosen on merit alone. I do not know how I could make it clearer nor indicate that the basic idea was predicated on men who run the machine, not the machine itself. Careful analysis of the report, it seems to me, carries the obvious thought that the foundation for successful parole administration is to be built not on things but men.

TRIBUTE TO CARTER GLASS.

Biltmore, N. C., July 26.—We who believe in the constitution not as a thing of paper but as a proven instrument of government which puts checks on the tyranny of majorities are indebted to Carter Glass more than to any other man in public life of today.

I think it would be not only fitting but wise to build a monument to this great Virginian who will go down in history as the defender of the constitution. Money could be raised by public subscription and the monument placed in Washington overlooking Capitol hill, the abode of those statesmen who as tenants there may be reminded that cowardice, venality, and ignorance did not make this country and have not perpetuated it. RICHARD PRENDERGAST.

TAX PENALTIES.

Beardstown, Ill., July 26.—My 1933 tax was delinquent. Fortunately by rigid economy I managed to accumulate the money to pay it, which I did some months ago, together with interest and a vicious 12 per cent penalty. Now an asinine general assembly remits the interest charges and the 12 per cent penalty if back taxes are paid by Aug. 1.

Am I and many thousands of other delinquents who have managed to pay up our taxes not entitled to a refund of the 12 per cent penalty and the interest? What the law does is to put a premium of 12 per cent on the nonpayment of tax. It is inconceivable that men would be paid many thousands of dollars yearly to enact laws such as this. A prompt repeal of such an unjust law is demanded by a sales tax ridden public.

NOTE ON GRANVILLE BROWNING.

Chicago, July 28.—The article in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE of July 28 on the death of Granville W. Browning brings to mind a fact that Lincolnians might be interested in knowing, viz., that Mr. Browning a few months ago at the Chicago Bar association told the writer that he was the only person alive who attended the trial of the Lincoln conspirators in Washington, D. C., in 1865. Although children were not admitted to the trial, Mr. Browning said his mother had a pass from the secretary of war for herself and children and hence his admittance in spite of general orders to the contrary excluding the public. I was glad to add Mr. Browning's remark to my notes of the trial.

TRUCK DRIVER, 22, WINS TRYOUT FOR MUSIC FESTIVAL

Jobless Stenographer Is Picked as Soprano.

Tickets on Sale!

Tickets for the Chicagoland Music Festival may be bought at Tribune Public Service offices. Reserve seats are 50 cents each.

A truck driver and a jobless stenographer were the winners last evening of first places respectively as basso and soprano in the north side tryouts for the Chicagoland Music Festival sponsored by THE TRIBUNE. Their honors were earned in competition with forty other singers before an audience of 400 persons at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

There was real drama in the winning of Duwayn Carnes, 22 years old, the bass. He staged a forty-two mile race against a storm and against time to attend the contest. He arrived after every other bass had sung and the competition among singers of this classification was about to be closed. Indeed, at the moment he dashed into the grand ballroom, where the tryouts were held, the first group of soprano singers already were filing onto the stage.

Judges Accept Explanation.

Carnes explained his tardiness, after identifying himself, by stating that he had driven hard all the way from his parents' home near Waukegan to be on hand. He said also that he had raced with a thunderstorm which threatened to overtake him, cut down his driving speed, and prevent his arrival in time to sing at all.

After a brief consultation the judges, Mabel Sharp Herdien, Mary Peck Thomson and John T. Reed, agreed to allow him to sing his selection, "Asleep in the Deep," by Petrie. As the opening chords were sounded the storm of which he had spoken burst outside. Lightning flickered and thunder crashed about the hotel as he sang the old song of the dangers on the ocean deeps.

Unanimously the judges agreed that his deep and effortless voice was the best they had heard. Second place which does not carry the right to compete in the Cook county-Chicago finals at the Drake hotel on Aug. 15, went to Harry Pearson, 20 years old, 3350 Seminary avenue, who sang "Out of the Deep" from the arrangement by Vernon Eville. Third place was awarded A. Edward Oyan, 20 years old, of Werner, S. D., who has lived at 7737 East Lake terrace for one year. Oyan sang "Home on the Range," from the arrangement of Guion.

3 Sopranos Closely Matched.

Three of the sopranos were so closely matched that the judges had to ask them to sing a second time before choosing Miss Pauline Swayne, 22 years old, 18 East Chestnut street, as the best. She sang "Ocean, Thou Mighty Monster," from Von Weber's opera, "Oberon."

Miss Swayne, who sadly said she had just lost her job as a stenographer, explained that she has been studying voice for only two years. She said she had competed in the Music Festival tryouts a year ago, but had not gained the notice of the judges.

The others who pressed her so closely were Miss Hazelle Pries, 25 years old, 5214 North Kimball avenue, singing "Isle D'Amour," by Leo Edwards, and Mrs. Thelma Irene Olmstead, 31 years old, 2220 Lincolnwood drive, Evanston, whose song was 'Love's a Merchant," by Carew. Miss Pries was given second place and Mrs. Olmsted third.

Applause Ban Broken.

So narrow was the margin between all three of the women that the listeners, who carefully had respected the request for no applause all evening, broke the rule when the three sang for the second time. Each was heartily applauded.

The first place winners in the competitions last night will appear in the Cook county-Chicago finals against similar winners from all sections of the city and county. From among them one man and one woman will be chosen on the afternoon of Aug. 17 at the Drake hotel to represent Chicago and Cook county in the Chicagoland finals. The victors are to sing that night in the Music Festival at Soldiers' field.

The tryouts swing to the west side next Monday and Tuesday. They are to be held at the Midwest Athletic club, 6 North Hamlin avenue. The south side tryouts will be held on Wednesday and Thursday next week at the Chicago Women's club, 72 East 11th street.

Former Welfare Workers Sue to Get Jobs Back

Nine former employés in the state department of public welfare who lost their jobs under what they termed an "alleged" retrenchment program, filed suit in Superior court yesterday for a mandamus to compel state officials to return their jobs to them. The petition, filed by Attorney Michael F. Ryan, alleges that the retrenchment program was a "subterfuge" as the jobs are now being filled by temporary employés.

ROBBERS SLUG HELPER AT FUR COMPANY PLANT

Fred Festering, 50 years old, a general helper at the Effron Fur company plant, 61 West Austin avenue, was slugged and seriously injured yesterday by two men who invaded the place.

Festering had just entered the three story building when the men, apparently bent on stealing part of a large stock of valuable raw furs and hides, set upon him. His cries for help were heard by Ralph Effron, secretary of the concern, who was on the second floor.

Effron ran outside and summoned Policeman Timothy Sugrue of the Chicago avenue station. Sugrue fired several times at the fleeing bandits, one of the shots entering the window of a gasoline station at La Salle and Illinois streets. It grazed the scalp of Harry Trock, attendant.

At Henrotin hospital doctors said Festering had suffered a possible skull fracture.

Overcome by Heat, Falls 40 Feet from Tree, Dies

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 1.—(AP)—J. R. Martin, 67, a retired Burlington railroad man and amateur bee culturist of Beardstown, was killed today when he fell 40 feet from a tree in his yard. Apparently he was overcome by heat. Attired in a beekeepers' mask and suit, Martin had been trying to hive a swarm of bees in the tree.

MEDICAL SERVICE CHARGES PLOT TO RIVAL CLINIC

Suit for $250,000 damages was filed in the Superior court yesterday by the United Medical Service, Inc., 23 East Jackson boulevard, against four of its former directors.

The defendants named are Hamilton M. Loeb, Clifford C. Templeton, Dr. Ernest B. Zeisler, and Dr. Charles R. Wiley. All were formerly associated in United Medical Service with its president, Dr. Joseph G. Berkowitz, but recently broke with him.

In the bill the defendants are charged with having entered into a conspiracy to wreck the United Medical Service with the Civic Medical Center, 220 South State street, in which Dr. Zeisler and Dr. Wiley are associates. The bill alleges that the defendants converted money of the United Medical Service to their own uses, turned away patients, belittled the institution, and otherwise sought to harm its business.

Olson Named to State Staf of U. S. Emergency Council

Sveinbjorn Johnson, director of the National Emergency council for Illinois, announced yesterday the appointment of Eskil M. Olson as his assistant. Olson was in the contracting business in Chicago until he went to Washington four years ago as an assistant secretary to United States Senator Lewis.

HIT BY FEARS, THOMPSON ASKS KIN TO FORGET

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Gerald Thompson, 26, convicted slayer of Mildred Hallmark, cowered in his cell at the county jail today following last night's verdict which decreed his death in the electric chair. He spent most of the night and day pacing the floor of his well guarded cell. No one visited him during the day. His only thought was of his mother and grandparents, who reared him and his brother, Victor, also a jail inmate. Victor is awaiting trial for taking indecent liberties with a young boy.

During the day Gerald Thompson wrote a note to his relatives. He asked them to forget him. The note said:

"Dear Folks:

"I don't know what to say except good-by and please forget. Please don't consider me a murderer. It was an accident. I leave everything of mine to mother. I wish I could do more.
"JERRY."

Thompson had expected to be sentenced to death in the chair. He resigned himself to that after State's Attorney E. V. Champion's opening argument.

Until that time, the slayer had considered a life sentence as the probable maximum punishment. Frequently in asking special favors of his guards, he prefaced his remarks with "you know, I'll be gone for a few years—"

From time to time he had remarked: "The electric chair doesn't scare me—I always was fond of electricity. Why I could have sat in the electric chair and testified—if the juice wasn't turned on."

Falls on Jail Cot.

Although Thompson exercised the same steely control in the courtroom that he has shown all during his trial, he felt ill. After he heard the verdict and went in to the prisoners' anteroom to be handcuffed for the trip back to jail.

"What the hell could you expect?" he retorted when asked if he had believed the verdict would be different.

Once returned to his cell on the top floor of the county jail, Thompson flung himself on the cell cot. After the customary examination in his cell, the lights were extinguished. He was left alone. The guards said he sighed once or twice, but they heard no sobbing.

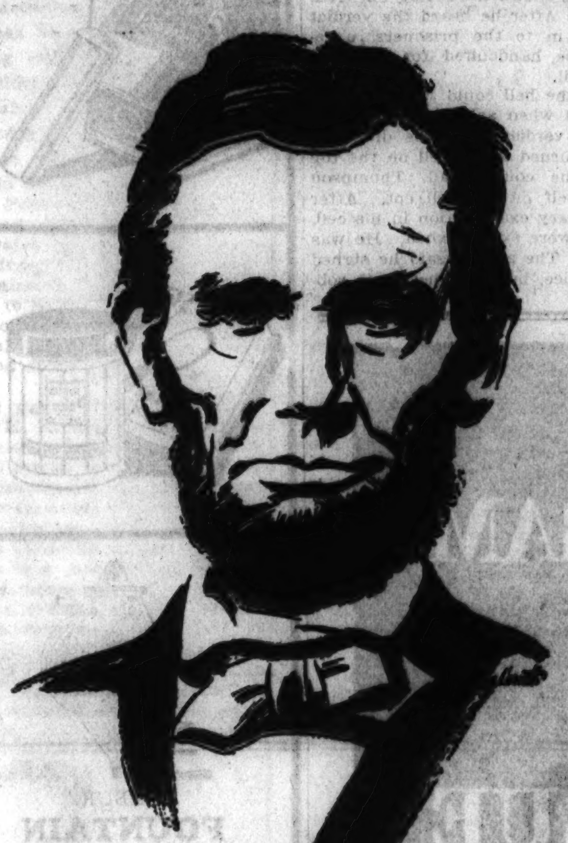
"YOU CAN NOT FOOL ALL OF THE PEOPLE ALL THE TIME"



As never before in their history, American citizens have seen their government use propaganda in myriad forms and in tremendous quantities to win their favor and keep their support.

To inform readers of events as they happen and not as officialdom would have the public believe they happen, the Chicago Tribune maintains its own staff of impartial and experienced reporters at Washington. Their instructions are to ignore official handouts and to get the complete facts.

Events have demonstrated the accuracy of their reports. In the face of official disfavor, unresponsive to the heady invitations of official society, they painstakingly gather and write the news, free to do so because the Tribune is free.

The Chicago Tribune is independent of outside control, independent of financial or political attachments. It is printed and circulated as the principal interest and occupation of its editor and publisher, and published in the conviction that the most important factor in a newspaper is the news.

33D DIVISION'S MOVE ON CAMP BEGINS TONIGHT

5,000 from City to Train Near Rockford.

At midnight tonight nearly 5,000 members of the 33d division, Illinois National Guard, soldiers of Uncle Sam, will begin moving out of Chicago for the annual encampment at Camp Grant near Rockford. They will travel in trucks given them by the war department last year, but used this year for the first time in a general mobilization. Two convoys leaving Chicago will be more than three miles long.

At the same time, from other parts of the state, from Springfield down to Egypt, 2,000 more troops will start toward camp, where the entire 7,000 will answer roll call tomorrow morning for their two weeks' intensive training. Only one battalion, that of Cairo, will travel by train. In all 287 army trucks will be used.

Thomas Hammond in Command.

The entire 33d division, with the exception of the 58th field artillery brigade, which recently had two weeks' training at Sparta, Wis., will be in camp. Thomas F. Hammond, senior brigade commander, will be in command. Major General of Militia Roy D. Keehn, division commander, is recovering in Passavant hospital from injuries incurred in an automobile accident.

A program of training has been worked out for the encampment which includes a sham battle with the entire division on an overnight camp and maneuver with long marches. Musketry firing by units will be another feature. Ground units will train with the air forces and infantry with the cavalry and engineers.

While these preparations were being made yesterday the Illinois state armory board, which was appointed by Gov. Horner as a result of action of the last assembly, held its first meeting. The members went first to visit Keehn, who as president of the National Guard Association of the United States sponsored the government's $80,000,000 armory program. Illinois is to receive nearly $5,000,000 of this fund for new armories in Chicago and 28 downstate cities.

Board's By-Laws Prepared.

An organization meeting was held at guard headquarters, 208 South La Salle street, and by-laws prepared by the attorney general were adopted. Adjt. Gen. C. E. Black attended the meeting. The members of the commission are Keehn, Col. Albert L. Culbertson of Delavan, Capt. Pierce L. Shannan of Chicago, and Capt. Sherwood Dixon of Dixon.

Tentative plans have been made for the extension of the 122d field artillery armory, for the building of a headquarters house at the 33d division aviation headquarters at the Chicago airport, and for the housing of the 108th medical regiment and special troops at a new armory on the northwest side. The latter two organizations are now housed in rented quarters at 1839 Diversey parkway.

Other States Busy on Projects.

Many sites have been tendered by downstate cities and plans for the armories have been drawn by C. Herrick Hammond, state architect. It is planned to give permanent housing with these federal aid funds to all the Illinois troops. These will number 200,000 by next year. Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan have started on similar programs.

A citizens' committee headed by County Recorder Edward Kaindl presented a resolution to the armory board urging the selection of a site for an armory somewhere on the northwest side. It states that the northwest side through its citizens and leadership has always contributed liberally to all phases of national defense and that many of its residents have served and are now serving in the armed forces and in reserve forces.

Despite the growth of National Guard units in Chicago, the resolution continued, the northwest side, with a vast territory and nearly one-third of the population, is without representation in the matter of a home for state troops.

BUILDING TRADES UNIONS DIVIDE ON COURT RULE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The split between two rival groups of building trades unions within the American Federation of Labor was widened today when seven unions, on the call of William Green, president of the federation, held a convention and designated J. W. Williams as president of the building trades department and Herbert Rivers as secretary.

In the meantime the rival group of twelve unions, meeting in an office building across the street, under the chairmanship of M. J. McDonough, defied the A. F. of L. That group adopted resolutions insisting it constituted the legal building trades department under the recent ruling of Justice Adkins of the District of Columbia Supreme court. He held the convention called by Green last November had been illegally constituted and the group of seven unions did not constitute the bona fide building trades department. The court also ruled that the term of the building trades department officers expired on Jan. 1, 1935, and up to that time the court recognized that Mr. McDonough had been president of the building trades department.

The federation group consisted of the bricklayers, carpenters, electricians, operating engineers, hod carriers, stone and slate polishers and teamsters. The McDonough group consisted of the asbestos workers, boiler makers, iron workers, elevator constructors, granite cutters, lathers, metal workers, plasterers, painters, plumbers, roofers, and stone cutters.

WINS WRIT HERE TO BAR DIVORCE ACTION IN WEST

Superior Judge Charles A. Williams yesterday issued an injunction restraining Edward Jordan, a salesman for Armour & Co., from proceeding with a divorce action he has filed in Los Angeles. The order was signed after Mrs. Emilie Jordan, 32 years old, 426 West 69th street, asked the judge to prevent her husband from getting the divorce in a community so distant she would be unable to fight it.

Through her attorney, Norman Becker, Mrs. Jordan related that she filed a separate maintenance bill here on June 4, charging desertion. She also stated that on June 10 her husband came to her home and asked to take their three children for the afternoon. The eldest child, a daughter, June, 10 years old, was not at home, but Mrs. Jordan allowed her husband to take their twin sons, Kenneth and Edward, 7 years old. They were not brought back home and it was two weeks later, she said, that she learned Jordan had taken the children with him to California.

Youth Dazed by Heat Leaps Into Blade of Thresher

Davenport, Ia., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Believed to have been dazed by the intense heat, Herbert Kummerfeldt, 19, a farm youth residing near Walcott, jumped from a wagon into the blade of a threshing machine on the Julius Paustian farm last evening. He was cut severely on the head and shoulders.

BOTTOM OF OCEAN IS CHARTED IN LUSITANIA HUNT

BY GILBERT McALLISTER.

[Copyright: 1935: By United Feature Syndicate, Inc., and The Chicago Tribune. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited. All rights reserved.]

ABOARD SALVAGE SHIP ORPHIR, Aug. 1.—An area 1,000 yards square, within which Capt. Henry Dell Russell is certain the Lusitania lies, was charted today by the meticulous echo-sounding apparatus of the Orphir. Five trips were made between the north and south borders of the surface, and four from east to west.

As the ship plodded slowly across the calm expanse, navigating officers took half minute bearings, while the graph of the echo-sounder recorded the outlines of the huge wreck beneath us. Two hundred and forty times per minute the line of the graph advanced in minutely abrupt movements.

Ship's "Seventh Sense."

This echo-sounding apparatus drew a continuous profile picture of the ocean bed. The Orphir's "seventh sense"—and how it functions—is herewith described:

In the control room is enclosed an electric instrument which measures about two feet by two feet six inches. It looks like a large fuse box. When the front is opened one can see a number of dials, coils, knobs, wires, and a sheet of brownish paper, moving slowly downward on a roller. Within this box is a motor which keeps the sheet moving at a constant speed. Over this paper, which is moistened and treated with starch iodine, moves a "pen," an instrument which is actually an electric current to which the treated paper is sensitive.

In the form of a sharply defined sepia colored line, the paper records irregular markings which undulate in harmony with the outline of the ocean floor.

Transmitter in Engine Room.

Below in the ship's engine room is the transmitter. The latter instrument produces electric sound waves of sixteen thousand cycles per second which travel down to the ocean bed and rebound as echoes. These returning waves are picked up by the receiving instrument in the control room. Here they are amplified and passed on to the electric pen which records them.

When we have reached the shelter of Kinsale cove tonight Capt. Russell and his navigators will correlate the graphs today's charting has recorded with those taken Sunday, when the gigantic wreck was first sighted. The angular reflections of the ocean bed may then denote the exact spot upon which Chief Diver Jarrett will descend.

COUGHLIN ISSUE TO BE TAKEN TO SUPREME COURT

Appeal from Superior Judge Kelly's writ of mandamus ordering the Chicago park district to rent Soldiers' field to the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit radio priest, will be taken directly to the Illinois Supreme court, attorneys for the district announced yesterday.

Judge Kelly signed the mandamus writ on Wednesday. Yesterday he signed an order presented by Attorney Joseph Pleck for the park district, which stays execution of the writ pending the appeal and which waives the appeal bond.

Decision to appeal directly to the Supreme court conforms with a certificate signed by Judge Kelly Wednesday stating that the public interest requires a speedy determination of the case by a direct appeal. Attorney Samuel A. Ettelson for Father Coughlin announced that he would insist that the high court hear the appeal early in its October term.

The park board has refused to rent Soldiers' field to Father Coughlin for a massmeeting on the ground that its policy is to prevent use of the stadium for discussion of political or controversial issues.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Robins Harvesting.

THE robins on the Wheaton experimental farm caught the spirit of harvest this week. While the boys were harvesting the golden brown oat fields, the robins sent out a call for all hands to assemble in the mulberry trees. The fruit is ripe now so the birds have been mighty busy taking care of this crop.

When I was walking in the barnyard a few days ago I noticed a big mulberry tree loaded with berries. The unripened fruit is what catches your eye because it is reddish in color. As these berries become ready for the robins' "harvest" they turn black. When I reached up into the tree and pulled a branch down to sample some of the ripened fruit I disturbed seven robins that were enjoying a grand feed. Not a bird was making any kind of noise. All were too busy for conversation as they fluttered around in the tree picking the succulent rippened mulberries.

Walking around on the farm this week you unconsciously stop to enjoy the vistas of fields now made up of so many different colors. There are rich yellow-brown fields of ripened oats through which the combine makes its noisy way to cut and thresh the crop. Such a field, typifying the spirit of the harvest season, may be next to one that is a rich dark green with its standing corn.

Look out across the fields in another direction and there are stacks of hay against the lights and shadows of the oak woods. Turn your eyes and you see the lush growth of dark green alfalfa. Soon it will be time to cut a second crop of this valuable legume.

In one oat field on the Wheaton farm the combine leveled the golden grain to give the field a new green shade, because growing with the oats is lespedeza which now can be seen in the yellow stubble.

On the Yorkville farm Andy, Eddie and Kenneth were getting into one oat field mighty early this week in order to rake the grain. The idea was to be in the field while it was still wet with dew.

Raking the cut oats with a side delivery rake when the dew is on the field results in a more economical handling of it because less grain is shattered when damp than when it is dried out by the sun.

Binks, the little smooth haired fox terrier here on the Yorkville farm, has had a hard time of it this week. He offered to help keep track of the pigs that squirm through the fences. When he spots one that is out of bounds he goes after it and chases it back on the "reservation."

The other day he was herding one back to the fence, going as fast as his little legs could carry him, when suddenly a strange cat darted across his path. Although Binks is tremendously interested in chasing pigs, his idea of a swell time is to chase a cat.

So the pup forgot his herding responsibility when he saw this cat and immediately he gave chase. But the cat reached a fence post first. By the time Binks returned to the job of rounding up the pig it had got so far away that he had a real job herding it back to its enclosure.

TAKE M'CARDELL TO FACE TRIAL AS LABATT KIDNAPER

Michael McCardell, alias James Parker, who has been identified as one of the gang that kidnaped John S. Labatt, wealthy Canadian brewer, last summer, waived extradition in Hammond yesterday and was taken to London, Ont., to stand trial for his alleged part in the abduction.

Chief of Police Thomas Martinson of Hammond said that McCardell agreed to waive extradition only after he was reminded that deportation proceedings against him would be started if he failed to do so. Chief Martinson said that McCardell is a Canadian, and that several times in the last few years he had entered this country illegally.

McCardell was accompanied on his journey by R. N. Austin of the Chicago bureau of investigation of the department of justice, and by Inspector Hamor Gardner and Sergt. Ted Weeks of the Canadian Royal Mounted police. Austin will turn the prisoner over to them at the Canadian border.

McCardell was arrested in Hammond several weeks ago as a robbery suspect, and pictures of him were identified by Labatt.

FIRE DESTROYS MINT STILL.

Coldwater, Mich., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The Ford Wattles mint still, one of several in this vicinity, was destroyed by fire at Colon last night with damage estimated at $3,000.

LUMBER LOAN TO PUT RFC IN PAPER TRADE, JESSE JONES REVEALS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The Reconstruction Finance corporation is entering the paper business through a loan to an Arkansas lumber company, Jesse H. Jones, RFC chairman, announced today.

The question of government interference with the supply of newsprint and thus with the freedom of the press has been hanging over proposed RFC loans to the paper industry. Until the Arkansas loan was approved, setting a new precedent, the RFC had stayed out of the paper business.

The Crossett Lumber company of Crossett, Ark., will get an RFC loan of 4 million dollars to build a paper mill, Chairman Jones announced. He characterized it as a small mill of 100 tons capacity. A year will be required to build and equip the mill.

"A very successful company" was the term applied by Mr. Jones to the Crossett concern, and he added that he believed the RFC's loan a good one. The company has 800,000 acres of land and a billion feet of lumber, he said. Cordwood and second growth timber will be used in the manufacture of paper.

$37,000,000 CITY STREET JOB PLAN SENT TO CAPITAL

Plans for an extensive street resurfacing program for Chicago were speeded to Washington, D. C., last night for approval by the national officials of the federal Works Progress administration. Robert J. Dunham, Illinois direction of the WPA, said the federal government would be asked to furnish $32,545,000 of the funds and the city would contribute $5,069,000.

The street rehabilitation program has been divided into 130 projects, of which 70 will embrace the repair and rebuilding of asphalt streets. Thirty of the projects are for the rebuilding of brick pavements and the other 30 are for grading and surfacing of unimproved streets.

The street program will extend for ten months and furnish employment for 38,000 men, according to plans. Of the money contributed by the government, 61 per cent will go directly for labor and 39 per cent will be spent on materials, thus providing indirect labor, officials said.

Plans for five minor projects, totaling $61,979, also were sent to Washington.

FALLS IN DRY POOL; DIES.

Daniel Charvat, 29 years old, 1814 South 55th court, Cicero, was killed yesterday when he fell into a dry swimming pool near the Cicero park system fieldhouse at 57th avenue and 16th street. Edward Dubsky, 30 years old, 1435 57th avenue, Cicero, who was with Charvat, said they had been drinking.

Gives Up After Robbery; Learns He Is a Father

When Wilbur Dreuth, 26 years old, 2844 Abbott court, surrendered to the Sheffield avenue police yesterday, explaining he was wanted for robbing a grocery where he formerly worked, the police informed him in turn that he was the father of a boy born to his wife, Ann, since he fled to Michigan last Monday. Dreuth said he was a clerk in the National Tea company store at 2401 North Clark street until he was discharged last Saturday. On Sunday, Dreuth said, he broke into the store, opened the safe, and took $130. Then he went to Benton Harbor with a friend and spent all except $2 of the money. The friend, Walter Jacoby, 22 years old, 2336 North Clark street, also was held.

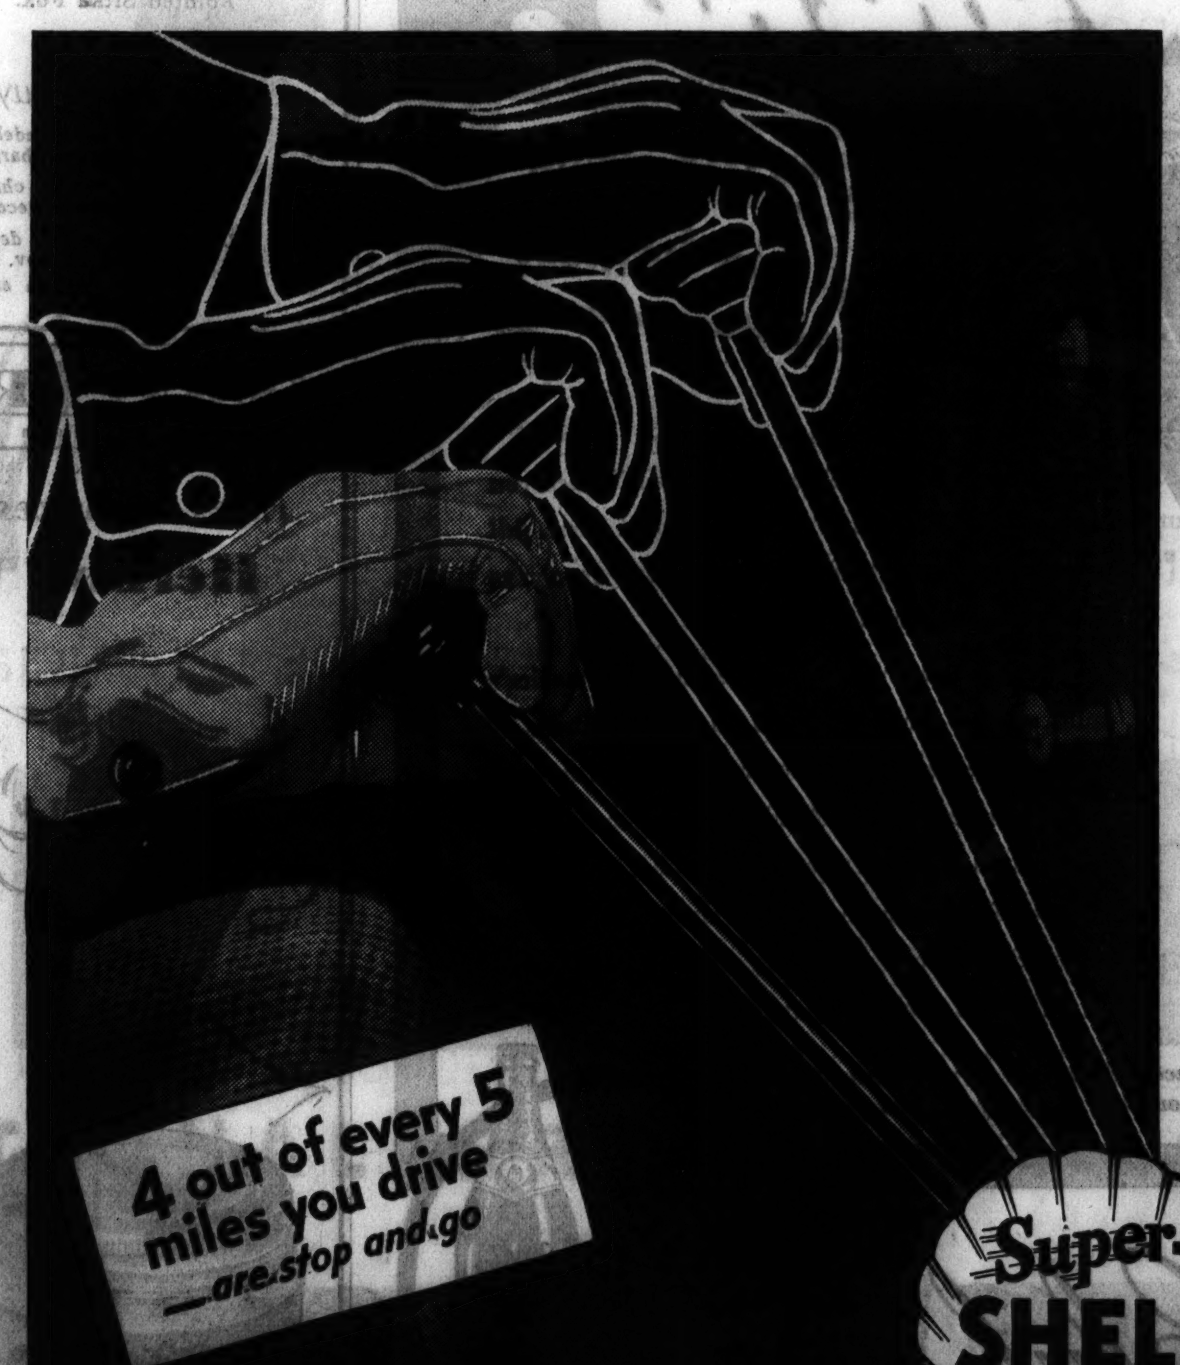
3 SHIFTS (a single start) can use 1/3 of a mile of gasoline



4 out of every 5 miles you drive —are stop and-go

Today's short trips waste your money unless your gasoline has these Three Kinds of Power...

YOU wouldn't like to drive 3 MILES in low gear... yet you often do just that in an average week's stop-and-go driving!

Figure out the number of times you shift gears in those daily "errand drives"—to the office... the bank... the school... the club!

Then remember that the rapid acceleration of your motor as you "shift" can use 33% more gasoline than steady running.

Also, you move over a TON starting from a dead stop... and you often do this 30 times a day! So your gasoline must have power for HARD PULLING.

But for economy in today's stop-and-go driving, just one kind of power—PULLING—isn't enough! You must also have power for QUICK STARTING... for STEADY RUNNING. And these 3 kinds of power must be in PERFECT BALANCE!

Super-Shell is the FIRST truly balanced gasoline. With its 3 kinds of power, it cuts driving costs 3 ways:—

STARTING—With its even volatility, Super-Shell can save up to a cupful of gasoline on every "cold" start.

PULLING—Super-Shell can save up to a cupful of gasoline in 10 minutes of hard pulling, or rapid accelerating, or on hills.

RUNNING—With its abundant heat units, it can save up to a cupful in every hour of steady running, many motorists report.

Remember, when you save 16 cupfuls you save a whole gallon of gasoline.

There are over 30,000 Shell stations to serve you from Coast to Coast. Stop at one of these stations, and start saving TODAY!

SELECT WINNERS OF SCHOLARSHIPS GIVEN BY TRIBUNE

Employes Win $500 for College Expenses.

The winners of the two $500 scholarship awards for 1935-'36 given under THE TRIBUNE's scholarship plan were announced yesterday. They are John R. Bayless, file clerk in the editorial reference department, and John R. Taylor, messenger in the advertising order department.

These two were adjudged the winners in a competition open to the children of TRIBUNE employés, direct dependents of employés, and employés less than 25 years of age who were sponsored by their department heads. Provided the winners remain in the upper third of their college classes, their scholarships are to be renewed until the completion of a full four year course.

So far as is known, THE TRIBUNE is the first business institution in the country to offer such scholarships and this year's awards are the first to be made under the plan.

21 Applicants Take Exam.

There were 34 applicants, who were divided into two classes. Twenty-one of them, who had advanced no further than completion of their high school courses, were given an examination under the direction of Mrs. Sara Jones Tucker of the examining staf of the University of Chicago. Bayless fell within this class.

Two hours of examinations were given. One hour was devoted to a general examination and the other hour to the applicant's choice between history, mathematics or English. Bayless chose English. The papers were not signed but numbered, and it was only after they had been graded that the sealed envelope which contained the key numbers was opened. Then it was found that the paper which had a clear lead over all the others had been written by Bayless.

The remaining 13 applicants had all had a year or more of college work. Taylor was chosen from among this group, having completed his freshman year at Northwestern university with an unusually high scholastic record, three As and an A minus. An A is the highest grade.

Plans Career in Advertising.

Taylor, who is 17 years old, is the oldest of the four children of Mrs. Jessie R. Taylor, a widow, who is employed in THE TRIBUNE's Sunday department. They live at 3448 Elaine place. He stood fourth, scholastically, in his graduating class of 500 at Lake View High school.

Taylor is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary fraternity at Northwestern university. He is going back to Northwestern for another year in the liberal arts college, and then intends to transfer to the commerce school. He wants to enter the advertising business in which his father was engaged.

Bayless, who is 22 years old, is married and the father of a 1 year old son. His home is at 1314 North La Salle street. He was born in Mulkeytown, Ill., and received his early education at Christopher, Ill. At Waller High school, where he completed his high school studies, he stood fourth in a midterm graduating class of 101 with a four year average of 93.3.

Bayless has announced his intention of attending De Paul university, and hopes to become a reporter "with editorial writing as my ultimate aim." In 1930 he went to work for THE TRIBUNE as a copy boy.

At De Paul he will enter the commerce school for pre-legal work, and then take law, not to practice it but "for its educational value." He will continue to work in THE TRIBUNE reference department while at school.

China's Officials Flee Nanking as Japanese Press 'New Deal'

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, July 30.—[By courier to Hongkong.]—Japanese pressure and intrigue plus the vicissitudes of domestic politics have practically destroyed or reduced to impotency the Nanking government to which Nelson T. Johnson, recently promoted to United States ambassador, is scheduled to present his credentials.

Should Johnson proceed from Peiping to Nanking today he would not find a single Chinese executive on the job due to the fact that the national government officialdom is scattered to the four winds. Most of them, it is announced, were suffering from a variety of illnesses.

Only One Official on Job.

The only official actually working is Dr. H. H. Kung, finance minister and brother-in-law of Dictator Chiang Kai-shek. He recently was made acting head of the executive yuan due to the "illness" of Premier Wang Ching-wei. The premier has gone to Tsingtao, a seaside resort, where a German physician said that the premier must remain indefinitly. Dr. Kung goes to Nanking once a week where he holds a perfunctory meeting of the executive department and catches the next train for Shanghai.

Akira Ariyoshi, Japanese ambassador, is worried because most of the Chinese officials are on sick leave and unable to discuss Japan's "new deal." Consequently, he has sent two bottles of a special medicine to two of the ailing ministers.

One bottle was dispatched to Wang Ching-wei. The other was sent to Gen. Ho Ying-chin, war minister and former head of the Peiping military committee. He is ill in a Nanking hospital and "unable to see visitors." Ariyoshi said the medicine is especially adapted to the gall bladder ailment which is said to be afflicting both Chinese officials.

Meanwhile the newspapers are filled with rumors about Wang Ching-wei's resignation on account of illness, but evidently due to the complete failure of his policy to conciliate the Japanese. Should the premier resign it would result in a complete reshuffling of the government and the possible return of Hu Han-ming of the Canton faction with an anti-Japanese policy.

Chiang Kai-shek, the only man in the government possessing real military power, now has headquarters at Chengtu, capital of the province of Czechwan, 1,500 miles west of Shanghai. He is pushing a war against communists.

An unconfirmed report said that the Japanese have presented an ultimatum to Chiang, ordering him to return to Nanking immediately to assume personal responsibility for settlement of the Chinese-Japanese issues as well as reorganization of the national government.

Would Oust Chiang.

It is claimed that the Japanese presented a plan for reorganization of the Nanking government. The fundamental element of the plan is the abolition of the Kuomintang, People's party, with the election of Wang Ching-wei as chief executive possessing real civil and military power similar to that of the constitutional government. Chiang-Kai-shek would be relegated to an inferior position and all the members of his family would be eliminated from official positions.

The Japanese claim that Premier Wang Ching-wei is the only Chinese official who has "acted with sincerity" in the recent negotiations pertaining to the north China crises.

The virtual collapse of the government caused a panicky situation here, with officials of foreign settlements taking precautions against uprisings.

THREE IDENTIFIED IN CAFE HOLDUP ARE JAILED HERE

Three Chicagoans, all with police records, were turned over to the Chicago police yesterday by Sherif William Maier of Kendall county, who arrested them on July 23. The men are James Blair, 28 years old, 1709 Warren boulevard; Jay Haxton, 42 years old, 1909 Washington boulevard, and Joseph Gottardo, 27 years old, 5818 Rice street.

Mrs. Agnes Lincoln, owner of a restaurant at 217 North Peoria street, has identified the trio as men who held up her place on Jan. 5 and escaped with $250. They are to be prosecuted for the robbery.

ROB DES PLAINES RAILWAY TICKET AGENT OF $1,144

Two men carrying pistols took $1,144 yesterday in a robbery of the ticket office of the North Western railroad station in Des Plaines. The robbers forced C. A. Davis, the ticket agent, to open a safe in the office from which they scooped the money. They overlooked $300 more in another drawer in the safe. Davis was ordered to lie on the floor of the ticket cage until the men had disappeared.

TRUANCY IN CHICAGO SCHOOLS SHOWS DROP; CREDIT PROSECUTION

The number of cases of truancy in the Chicago public schools last year total for the previous year, William was 6,209, a decrease of 309 from the L. Bodine, superintendent of compulsory education, informed William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, yesterday in a report covering the 1934-1935 activities of Chicago truant officers.

The report attributes the decrease to a favorable reaction to the prosecution in the Municipal court of indifferent parents.

It was pointed out in the report that girls are less inclined to truancy than boys. Eight hundred and forty-three of the 6,209 cases reported were those of girls.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Louis Kanthack, 18, just home from his vacation, dreamed he still was at a lake. He stood in bed, posing for a dive. A bed spring impulse shot him through a screened window and he landed in a neighbor's yard, barely missing a concrete wall. He was not seriously hurt.

DEERFIELD COW BREAKS RECORD AS A PRODUCER

Supplies 4½ Pounds of Butter a Day.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Calamity Nig of Elmwood farms at Deerfield yesterday was declared the world's champion milk and butter producer. This pure bred Holstein cow has just completed a 365 day record, producing 34,680.6 pounds of milk containing 1,326.9 pounds of butterfat or enough to make 1,658.6 pounds of butter. This is equivalent to more than 4½ pounds of butter a day.

The record was established Wednesday night and was announced yesterday afternoon by Robert V. Rasmussen, host to 400 members of the Illinois Holstein association attending the organization's annual midsummer picnic at Elmwood farms. Rasmussen is a son of George Rasmussen, president of the National Tea company, who owns the farms. After the record had been certified by H. W. Norton Jr., superintendent of advanced registry of the national organization, the figures were cabled to the senior Rasmussen, who is spending the summer at his farm in Denmark.

Milking Marathon Also Ends.

Completion of the record also ended one of the greatest milking marathons ever held. Ed Malm has milked the champion cow once every six hours, four times a day, a total of 1,460 milkings since the test was started on Aug. 1, 1934.

"Nig," Ed's name for the cow, has exceeded the record of the former combination milk and butter producer, Lady Pride Pontiac Lieuwkje, owned by F. E. Murphy of Minneapolis. She also passed the high butter mark established by the former holder of the United States record—Daisy Aggie Ormsby III., owned by Lakefield Farms, Clarkston, Mich. This old champion is now dead.

The new champion at Elmwood Farms was not only milked night and day by Malm, but constantly was fed and cared for by him. Each day he has fed the cow about 18 pounds of mixed grains, including corn, oats, bran, oil meal, cottonseed meal and ground soy beans; 25 pounds of alfalfa and clover hay, 30 pounds of silage and 18 pounds of molasses, dried beet pulp.

Milkman to Take Rest.

Ed also milked daily 9 or 10 other cows. He is going to rest his tired hands for a few days and "go fishing up home near Lancaster, Minn."

The champion cow is one of the 340 Elmwood Farms' herd of Holsteins, headed by King Bessie Ormsby Pietertje, established by Mr. Rasmussen 15 years ago. Under the superintendency of Kenneth Munson, these Holsteins have become one of the finest show herds in the nation. Thirty-two selected animals will be started on the show circuits of the country soon.

A. J. Glover, president of the Holstein Friesian Association of America, who spoke to the dairymen at the luncheon, pointed to the new champion as an example of the kind of cows dairymen should try to breed, not alone because of her record, but because she can transmit her high producing qualities to her offspring. She is 8 years old and already has produced two hefers that have made a fine showing—one producing 763.75 pounds of butter and another producing 726.25 pounds of butter in a year.

Mr. Glover encouraged the dairy cattle breeders to keep records for use in making "daughter and dam comparisons. It is not enough for a cow to produce a record. She must be able to pass that quality on to her progeny," he said

FINE WHITE LOAF CAKE

16 egg whites
5 cups flour
1 yeast cake
1 cup butter
3 cups sugar
1 cup rich milk
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon almond extract
¼ teaspoon salt

DIRECTIONS—Sift flour and salt together four or five times. Cream butter and sugar together thoroughly. Mixture must be light and creamy. Beat egg whites until stiff and add to the butter mixture alternately with the flour. Then add the milk slowly in which yeast has been dissolved and beat all together for several minutes, adding the flavoring while beating. Line a large pan with paper, bottom and sides. Pour in the mixture, cover pan closely, and place in a warm oven. Let stand one hour, then start increasing the heat gradually to 350° F. and bake two hours. This makes a fine wedding cake when the necessary decorations are added. This recipe is from 75 to 100 years old.

Baked Peach Relish for Roast Meats.

3 large fully ripe peaches
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Sugar sirup

Peel and stone the peaches, cutting only in halves. Pour over them ¾ cup of medium sugar sirup [1 cup sugar to 1 cup of water cooked together 10 minutes] and simmer, tightly covered, 15 minutes. Drain the peaches and lay them flat side down in a baking pan, leaving a small space between them. Sprinkle lightly with brown sugar, dot with butter and lemon juice. Bake in a hot oven [425 degrees F.] until brown and tender. A little of the cooking sirup may be added if the peaches seem dry. Serve as a sweet relish with hot roast meats.

NEW ENGLAND BOILED DINNER

DIRECTIONS—Select a nice 4 pound piece of corned beef, preferably the brisket. Put corned beef in large kettle and cover with cold water. Bring slowly to boiling point and remove scum that rises to the top. Cook over very low heat until the meat is perfectly tender. When cooked, remove meat to a warm platter and skim the water of all fat and cook cabbage and turnips in the water in which the meat was cooked. Turnips should be small and cooked whole, otherwise cut them into pieces. The head of cabbage is to be cut into quarters. Boiled beets also are included in this dinner, but they are to be cooked alone in another saucepan. Cook them well in advance of the other vegetables. When vegetables are cooked, place them around the meat, with mounds of canned mixed vegetables at intervals. To three parts melted butter add one part vinegar and pour over cabbage and beets before placing them on the dish.

Peach Mangos.

Select large, firm peaches. Dip them in boiling water and slip off the skins. Cut them in half and stone. Now fill the cavities with a mixture of half and half crushed pineapple and cut white cherries. Fasten the halves together with two toothpicks, then carefully lower the filled peaches into clean jars and fill the jars to the top with a sirup made by boiling 4 cups sugar, 2 cups vinegar, 1 tablespoon broken stick cinnamon, 1 teaspoon allspice, and 1½ teaspoons whole cloves together for 7 minutes. Pour the hot sirup over the peach mangos, filling the jars. Adjust the covers and process in a hot water bath for 25 minutes

RIBBON ICE CREAM.

18 marshmallows.
1 cup milk.
1 cup whipping cream.

Melt the marshmallows in the milk in the top of a double boiler. Chill until slightly thickened, and fold in the whipped cream. Pour one-half the mixture into a refrigerator tray, cover with the crushed berries, and pour over this the remaining cream mixture. Freeze in the tray of an automatic refrigerator.

Iced Orange Coffee.

1½ cups water
½ cup sugar
Peel of 2 oranges
4 cups cold coffee
Juice of 2 oranges
⅓ cup evaporated milk

Peel the oranges, then clean off all the white part of the peel, leaving only the thin orange portion. Add the water and sugar and boil for 10 minutes. Strain out the skins and add the coffee. Chill. Immediately before serving add the orange juice and milk. Serve over crushed ice.

Cheese Mayonnaise.

1 package [3 oz.] cream cheese
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup Roquefort cheese
½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup cream

Blend the cream cheese until soft and smooth with the lemon juice and salt. Press the Roquefort cheese through a coarse sieve and add to the first mixture alternately with the mayonnaise, beating well. Add the cream, beating gradually all the while. Serve with crisp greens or tomato salad.

"GREENS" MAKE AN ATTRACTIVE SUMMER DISH

Young alfalfa shoots that develop after cutting make fine greens and purslane, or pigweed—a weed that grows profusely throughout the summer in gardens, cultivated fields and in lawns—and, of course, lettuce, spinach, chard, kale and beet and turnip tops from the garden, all make attractive dishes, says Ruth Dawson of the North Dakota Agricultural college.

Greens are especially desirable because they furnish minerals and four kinds of vitamins, all of which stimulate growth and increase resistance to disease. Because vitamins B and C are easily destroyed by cooking, some of the green vegetables listed should be served raw frequently. The deep green leaves are much richer in vitamins than the pale inner leaves and stems.

Greens should be cooked only a few minutes in as small a quantity of boiling, salted water as possible, unless they are bitter. Do not cover them while cooking as to do so destroys their bright color.

A souffle made of greens can be prepared as follows:

3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon finely chopped onion
1 cup cooked greens
⅓ cup grated cheese.
1 cup milk
3 eggs

Melt the butter, add flour, onions and seasonings. Gradually add the milk. Add finely chopped cooked greens and well beaten egg yolks. Fold in grated cheese and stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a buttered baking dish, place dish in pan of hot water and bake for 1 hour or until set, in a slow over [325 degrees F.]. If you wish, the cooked greens may be rubbed through a sieve before adding to the mixture. Serve this dish hot as the main dish for the meal.

Escalloped greens make a tempting addition to a vegetable plate dinner. The following recipe is recommended:

2 to 3 cups cooked greens
2 cups medium white sauce
4 hard cooked eggs

Butter a baking dish and put in alternate layers of chopped cooked greens, slices of egg, and white sauce, until dish is full. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake 15 minutes in moderate over [350 degrees F.].

Combine the apple sauce, sugar, and marmalade. Fold in the whipped cream. Turn into a freezing tray and freeze until firm.

Cuts from Shoulder of Beef Guidance to Housewives

For the guidance of housewives purchasing meat in Chicago retail meat stores, the committee on marketing information of the meat council of Chicago yesterday issued the following report:

"Cuts from the shoulder of beef are recommended to the housewives of Chicago as attractive meat buys over the coming week-end. Such cuts may be used for pot roasts. Veal and lamb, the forequarter of the latter in particular, also are recommended."

Home Canning in U. S. Given Start by War of '61

The civil war gave the first real push to commercial canning in the United States, when the north found it necessary to ship food to its army in the south.

BUTCHERS OFFER MANY MEAT CUTS AT LOWER PRICES

Bargains Include Beef, Lamb, and Pork.

Butcher shops in Chicago and suburbs will feature many meat cuts today and tomorrow at lower prices than last week. In their efforts to supply food shoppers with meat at attractive prices, the butchers have turned to lamb, beef and pork roasts, and fish for their week-end bargains.

Leg of lamb is selling about six cents a pound under last week's prices in most shops and other lamb cuts are proportionately lower. Most kinds of fresh fish are lower than last week and price tags have been marked down on beef pot roasts, pork loin roasts, and stewing chickens.

Higher Prices Foreseen.

Live stock market reporters say that these lower meat prices are likely to be only temporary, since prices on live cattle, hogs, and lambs have advanced since last week at the stockyards.

The best beef steers were selling yesterday at 25 to 50 cents a hundred pounds higher than a week ago. Veal calves were up 75 cents to $1, hogs 25 to 50 cents, and lambs 15 to 25 cents a hundred pounds from last week's quotations. Top hogs sold at the highest prices paid here since the middle of September, 1930, according to government figures.

Most wholesale cuts of beef, veal, and lamb were selling from 50 cents to $1.50 a hundred pounds higher than last week. Pork prices were little changed on the wholesale markets, the hot weather having lessened the demand for this product. Market reporters explained that changes in wholesale meat prices usually are reflected about one week later in the butcher shops.

Vegetables and Fruits Lower.

Head lettuce, bananas, carrots, fresh grapes, and lemons are lower in price than last week. Some stores have cheese, lard, potatoes, and cooking apples on sale at special prices. Supplies of western lettuce have been liberal during the last few days, but the quality is only fair on account of hot weather in regions where it is grown, market experts and dealers say. Keeping quality of potatoes is poor for the same reason.

Most of the tomatoes now are being supplied locally, since harvesting is about finished in Tennessee and other southern points. The quality is only fair. Green beans and roasting ears are mostly coming from Illinois fields. The berry crop is about gone, though there still are several kinds of fresh berries being shipped from Michigan and Wisconsin. A few fresh cherries are yet on the market.

Flour has gone up from two to four cents a 24½ pound sack since last week. Fresh peaches, green peas, dried onions, and frying chickens generally are higher than a week ago.

PREPARE FRESH MINT NOW FOR USE IN WINTER

May Be Preserved in Various Ways.

"Cooking After Office Hours," a booklet of tips and recipes for business girls who cook, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

If your family has the kind of palate that is pleasantly titillated by the cool flavor of mint now's the time for you to do a little thinking ahead. Fresh mint is abundant now, while later on in the year it's often worth your life to try to locate one measly bunch.

So we'd suggest making a few batches of simple mint jelly for future delight, some mint sirup for cool beverages throughout the summer and, perhaps, preparing some dried and crystalized mint. The crisp minty smell will make you forget about the outdoor temperature as you go about the job.

One easy way of making mint jelly with fresh mint is this: Prepare a mint juice extraction by mixing chopped mint leaves with ¼ cup sugar and ¼ cup water for every cup of mint. Let this stand overnight [or merely several hours] and strain. Then make your actual jelly from apple juice and sugar [using two-thirds cup of sugar to 1 cup apple juice] cooked until the mixture sheets from the spoon. To each quart of the cooked juice add 2 tablespoons of the mint extract you've previously prepared.

Then here's another:

1½ cups water
1 cup mint leaves
1 cup vinegar
1 cup liquid pectin
green coloring
6½ cups sugar

Mix the water and vinegar with the mint leaves, add enough coloring to give the desired green shade, and stir in the sugar. Bring to the boiling point, add the pectin, and continue boiling for one minute. Remove from the heat, strain out the mint leaves, pour into sterile glasses, and seal.

To make a mint sirup here's the procedure:

Mint Sirup.

½ cup sugar
½ cup water
Green coloring
1 bunch mint, washed and shredded
¼ cup lemon juice

Boil the sugar, mint leaves, and water together for 5 minutes and mash with the back of a spoon. Cool, color green, and add the lemon juice. Strain carefully, bottle, and keep in a cool place to use as desired.

Crystalized mint leaves make a charming garnish—and they're easy to prepare as well. Begin by wiping fresh mint leaves, removing them from their stems, and brushing each leaf with stiffly beaten egg white. Dip each leaf carefully in one-third cup granulated sugar which has been flavored with 5 drops of oil of spearmint. Place closely together on a cake rack covered with waxed paper and let stand in a slow oven until dry. If the leaves are not thoroughly coated the entire process may be repeated.

Domestic Cheese Fails to Supply U. S. Demand

Although production of cheese in the United States from 1926 to 1930 amounted to four pounds for each person, consumption was 46 pounds for each person. Imports from other countries, chiefly Italy and Switzerland, made up the difference.

GLORIA TO VISIT MRS. WHITNEY IN MOUNTAINS

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—After a month in the country together, 11 year old Gloria Vanderbilt and her mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, parted today near Smithtown, N. Y. They had spent the time together allotted by Supreme Court Justice John Carew, who presided over the custody case.

The child left her mother's automobile and stepped into a limousine belonging to her aunt, Mrs. Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney. The child will spend the month of August at Mrs. Whitney's camp in the Adirondacks.

As Gloria entered the car she held a brown puppy and a new sailboat in her arms.

PINEAPPLE STUFFED PORK CHOPS.

8 pork chops [slit for stuffing]
1 No. 2½ can sliced pineapple
2 tablespoons fat
Flour salt, pepper
1 cup water

Cut the pineapple slices in half and slip halves into the pork chop pockets. Rub outside of chops in flour and brown in fat. Sprinkle with the salt and pepper, add water, and simmer until tender.

Banana, Bacon and Apple Sandwiches.

6 slices bacon
2 bananas, crushed
1½ finely diced apples

Crisp the bacon and chop into fine pieces. Mix it with the crushed bananas and diced apples. Spread the mixture on buttered bread, slip in some crisp lettuce leaves, and top with another slice of bread.

BOY, 13, READY FOR UNIVERSITY; HE'S TOO SMALL

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Size alone prevents Vernon King, 13, high school junior, from entering the University of Utah immediately, his parents said today.

With a rating in general information above 99 per cent of freshmen at the University of Utah and 97 per cent of University of Ohio freshmen, Vernon still is a typical youngster of 13 so far as his bodily development is concerned.

"They couldn't see me at the 'U,'" said Vernon as he lay on a cot in his home. He fractured a knee playing with neighborhood boys on his last birthday in June. He has spent most of the summer in bed.

A psychological test gave Vernon an intelligence quotient of 209, which scientists explain means he is "one in about 10,000."

"He is a normal boy, except for his intense interest in learning," said his father.

MILK QUIZ FUND PARED; AGREE ON DEFICIENCY BILL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Congressional conferees on the 300 million dollar second deficiency appropriation bill today reached a complete agreement.

The accord came after they had cut in half the $200,000 added by the senate for continuation of the federal trade commission's milk price investigation.

Senator Alva B. Adams [Dem., Colo.], chairman of the senate conferees, said the $100,000 cut was agreed to after Senators F. Ryan Duffy [Dem., Wis.] and Robert M. La Follette [Prog., Wis.], who proposed the milk amendment, had accepted a house conferees' proposal to that effect.

Details of all changes made in the bill, to which the senate added nearly 80 millions as it came from the house, were withheld pending submission of the report to the senate Monday.

China Halts Airplane Tour by Doris Duke and Mate

SHANGHAI, Aug. 2.—[Friday.]—(AP)—A misunderstanding over landing field rules brought an abrupt end today to an airplane tour of China by James H. R. Cromwell of New York and his wife, the former Doris Duke. Authorities at Hangchow, where they flew yesterday, detained their chartered aircraft. The Cromwells were forced to return here by train. Military authorities were reported to have detained their American pilot, H. F. Mitchell.

ORANGE VITAMIN SALAD.

4 to 6 oranges
¼ cup grated coconut
½ cup grated raw carrot
Lettuce

Pare oranges and cut in thin slices. Cut slices in halves. On lettuce covered plates arrange a circle of orange slices. Sprinkle with the coconut and grated carrot and serve with mayonnaise.

CORN FLAKE DROPS.

3 egg whites
1½ cups sugar
4 cups corn flakes
1 cup nut meats
½ teaspoon vanilla

Roll the corn flakes with a rolling pin. Beat the egg whites until stiff, add the sugar gradually, and fold in the other ingredients. Drop by teaspoons on a greased baking sheet and bake in a slow oven [325 degrees F.].

Ham and Pineapple Sandwiches.

1 cup finely diced cooked ham
1 cup drained crushed pineapple
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
2 tablespoons pineapple juice
2 tablespoons milk
1 beaten egg

Mix together the ham, pineapple, mustard, and pineapple juice and spread. Dip the sandwiches in the beaten egg, which has been combined with the milk. Sauté the sandwiches in butter until golden brown. Serve at once.

PINEAPPLE PUFF.

1 fresh pineapple
½ pound marshmallows
1 cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice and grated rind of ½ lemon
½ cup chopped dates

Shred the pineapple with a fork and mix it with the marshmallows cut in fourths with wet scissors. Set away in the refrigerator to chill. When icy cold, add the cream, whipped stiff, and the sugar, lemon, and dates. Serve at once in chilled sherbet glasses.

Peach and Pineapple Conserve.

2 cups diced peaches
1 cup cooked diced or grated pineapple
Juice and grated rind of 1 orange
Juice and grated rind of 1 lemon
2⅔ cups sugar

Combine all the ingredients and cook over a slow heat until thick and clear. Stir frequently to prevent scorching. Turn into hot, sterilized glasses and seal immediately with paraffin.

Commissioner Blanshard Weds Widow of Artist

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Commissioner of Accounts Paul Blanshard was married to Miss Mary Hillyer by Mayor La Guardia today. Miss Hillyer is the executive secretary of the league for industrial democracy. Miss Hillyer was born in Topeka, Kas., and attended Wheaton college. She is the widow of Jan Kolski, a Polish-American artist who committed suicide by jumping from the George Washington bridge in 1932. Mr. Blanshard's first wife, Julia Anderson, a newspaper woman, died in May, 1934.

WEINER BISCUITS.

4 cups bread flour.
4 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon soda.
1 tablespoon sugar.
1 teaspoon salt.
1½ cups buttermilk.
⅓ cup shortening.
1 pound frankfurters.

Prepare a biscuit dough by sifting the dry ingredients together. Work in the shortening, add milk, and stir quickly until well mixed. Turn out onto a slightly floured board and knead slightly. Roll or pat out ¼ inch thick. Cut in rectangles. Wash frankfurters, dry and heat in melted butter, roll up in the biscuit dough, and bake in a moderate oven [400 degrees F.] until brown.

LOBSTER EATERS CALLED TO STEAKS BY NEBRASKAN

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—Senator E. R. Burke of Omaha, Neb., yesterday issued a challenge to trenchermen participating in a Nebraska beefsteak vs. Maine lobster contest to eat two good sized Nebraska steaks.

The Nebraska senator invited a battery of capital epicures to an outdoor spot near Washington, Aug. 7, for the second round of the bout between the delectable fish and the juicy meat.

"Inasmuch as we all ate two lobsters," Burke said, "we are warning the trenchermen that they should eat two Nebraska beefsteaks."

Accompanying the steaks, will be Nebraska corn on the cob and other dishes of the middlewest, even to Nebraska-brewed beer.

Representative Moran [Dem., Me.], while campaigning for Burke in Nebraska last year, said the lobster should displace Nebraska beef as a table choice and Moran recently backed that with a barrel of lobsters.

Grape Juice Pie.

1 pint grape juice
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
1 tablespoon butter
1 baked pie shell

Place the grape juice in the top of a double boiler and bring to the scalding point. Blend the cornstarch with the sugar and then mix with one whole egg and two yolks, beaten all together. Add this mixture and the butter to the grape juice and when well blended and thick pour into a baked pastry shell. Make a meringue of the two remaining egg whites and spread it over the top of the grape pie. Brown lightly in a quick oven.

CASSEROLE OF LIVER.

1¾ pounds beef liver [one piece].
¼ cup bacon drippings.
¼ cup flour.
1 medium onion, sliced thin.
2 carrots, sliced thin.
1 cup chopped celery.
3 cups diced raw potatoes.
1½ teaspoons salt.
½ cup minced salt pork.
2½ cups canned tomatoes.

Melt the bacon fat in a frying pan. Dredge the liver with flour and then sear it until brown on both sides in the fat. Remove it to the casserole, adding on top the sliced carrots and onion, also the potatoes and celery. Season between the layers, and pour the tomatoes over all. Sprinkle with the chopped pork and bake with a cover in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for 2½ hours. Serves six.

SPINACH LOAF.

1 cup cooked rice.
1 cup chopped celery.
½ pound pork sausage.
1 teaspoon salt.
Pepper.
2 cups cooked or canned spinach.
1 medium onion, chopped.
1 slightly beaten egg.
Grated cheese.

Mix all the ingredients except the cheese into a compact loaf, sprinkle with the grated cheese, and bake at 400 degrees F. for 30 minutes.

HARRY OLSON, FORMER CHIEF JUSTICE, DIES

Ruled Municipal Court 24 Years; Was Near 68.

Funeral services for Attorney Harry Olson, a founder in 1906 of the Municipal court of Chicago and its chief justice continuously from that time until 1930, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the New England Congregational church, 19 West Delaware place. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery.

Mr. Olson, who would have been 68 years old next Sunday, died early yesterday in his home at 837 North Cuyler avenue, Oak Park. He had worked in his law office at 10 South La Salle street until 9:30 Wednesday evening. As he prepared for bed he told his wife he felt weak, probably from the heat. He was found dead in bed at 4:30 a. m.

Leaves Widow, Three Children.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Bernice Miller Olson, Mr. Olson is survived by a daughter, Jane, and two sons, Sanford of Chicago and Harry Jr. of Kouts, Ind. Sanford Olson, who was associated with his father in the private practice of law, had returned from a vacation in the north woods only a few hours before Mr. Olson's death.

While serving as an assistant state's attorney for ten years under Charles S Deneen and John J. Healy, Mr. Olson prosecuted and won several famous cases. These brought him into the public eye and in 1906 he was elected chief justice of the new Municipal court. The court became a model for similar institutions throughout the country. Forty of the largest cities have patterned their municipal courts after Chicago's.

Instituted Court Improvements.

One of the early innovations of Judge Olson was that of the psychopathic laboratory in connection with the court. He also instituted the boys', domestic relations, women's and morals courts as branches of the system.

Mr. Olson was born in Chicago in 1867. He was graduated from the Pecatonica, Ill., High school and obtained law degrees from Washburn college in Topeka, Kas., in 1887, and Northwestern university later. He was a Republican candidate for mayor in 1915 and 1919. He was defeated for reëlection as chief justice of the Municipal court by John J. Sonsteby, a Democrat, in 1930.

As a trustee of Northwestern university from 1908 to 1927, Mr. Olson was credited with having been responsible in part for the university's being given the McKinlock campus, now an important part of that institution. Mr. Olson had been a trustee of Lake Forest college since 1923.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH; MISHAP POLICE BELIEVE

The incinerated body of Mrs. Helen Casey, 38 years old, was found by firemen early this morning in the second hand store and organ repair shop at 2509 West Van Buren street, where she lived with her uncle, Stephen Walker.

Police, while inclined to believe the death accidental, preferred to reserve final judgment until a more thorough examination of the body had been made and evidence given to a coroner's jury.

The body was found after pedestrians had seen smoke and flames inside the shop. Joseph Sullivan, chief of the 15th battalion, who led firemen to the scene, declared he found a window of the living quarters in the rear of the store wide open.

Mrs. Casey's body was found nearer the front of the store, and beside it was a kerosene lamp. Police surmised she might have been trying to fill the lamp while holding a lighted match, and the kerosene was thus ignited.

The woman's clothing had partly been pulled off, but it was pointed out she might have done this herself when the garments caught fire. Walker, the uncle, was not present at the time of the tragedy.

P. A. TWISS, 58, CHIEF OF SWIFT PLANTS, IS DEAD

Prosper A. Twiss, 58 years old, 6641 Minerva avenue, general superintendent of the plants of Swift & Co., died in the Illinois Central hospital yesterday.

Mr. Twiss was born in Kansas City on Dec. 24, 1876, and was educated in the public schools there. He entered the employ of Swift & Co. as a dock checker in 1896. In 1910 he became superintendent of the Kansas City plant, and five years later was transferred here as assistant superintendent of the Chicago plant. He was named superintendent of all plants in December, 1931.

Throughout his service Mr. Twiss championed the cause of his workers. Among the improvements for which he strove in their behalf was the present employés' representation plan.

Mr. Twiss is survived by his widow, the former Helen Pratt.

Final Rites Tomorrow for Stephen L. Kolanowski

Funeral services for Stephen L. Kolanowski, former chief deputy coroner, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in St. Wencelaus Polish Catholic church. Burial will be in St. Adalbert's cemetery. Mr. Kolanowski, who was 51 years old, died on Wednesday in his home at 3931 North Lawndale avenue after an illness of seven months. He formerly was editor of a Polish newspaper here and was an instructor in foreign languages in St. Francis college. Mr. Kolanowski was appointed chief deputy coroner in 1932 by Coroner Frank J. Walsh, he resigned last August.

Robert Gillham, Cincinnati Coal Official, Is Dead

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Robert P. Gillham, 80, until three years ago vice president of the Hatfield-Campbell Creek Coal company, died in his home here late today. He was president of the Campbell Creek Coal company before its consolidation with the Hatfield firm, and retired from active business in 1932.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A lot of new airfare is just about ready to come off the radio griddle. Helen Hayes, one of the nation's finest actresses, has just been engaged for her first radio series. She will be heard in half hour dramatic broadcasts at 8:30 Tuesday evenings beginning Oct. 1 over NBC in the interest of a coffee maker. Supporting cast will be announced shortly.

There are other personages, already well known in other fields of entertainment, who are about to leap into radio for the first time. Fred Astaire, singing, piano playing dancer, will start his first radio series Aug. 10 with Lennie Hayton on the so-called "Hit Parade."

Odette Myrtil, French comedienne, whom you may have seen in the stage presentation of "Roberta," will be the headliner of a new Evening in Paris series starting Monday, Aug. 19 on NBC.

And CBS has done something unusual, too. They've dug up one more comedian, Marty May, for whom lavish claims are being made. His spot is to be 8:30 Thursdays' but there'll be no outlet here as long as WBBM is occupied with the concerts from Grant park.

"Bunk and Debunk," or the art of exploding false notions, is to be portrayed on a Week-end Revue hour at 1:30 p. m. Saturdays, starting tomorrow, over NBC by Dr. John Harvey Furbay, author of "The Debunker," a feature which appears on the editorial page of THE TRIBUNE daily, and Edward Whittlesey.

There are persistent reports that Mary Garden is to be regularly and widely heard during the forthcoming season under the banner of a nationally known sponsor though Miss Garden maintains that she has not made any radio commitments.

Deane Janis is to get her first big network break when she becomes the headliner of the Caravan series over CBS beginning Oct. 1. Deane, who used to sing with Hal Kemp's orchestra over W-G-N, will appear with Glen Gray's orchestra and Walter O'Keefe. She replaces Annette Henshaw.

Al Jolson sold his estate at Scarsdale, N. Y., the other day and is building a modest 25 room bungalow in Hollywood. One indication that Al is determined to stick to radio is the announcement that a completely equipped broadcasting studio is to be a feature of the house.

Jane Williams, an able Chicago songstress, who won a national audition last year to become Dick Powell's leading lady in "Hollywood Hotel" and ultimately was shelved for Frances Langford, is to be co-featured with Phil Duey and the Men About Town on the Rendezvous Musical, a new program destined to hit the air on NBC Sept. 18.

Immediately after their broadcast from New York last night Rudy Vallee and his troupe of entertainers piled into planes and headed for Chicago. They are scheduled to begin a week's engagement at the Chicago theater about 11 o'clock this morning.

When Joe Cook disappears from the air after tonight's broadcast, Al Pearce and his gang of west coast comedians and melodists will move into this Friday evening spot on NBC.

EDWARD GLASER LEAVES MOST OF ESTATE TO SON

Edward L. Glaser, 73 years old, of Glencoe, chairman of the board of Rosenbaum Brothers, grain elevator operators, who died on Saturday, left an estate valued at several hundred thousand dollars. This was learned yesterday when the will was filed for probate with Clerk Mitchell C. Robin of the Probate court.

With the exception of a few minor bequests most of the estate is left to the only child, Morris R. Glaser of Glencoe. Mrs. Glaser died in 1918.

The largest bequest is a $250,000 trust fund, the income from which is to go to the son for life. Provision is also made for a trust fund to produce an annual income of $3,850, which will go to the elder Mr. Glaser's aunt, Clara Monheimer. A $600 a year trust income is left to another relative, Carrie Kahn.

One bequest sets up a $10,000 trust fund to be used for the maintenance of family lots in Rosehill cemetery.

G. S. Dalgety, Business Official of N. U., Quits

George S. Dalgety, assistant business manager of Northwestern university for the last twelve years, tendered his resignation yesterday. Mr. Dalgety declared he had first offered his resignation last fall but at the request of the board of trustees it was held in abeyance until this year.

S. H. McKnight, Financial Adviser, Slays Himself

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Samuel H. McKnight, 60, president of S. H. McKnight & Co., Inc., financial advertisers, shot himself fatally with a revolver today in his office in the Lawyers building, Jersey City. According to the police, Mr. McKnight had been working all night.

Woman Character in Novel by Wright Taken by Death

Prescott, Ariz., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Bertha Estelle [Stella] Stewart, who figured in a western novel by Harold Bell Wright, died here today. She was the widow of J. W. Stewart, Williamson valley cattleman, and, with him, she had lived 46 years on the Cross Triangle ranch. Mrs. Stewart was chosen by Wright as a character—the wife of "the dean"—in "When a Man's a Man," which later was filmed at the Stewart ranch.

Woman, 30, Dies of Poison Taken in Her Hotel Room

Mrs. Edith Steele, 30 years old, of the Seneca hotel at 200 East Chestnut street, died last night in the Henrotin hospital of poison she took in her room several hours earlier. At the hospital Mrs. Steele told a physician she was in financial difficulties and was tired of living. The police learned that she was a cosmetics saleswoman, that her real name was Edith Johnson Levey and that she was the estranged wife of Jack Levey, 1111 Hyde Park boulevard. Her father, Roscoe Johnson of Galesburg, Ill., was notified.

GETS SIX MONTHS ON ACCUSATION MADE BY GIRL, 16

Paul Zwicker, 38 years old, 6109 Winthrop avenue, a chemist, was sentenced to six months in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge George B. Weiss on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 16 year old high school girl. The judge said he would entertain a motion for probation next Thursday.

The girl, who testified against Zwicker, declared that he had posed as "Theodore Clements," a movie director looking for talent. Her story was substantiated by the testimony of Sally Koidelis, 24 years old, 1406 North Damen avenue, who declared she was in Zwicker's apartment at the time. Zwicker admitted his relations with Miss Koidelis, but denied he had molested the younger girl.

According to the state, Zwicker has a police record as "Fred Clements." He forfeited a bond in Los Angeles in 1932 on a charge of illegally entering the country, it was charged.

He also forfeited a $2,000 bond after being arrested here last May 28 on the delinquency charge. His bondsman, Harry Volin, traced him to New York and brought him back by airplane a month ago.

ADMITS HOLDING FATAL PISTOL IN SALOON SLAYING

Thomas Ketcham, 27 years old, 5562 Quincy street, who has told several conflicting stories about the slaying early last Sunday of his erstwhile friend, Jack Holbrook, 29 years old, 425 South Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, confessed last night at the Marquette police station that he held the pistol with which Holbrook was shot.

The shooting occurred in the saloon of James Allegretti at 1136 West Grand avenue. Ketcham said that after they had had several drinks together Holbrook brandished the pistol and endangered the lives of all present.

"I tried to wrest the gun from him," Ketcham said. "It went off while we were struggling. After Holbrook fell I stuck the gun in my pocket, but somebody lifted it off me. I took Holbrook to the County hospital and laid him on the lawn because I was afraid to go inside."

Ketcham, who is the son of a South Water market commission merchant, declared he had held no enmity toward Holbrook and that the shooting was entirely accidental. His confession was made to Sergt. Edward Collopy.

Sergt. James Mullen, 67, Police Veteran, Is Dead

Sergt. James Mullen, 67 years old, 4684 Kasson avenue, a member of the police department for 44 years, died in the Alexian Brothers hospital yesterday after a long illness. Sergt. Mullen joined the force in 1891. He was promoted to a sergeantcy in the detective bureau in 1915. Until his last illness he had been assigned to the pawn shop detail. A son, James Jr., and a daughter, Eunice Rizzo, survive. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 9:15 a. m. from the chapel at 2166 North California avenue. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

Antoinette Donnelly Tells How Noted Beauties Keep Charm

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Mrs. Richard Vibberts Pelton is the former Martha Quisenberry. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edwin Quisenberry of Evanston and Danville, Ky., and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pelton of New Britain, Conn. The wedding took place in the late spring and Mr. and Mrs. Pelton are now living in Denver, Colo.

Skirt Length Becomes Issue in Style Shows

PARIS, Aug. 1.—(AP)—A contest over skirt lengths furnished the fashion fireworks today at the winter style shows.

After Chanel showed the shortest skirts seen in Paris for several seasons, Louise Boulanger lowered the wide, scalloped hems of her creations to seven inches from the ground, while other designers cut them to 12 inches from the floor.

The final edict in the question awaited next week's showings, although some stylists said women themselves may settle the matter by placing the hems where they seem most becoming in individual cases.

Skirt widths proved another point of controversy.

Louise Boulanger varied her silhouettes, which had hitherto favored a form fitting profile with fairly slender skirts, by showing easy fitting day frocks with wide bias skirts and big peasant sleeves. Some of her models had waistlines lowered to an inch above the hip bones.

Her coats were loose backed, full length models, with the sleeves having a marked top fullness.

Day dress fabrics were wool, artificial silk, and satin. Predominant colors were black, bottle green and gray.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Bauer of Chicago and South Haven, Mich., announce the engagement of their daughter, Juliana, to Millard E. Mogg of Delavan, Wis. Miss Bauer has been attending the Marietta Johnson School of Organic Education at Fairhope, Ala., for the last five years. She is the only granddaughter of the late Julius Bauer, pioneer Chicagoan and one of the first piano manufacturers in the city. Mr. Mogg attended the University of Wisconsin. The wedding will take place in Chicago on Oct. 4.

Religious Conditions at Michigan State Given High Praise

The conference of directors of Wesley Foundations in colleges and universities throughout the country was told yesterday that Michigan State college students, Lansing, Mich., "represent more solid religion than is found in any average group of adults in the country, not excluding regular churchgoers." Rollo May, religious director at the college, made the statement. The conference is being held at Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston.

Mr. May said his opinion is founded on direct investigations carried on through a questionnaire and personal follow-up of every fifth student. Mr. May found that churchgoing had not been affected by college life among 52 per cent of the students. Fifteen per cent said their church attendance had been increased by college experience; 33 per cent reported decreased attendance.

The Sunday morning student snooze, Mr. May said, accounted for greatest defection from divine service, with work, lack of time, and disinterestedness accounting for other defections in that order.

Sixteen per cent of Michigan State students never "date"; 15 per cent have "steadies" and all others average one "date" a week. Mr. May also found that 6½ per cent of all students were atheists.

Announce Marriage of Evelyn Willing, Daughter of Mark

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The marriage of Miss Evelyn Willing, daughter of Mark S. Willing, formerly of Chicago, to Joseph Chinn, son of Dr. Walter Chinn of Mount Holly, Va., on July 20, has been announced. The ceremony was performed in the Virginia home of the bride's father, Bushfield, in Westmoreland county, in the presence of only the members of the bride's family. She had no attendants. The best man was George Chinn, brother of the bridegroom. After a short wedding trip Mr. Chinn and his bride are at home in their new apartment on New Hampshire avenue. Mrs. Chinn has been connected with the Home Owners' Loan corporation and has returned to her duties with that organization.

Audrey Kanaley to Be Bride at Quiet Nuptials

Rites to Take Place Sept. 7 in Winnetka.

BY JUDITH CASS.

QUIET but lively will be the wedding on Sept. 7 of Miss Audrey Stephens Kanaley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Vincent Kanaley of Winnetka, and Frank Nasher Jr. The service is to be read at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon in the garden of the Kanaley home on Ardsley road in Winnetka.

Only the immediate families and a few intimate friends will hear the young couple exchange their wedding vows because of the recent death of Mr. Nasher's mother. A reception will follow the service.

Miss Kanaley is to have her sister, Mrs. Frederick Miller of Milwaukee, for her matron of honor and her cousin, Miss Blanche Cooper of Winnetka, for her only bridesmaid. Daniel M. Schuyler, who was recently married, will serve Mr. Nasher as best man.

Mr. Nasher will take his bride on a wedding trip to Bermuda. Upon their return they will make their home at the Marlborough, Deming place at Lake View avenue.

Daughter Born to Alfred Uihleins.

Yesterday morning in the Grant hospital Paula Melita Uihlein was born. She is the daughter and first child of Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Uihlein, who have been living in Baltimore, Md., since their marriage a year ago last Wednesday at the beautiful Lake Forest home of Mrs. Uihlein's father, Edgar Uihlein.

Dr. Uihlein is serving his internship at the Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore and he was not able to leave his duties to be here to welcome his daughter. The baby is named Paula for her mother and Melita because it is the name of Dr. Uihlein's mother, Mrs. William Uihlein of Milwaukee, and of his sister, now Mrs. Ludington Patton Jr., also of Milwaukee.

Tiny Paula Melita's maternal grandfather has been a patient in the same hospital in which she was born and although he was convalescent and normally would have returned to his Lake Shore drive apartment ere this, he stayed on in the hospital to be there when his daughter's baby, his first grandchild, was born. The name of Uihlein is indelibly associated with that of the Grant hospital for the late Edward G. Uihlein, father of Edgar J. Uihlein, gave the Uihlein Memorial laboratory to the hospital.

Mrs. John G. B. Lester to Be Guest at Supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Phillips have invited a few of their friends to a quiet buffet dinner at the Indian Hill club Sunday night to renew acquaintance with Mrs. John G. B. Lester of Majorca, the former Margaret Hately, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hately of Chicago.

Mrs. Lester is arriving at the Winnetka residence of Mr. and Mrs. Phillips today to spend the week-end, and since her mother died recently any entertaining that is done for her is being done most informally. She will attend the races at Arlington tomorrow afternoon.

On Monday Mrs. Lester will drive into town to spend the remaining days of her brief visit here with Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Conrad on Fullerton parkway. When Mrs. Lester sailed for America her husband took a ship at the same time from Majorca for London where Mrs. Lester will meet him in a fortnight or three weeks to remain through September.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Leidy Johnston arrived at home yesterday from the Virginia Hot Springs where they went in the late spring. They will be in Lake Forest for the rest of the summer.

A. Phelps Dunhams Will Move Today.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Phelps Dunham are moving into a house at 103 East Bellevue place tomorrow morning. Since they returned to Chicago to make their home here again they have been living on Lake Shore drive. The Dunhams' little girl, Joan, is in California with her stepgrandmother, Mrs. Robert J. Dunham, who is staying with Mr. Dunham's daughter and son-in-law, the John Hookers, and her own daughter and son-in-law, the Jerd Sullivans. Mr. Dunham Sr. is leaving for the west coast today. He and Mrs. Dunham and little Joan will return in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn will leave Aug. 12 to spend the hay fever season at Charlevoix, Mich., where they have a house on the Chicago club grounds. Mr. Linn is a sufferer from this disagreeable disease which attacks more people each year, apparently, so he always plans to be away from Chicago

BREMEN, Germany.—The influence of Roland, the giant who has stood in the market place for centuries, must have animated the builder of our hotel. The ceilings are easily fourteen feet high, and the windows, hung in king's blue and metal cloth of rich German taste, stretch upward a good twelve feet. The bath towels are big enough for tents, and one could drown in the tub "with the greatest of ease." On our beds, serving as extra quilts, are tufted eiderdown coverlets, of the same blue and gold as the draperies, looking like a dozen feathery pillows sewn together.

TODAY as we started out for a last look at the sights of Bremen and a stroll through the gardens that are laid out on the old ramparts, bastions and moat that form a beautiful green belt around the old part of the city, we encountered two types reminiscent of an earlier age. One was a chimney sweep, a battered silk hat set above his grimy face, his arms filled with the brushes of his trade. The other was a woman from the market in the square, a wooden yoke across her shoulders from which were suspended two great baskets that balanced each other. The market stalls were bright with daisies, lilies, and gladioli, and the vegetable stalls, küchen, and poultry stalls were surrounded by Bremen housewives making their selections.

WHEN the west of the St. Petri Dom was built in the fourteenth century, a carpenter fell from the scaffolding and his body either was put in a vault where it fell or else was not discovered for some time. His body lies there now, in the famous Bleikeller, or lead cellar, of the Dom, proof of the strange power of the spot to prevent decomposition, said to be the result of the presence of radioactive waters beneath the floor. There are other mummies on view, too; that of a Swedish general who died in a duel, a Swedish countess, an English major who was killed in the thirty years' war, and a certain Lady Stanhope of England, their grave clothes still clinging to their frames; even the cloth head covering of the countess still partly enwrapping her head. No mummies have been added to the crypt since the 17th century, as it is now against the law. But 60 years ago the body of a cat was brought into the crypt, and it stands there, furless, but a perfect example of feline grace and modeling.

PROBABLY every visitor to Bremen visits the famous Rathaus, or town hall, with its magnificent renaissance façade added some two hundred years after the building was erected in the 15th century. Its interior, with its winding stairway of carved wood, and the old hall, with its medallions of German emperors and the models of old ships suspended from the ceiling, is very beautiful. One goes from this to the renowned Ratskeller, where the wines—German wines exclusively—are stored in old casks, and drinks, perhaps, Pfälzenwein, from a green glass with a twisted stem.

Studio Loans Toby Wing for Canadian Film

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Toby Wing has been loaned by Paramount studio to play a lead rôle for Booth Dominion Productions, Ltd., of Toronto, the picture to be filmed in Ontario starting Aug. 10.

If Estelle Taylor and Lee Tracy aren't romantically serious, they are at least a couple of the best romantic actors you ever heard of. This couple has been seen out together nine of the last fourteen evenings by one count.

When Jackie Cooper's mother, Mrs. Charles Bigelow, went to the dentist to have a wisdom tooth pulled, Jackie accompanied her, holding her hand through the ordeal, and his face was longer and his suffering seemingly more acute than his mother's.

Grace Bradley has formally announced her engagement to marry Frank Prince, a member of Ben Bernie's orchestra. . . . Leo Lynn, who customarily stands in for Bing Crosby, talked fast and fluently when Bing and Mrs. Bing [Dixie Lee] left this week for the horse races around New York, and now Lynn is standing in for Chic Sale in "From Little Acorns" at Paramount.

Marlene Dietrich's latest escort to the boulevard stopping places is John Gilbert. . . . Maria Jeritza and Movie Magnate Winfield R. Sheehan were noted in a quiet nook of the Russian Eagle outdoors dining room under the palms. . . . When a newspaper writer assigned to interview Grace Bradley arrived at Miss Bradley's home the writer was served a bathing suit and told that if he desired to talk to the actress he would have to jump in the pool where she already was.

Slim Summerville and his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Summerville, have separated again. A reconciliation ended their first marital break in 1933. Mrs. Summerville is at home in San Fernando valley nursing four ribs broken in a three cornered automobile collision in which Harold Morr, who drove into the rear of her car, was killed.

Marjorie Keeler, Ruby's sister, is making a debut as dance entertainer at Cocoanut Grove with Eddie Duchin's orchestra. . . . Katharine Hepburn refused to wear a boy's wig for the part demanded by the script for "Sylvia Scarlett," in which she masquerades as a young man. Instead she showed up at the studio with her hair cut quite short and said what did she care how she looked, it was better than any wig.

Southern Women.

Mrs. G. Gordon Martin yesterday became president of the Southern Woman's club to succeed Mrs. Julian S. Hexton who retired because of illness. Mrs. William M. Echols succeeds Mrs. Martin as first vice president and Mrs. David A. Becker is the new second vice president. The appointments were announced yesterday.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Amandus Pfaender of 2736 Mildred avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Lucile Winifred, to Wladimir Grigorieff of Geneva, Switzerland, on July 30 in their country home at Saugatuck, Mich. The Rev. T. Wendel Davis of Grace Episcopal church, Holland, Mich., read the ceremony. The bride, a graduate of the University of Chicago, studied Irish in the Aran Islands after her graduation, and has since been research assistant in Irish at the university. She has just returned from five months' study at the University of Bonn-am-Rhein, Germany. Mr. Grigorieff is the son of Wladimir J. Grigorieff of Geneva, formerly of Hankow, China, where the bridegroom was born. He was graduated from the College de Geneve and later was given a degree in chemical engineering at the Swiss Federal university in Zurich. Mr. Grigorieff and his bride will make their home in Chicago after a wedding trip.

At 8:30 o'clock last night in the Florentine room of the Congress hotel Miss Isobel Laughlin became the bride of Silvio Scionti, concert pianist and professor of piano at the Chicago Musical college. The Rev. John Timothy Stone performed the ceremony in the presence of friends and relatives and a reception and supper followed, at which Mrs. Rudolph Ganz was among those assisting the bride and bridegroom to receive. Preceding the ceremony several well known artists sang, among them Mary Garden and Adelaide Abbott. Mr. Scionti and his bride, who last year received her master's degree in music under him at the Chicago Musical college, left immediately for a wedding trip to Honolulu. They will make their home in Chicago.

Mrs. Heliodor Schiller of the Hotel Shoreland announces the marriage of her daughter Babette to John Paul Spiegel yesterday at the Hotel Sherman.

American Red Cross Will Hold 1936 Convention Here

The 1936 convention of the American Red Cross will be held in the Stevens hotel in Chicago next May 11 to 14, inclusive, according to word received from Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman of the board, in Washington yesterday. It will be the first time the convention will have been held here. More than 2,000 delegates are expected.

Cut in Dollar Gives Europe Lead in Opera

Met Chief Finds Big Names Hard to Get.

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Star opera singers can make twice as much in Europe now as they can in America as a result of dollar devaluation and rising salary scales abroad, Edward Johnson, new manager of the Metropolitan Opera, declared today.

Returning on the Rex from a two months' shopping tour for talent, during which he gave auditions to scores of aspirants to the Metropolitan, Mr. Johnson had signed four new singers—Hilda Burke, Suzanne Fischer, and Majorie Lawrence, sopranos, and Charles Kullman, tenor—for the season that opens here on Dec. 16.

"There are plenty of singers, but the big names are hard to get," Mr. Johnson declared in a frank shipboard interview. In a neat blue business suit and straw hat, the new manager offered a sharp contrast to the Buddha-like figure of Gatti-Casazza, who never condescended to say much of anything.

"We had auditions in Milan, Paris, and Vienna," Mr. Johnson related. "We heard singers of every size, shape, and description. One aspirant flew from Berlin, another from Sweden, and one came all the way from Finland.

"But the big names have contracts or have engagements that pay them twice as much as they can get here. Conditions are just the reverse of what they used to be. In Italy, for instance, salaries have gone so high that the government has fixed a maximum of about $1,000 a performance."

Mr. Johnson had scores for four or five new operas which he proposes to study during the next few months.

"If there is something worth while in the lot," he said, "we will offer a new production, otherwise not. I think it is better to do an old standard work well with a great cast than to try something new at great cost and have the public turn its thumbs down."

Mr. Johnson saw the beginning of a new epoch in the American operatic field.

"The radio and the moving picture are making our public opera-minded," he said. "With patience and encouragement we will find our own idiom and eventually evolve a genuine American opera."

Sally's Guests Will See White Sox Play St. Louis Team Today

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Today's baseball day, boys and girls, and I hope that every single one of the one hundred youngsters who were awarded invitations to my party is aware of that fact. We go to the south side and Comiskey park this afternoon to see the White Sox play the St. Louis Browns.

Your invitations will tell you exactly when and where and how I want you to meet, and don't forget to bring them with you, because no one who hasn't an invitation can be included. Although I really feel that such a warning is unnecessary—please be on time—I'm sure you'll all be so anxious to get a peek at your favorite players and see the team which has been doing so marvelously well lately that you'll be ready and waiting hours ahead of time.

The winners of invitations to the circus next week have been selected—so, if you were disappointed at not being included in the baseball party today, perhaps you'll find consolation in the printed lists of winners in next Sunday's CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Walsted, and Walter W. Ross Jr.

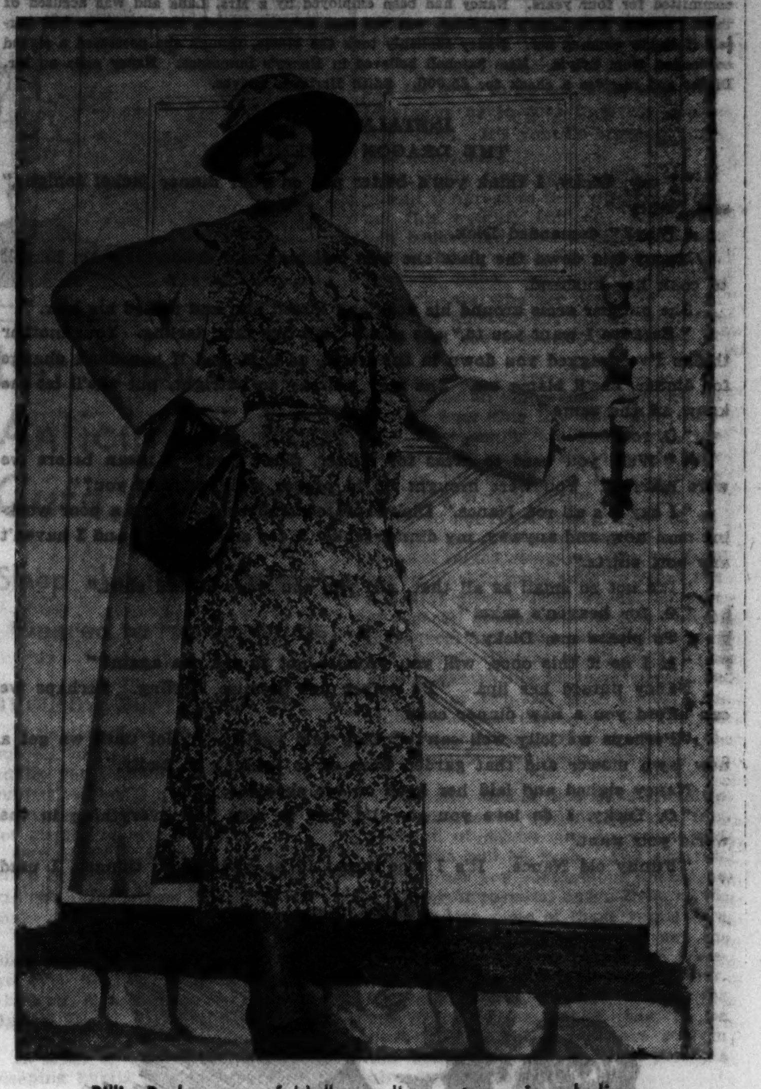
THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS



Billie Burke, one of Hollywood's most gracious ladies and one of its really beautiful mature women.

Hollywood, Cal.—[Special.]—"Charm," "personality," and "type" are three words that are kicked around with the greatest abandon in Hollywood. We swore off all three, but we are absolutely up against it and must scream "charm" when we try to describe Billie Burke. She is, beyond doubt, one of the great ladies of the colony.

Miss Burke makes no bones about being the mother of an eighteen year old daughter. She's a mature woman and proud of it. She dresses and is her part. And it may be that it's just because she's met the years with a twinkle in her eye and no agitation in her soul that she's so utterly lovely in maturity.

Her hair is as beautiful a burnished copper as it ever was; her eyes are as brightly blue, but now with pretty laugh wrinkles all around them. When we saw her at her home in Beverly Hills she was wearing a crisp pink dimity morning frock and low heeled sandals. Her home reflects her personality and her graciousness. She twinkles and laughs all the time and just a little conversation reveals her as a wise, nice woman.

There is a flowerlike freshness about her and we discovered that she is something of a fanatic on the subject of cleanliness and daintiness. Her hair gleams with brushing and scrubbing; her skin is fresh, her hands and nails immaculate. She's intensely feminine in her tastes. The walls of her dressing room on the Samuel Goldwyn lot are hung each day with fresh white sheets. There, and on trains or wherever she happens to be, she has her own towels, her own soaps, and lots of flowery colognes or toilet waters, which she adores.

Miss Burke is always perfectly dressed. Out here, you know, there is great casualness about clothes and a tremendous tendency to slip into any old thing. Miss Burke doesnt go along with that theory at all; she insists on the appropriate in dress. Her own preference is for dainty, crispy things. These are not too girlish as she adapts them to her years and her own personality. Organdy touches on her street clothes and beautiful, crisp materials in evening clothes suit her perfectly. She has a passion for beautiful fabrics. She is unique in Hollywood because she does NOT wear slacks.

Yes, the lady has charm—of a sort seldom encountered out here. She is serene and gracious and lovely to look at. She doesn't go mad at the sight of a wrinkle nor yern for the diversions and adulations of a vanished day. The peculiar broad charm that comes with years to those who would embrace them is very much Billie Burke's.

"Eat Sensibly—Drink Welch's Grape Juice"

Now, at last, scientists have discovered a way to reduce healthfully! You must supply the body with a certain amount of an easily-burnable sugar—so that the body can burn up its fat.

Welch's Grape Juice contains this special kind of sugar—a natural sugar, exactly the same kind your blood uses for energy. This sugar is easily and quickly burned, and it helps the body burn up fat! Not only that, it satisfies the craving for rich, sweet foods—helps you lose weight naturally.

4 Glasses A Day

And because Welch's is an energy food, it keeps you full of youthful pep, puts roses in your cheeks. At the same time fat is slipping away. So remember—drink 4 glasses of Welch's a day. Simply mix ¾ Welch's with ¼ plain water. Drink a glassful before every meal and one before retiring. Then eat sensibly and see how quickly you look—and feel—better. Get Welch's from your grocer or druggist and start today.

Irene Rich is over 40, but weighs the same as at 16

"Gives Quick Pep and Energy" says coach
"Red" Woodworth, All-American Star and Coach at Morgan Park Military Academy, says: "Welch's Grape Juice gives my boys strength and energy without adding health destroying fat. The minerals and vitamins are valuable in helping to build firm flesh, strong bones and teeth. I recommend it for all growing children and athletes."

BEWARE OF CHEAP SUBSTITUTES
Get only genuine Welch's, the grape juice diet authorities prescribe. For the secret Welch Process retains the healthful properties of ripe Concord Grapes so essential to the system. Welch's absolutely pure and unadulterated; is Certified-Pure, Pasteurized; contains no adulterants, no synthetic flavors, no artificial coloring, no preservatives, no added water. Always full strength. Can be diluted with ¼ water and still be delicious. Hence Welch's goes farther too. So ask for it by name. And get what you ask for!

The Husband Snatcher

By Elizabeth York Miller.

SYNOPSIS.

Nancy and Dick Heritage have been married for two years and are still greatly in love. Though Nancy is hated by Edith Heritage, her mother-in-law, she is coming to live with them in their little house in Primrose Dene, near London. There is a gap of four years in Nancy's life which she had not satisfactorily accounted for. Nancy receives a letter from Mr. Sam Digger, attorney, informing her that she had been remembered in the will of Miss Agnes Satchell, late governor of a girls' reformatory, where Nancy had been committed for four years. Nancy had been employed by a Mrs. Lane and was accused of theft. Sylvia, Mrs. Lane's daughter, was the real culprit. Sylvia threatened to kill herself if Nancy exposed her. Nancy foolishly took the blame, though she possessed a signed confession from Sylvia. Miss Satchell believed in Nancy's innocence. Nancy calls on Mr. Digger and receives a check for £5,000. Edith Heritage arrives.

INSTALMENT V.

THE DRAGON OFFENDED.

"I say, Dicky, I think you'd better put on your dinner jacket tonight," said Nancy.

"Why?" demanded Dick.

Nancy laid down the plate she was polishing and deliberately set herself to coax her husband.

She put her arms around his neck and kissed him and ruffled his hair.

"Because I want you to," she said. "It's like this, darling. Your mother thinks I've dragged you down in the world, as it is, and if you don't change for dinner, she'll blame me. She may not say so outright, but she'll let me know all the same."

"O, rot!"

"Well, you used to dress for dinner, didn't you? I mean before we were married. You were brought up in proper style, weren't you?"

"I say it's all rot, Nance," Dick repeated stubbornly. "I'm a poor working man now, and anyway, my dinner jacket is too small for me and I haven't any soft shirts."

"It's not so small as all that, and you can wear a hard shirt."

"O, for heaven's sake!"

"To please me, Dicky."

"If I do it this once, will you promise not to ask me again?"

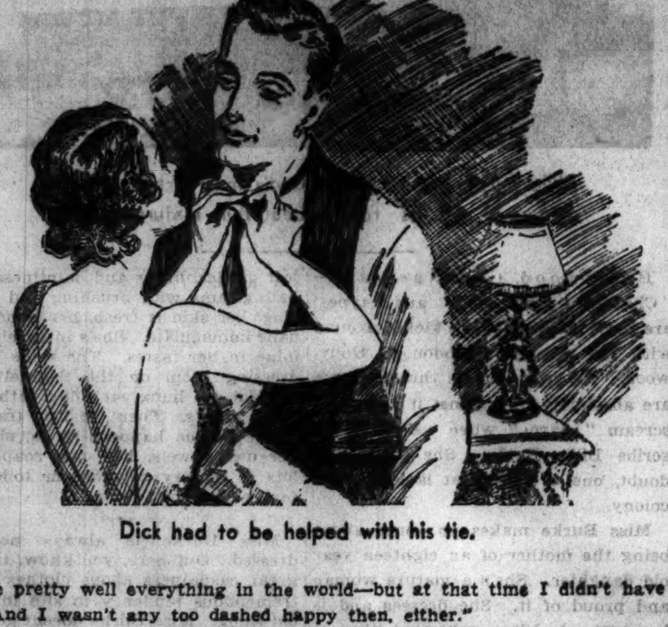
Nancy pursed her lips. "I'd rather not promise, darling. Perhaps we can afford you a new dinner coat."

"Perhaps we jolly well can't!" Dick said hastily. "Not until we get a new lawn mower and that garden hose we're needing so badly."

Nancy sighed and laid her head on his shoulder.

"O, Dicky, I do love you so. I'd like to give you everything in the world you want."

"Funny old Nance. It's I who ought to be giving you things. I used to have pretty well everything in the world—but at that time I didn't have you. And I wasn't any too dashed happy then, either."



Dick had to be helped with his tie.

"Are you happy now? Have I made you happy?" Nancy asked eagerly.

"You bet your life you have," he told her. "All right. You win, old girl. I'll get into that confounded coat if it kills me. I hope it bursts!"

Nancy ran upstairs and laid out his things—regretting that the coat and trousers, so seldom used in these days, smelt rather strongly of camphor.

There was one small delay after another. Dick had to be helped with his studs and bow tie. Certainly that coat of his was too small. It looked as though it might have been made for a schoolboy brother. Nancy began to regret that she had urged him to put it on.

Her own toilet gave her some anxiety, too. She wanted to look nice, but not too nice. She put on a little powder and lip salve.

"Well, we certainly are having a party," said Dick. "Aren't you going to wear your diamonds, Nance?"

Nancy flashed her engagement ring at him.

"I've got them on," she retorted.

The dinner gong sounded. Minnie had struck it with what seemed unwonted savagery—three horrible booming crashes.

"Good heavens—sounds like the crack of doom!" Dick exclaimed. "I wonder what she did that for?"

"Apparently dinner is ready. We'd better go down," Nancy said, uneasily.

They found Edith Heritage sitting in the drawing room bolt upright in her chair, with an expression of repressed fury on her face. Little scarlet spots blazed on her cheekbones and her lips were set in a straight, hard line.

Even Dick, who was not too observing, could scarcely fail to notice that something had happened to upset his mother.

Mrs. Heritage's manner was so unapproachable that neither of them ventured to question her.

Minnie came in with the soup as soon as they were seated at table and Minnie looked angry, too. When she left the room again, it might be said that she flounced out.

The soup was excellent, but Edith Heritage made a face when she tasted it, and said that really she was not very hungry; she thought her appetite had been taken away.

Feeling guilty, because of they knew not what, Dick and Nancy disposed of the contents of their own plates as quickly as possible, and Dick opened the bottle of wine.

Nancy tried to make a little conversation, but the dragon had been offended in some mysterious way, and was not going to be appeased too easily.

"Was—was your bath all right, mother?" Nancy asked.

"Quite."

"You found everything in your room that you wanted?"

"Quite, thank you."

"I expect you're a little tired after your journey," said Dick. "A glass of Chablis will buck you up."

Mrs. Heritage raised her eyebrows, but said nothing. As Minnie entered with the chicken and vegetables Dick's mother critically examined the label on the wine bottle.

"Did you buy this at the grocer's?" she asked.

Unfortunately that was exactly where Dick had bought it, although it was a fairly good brand, and had cost what was to him, just now, the rather princely sum of six shillings. He felt affronted and humiliated.

Before he could say anything, however, Minnie spoke in a haughty aside to her mistress.

"I'll be obliged, ma'am, if you'll pass the plates yourselves, as I've got a soufflé in the oven."

Mrs. Heritage covered Minnie's retreat with a critical laugh.

"Well!" she exclaimed. "How you can endure the impertinence of that servant of yours passes my comprehension."

Nancy's heart sank like a stone. Minnie's strange behaviour might be described as impertinent, but never, never had it happened before.

"I can't think what's come over her," Nancy said, her voice trembling.

Dick began to carve the chicken. It was really a heavenly bird, roasted to a turn and bursting with delicious stuffing. As a cook, Minnie was an artist, and certainly Dick and Nancy did not mind waiting on themselves when one of Minnie's priceless soufflés was in the oven.

Perhaps the wine—even though it had come from the grocer's—was having a loosening effect on Edith Heritage's tongue. Suddenly she began to unburden herself of her grievance.

"She was extremely rude to me when she came up to pack," said Mrs. Heritage, so impertinent, indeed, that I ordered her from the room."

This, at least, explained Minnie's extraordinary manner.

"O, dear," moaned Nancy.

"And for nothing at all," said Mrs. Heritage with emphasis. "All I said was that never before had I come into contact with a self-respecting servant who didn't wear a cap. She was very, very rude to me and I said, 'Now you may go, and please don't enter my room again on any pretext whatsoever!' And what do you imagine she replied to that!"

"I can't imagine," said Dick.

"She said, 'I jolly well won't, thank you.' Just like that—those very words."

There was an awkward silence, filled in by the young Heritages helping the affronted elder to potato puffs and cauliflower.

Then Dick said: "Nance had that out long ago with Minnie—about the cap. We really had to choose between Minnie and her wearing a cap, and we chose her. You see, she says she's a cook by profession and cooks don't wear caps, unless they're chefs."

"And she's always very neat and tidy in her dress," said Nancy. "The cleanest creature in the world."

Also, Dick reminded his mother that continental women servants did not wear caps—particularly in democratic France. She must often have been affronted by the sight of a domestic minus the badge of office.

Mrs. Heritage said stiffly: "This is England—not France. And I think, after all, we have discussed the matter quite sufficiently. It seems to be a peculiarity of middle class housewives to air their servants' problems on any and all occasions."

A hot retort rose to Dick's lips. Certainly it was neither he nor Nancy who had started this conversation. But Nancy silenced him with a look.

These Tips Aid in Preserving Teeth and Gums

Dentist Gives Adviser Some Sensible Information.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Water alone is a good mouth rinse, says Dr. A. P. S. Sweet, noted dental authority, but a better rinse is one made of a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt and a quarter of a teaspoonful of borax, in a glass of warm water. Hold the solution in the mouth and, with the lips closed, force it with the cheeks into every crevice of the mouth. This will keep the tongue and gums clean and the breath sweet.

When selecting a toothpaste or powder, Dr. Sweet advises you to follow the advice of your dentist.

It is undoubtedly true, the dentist says, that the use of a toothpaste and a mouth wash will go far toward keeping the mouth in good condition, but that is not all there is to it, by any means. If you really wish to take care of your teeth, you must begin with a proper diet.

Eating the proper foods, Dr. Sweet says, is more important than cleaning the teeth, important as the latter is. Authorities conclude that a lack of certain vitamins and minerals has a tendency to cause both tooth decay and diseases of the gums. Even pyorrhea is laid to a lack of vitamin C. Or, such a lack seems to cause a loss of vitality in the gum tissues that makes them more susceptible to pyorrhea and trench mouth.

The important vitamins to teeth health are A, C, and D. The two minerals of importance are calcium and phosphorus. Cow's milk is the best source of calcium, next to human milk. Phosporus is found in milk, fruits, and whole wheat bread. To be assured of the proper vitamins and minerals, the daily diet should include: one pint of milk, one egg, two servings of vegetables, two servings of fruit, one serving of whole cereal, one glass of orange or tomato juice, and a teaspoonful of cod liver oil in the winter.

Dr. Sweet believes it is better to err on the side of smallness, if anything, when buying a tooth brush. If a brush it too large, one cannot get around the corners of the mouth. The bristles of the brush should be set in groups or tufts that are widely spaced. This makes the brush easier to clean. Bristles should not be so stiff as to cause gums to bleed, nor too soft, for then they will not do the work required. The minute the bristles become matted or broken the brush should be thrown away.

Dr. Sweet advises soaking a brush for a couple of hours in a strong salt solution before using it. And teeth, be it remembered, aren't all that must be cleaned. The brush must be washed thoroughly before and after use.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Massage Improves Knuckles.

T. R.: Enlarged knuckles may be improved by hand massage. If you're in the habit of holding your hands clenched, discontinue the practice. There are excellent hand creams. If you wish, you may use lanolin, cocoa butter, or almond oil.

Deep Breathing Develops Bust.

A. B.: Deep breathing exercises are excellent for developing the bust. If it's possible to take up swimming, do so. You will find it most advantageous for that purpose. Send for exercises to be done at home. A stamped, addressed envelope please.

Plastic Surgery Must Be Skilled.

H. M. S.: Ask your family physician for the name of a plastic surgeon. It is most important that work of that kind be done by a skilled operator.

Rites to Take Place Sept. 7 in Winnetka.

from the middle of August until the middle of September.

Soon after the Linns return to their Shoreacres home the Olivet Institute galleries will open, so Mrs. Linn anticipates a busy autumn, for Olivet is her pet charity and the new galleries her especial interest just now. The house at 1000 Lake Shore drive that was the late Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's home is being leased for the galleries.

The John Kelloggs of Lake Forest, who are spending the early summer in the Linns' house at Charlevoix, will go to a western ranch early in August.

Edmond Benoist to Visit Parents.

The William F. Benoists are expecting a visit from their son, Edmond G. Benoist, who will fly here from California for the week-end. Young Mr. Benoist has been engaged in business in San Francisco since the first of the year. Miss Mira Lee Benoist is spending the summer at home and finding it unusually gay.

Miss Charlotte Chandler will return from a visit with her mother, Mrs. R. Smith Chandler, in New Orleans, at the end of August to spend a few weeks with her father, Buckingham Chandler, in Winnetka before entering Columbia university. Miss Chandler attended Sarah Lawrence college last year.

Miss May Stillwell is spending the summer with her father and new stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Addison Stillwell [Mrs. Jane McLennan], in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Stillwell, who returned recently from a wedding trip to Hot Springs, are dividing their time between his apartment on North State street and the Chicago Golf club of Wheaton.

The William B. Greenlees returned from a four months' trip to Europe in which they covered the British Isles and part of the continent.

John F. Manierres Home from East.

The John F. Manierres returned a few days ago from a two weeks' trip in the east during which they spent a good deal of time cruising about Buzzards bay and Cape Cod with the Edward Lunds. Mr. and Mrs. Lund moved east last year when he took charge of a school near Providence, R. I. Mr. and Mrs. Manierre are partial to sailing and usually spend his summer vacation on their own sloop which they keep in the Wilmette harbor.

Mrs. Stanley Keith and her daughter, Betty, and their house guest, Miss Hope Bacon of Long Island, left yesterday for Tee Pee lodge, Wyoming, to spend a month. Miss Keith, who finished at St. Timothy's last year, will travel through Europe with Miss Stout's school next winter.

The Edward L. Brewsters arrived in town a day or two ago to stay with the former Barbara Morse's parents, Col. and Mrs. Robert H Morse, in Lake Forest. They will be here for two weeks and will be widely if informally entertained, for none of their friends has had an opportunity to give parties for them since their surprise marriage last Christmas holidays.

Young Mr. Brewster is attending the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he will return next fall with his bride after a belated honeymoon trip to Bermuda. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, return home today, Mrs. Brewster from Saugatuck and Mr. Brewster from a business trip.

George R. Carr and his two daughters, Miss Katherine and Miss Martha, who are staying with his brother, Robert F. Carr, at 209 Lake Shore drive, will leave Monday for New York to sail Wednesday on the President Roosevelt for Europe. They will go directly to Salzburg for the music festival and then will divide the winter between their villa at Beaumont on the Riviera and Florence. They will return to the United States next June.

Mrs. Frank Sims and her son "Mac" and her sister, Miss Caroline McNair, have gone to Au Gres, Mich., to the ranch of Mr. Sims' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Sims. Mrs. Richard Coffin [Susan Sims] of Detroit and Mrs. John Gammie [Helen Sims] and her three children, Barbara, Jackie, and Jimmy, of Long Island, are spending the summer there now as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Sims.

Robert McKennas at Hinsdale.

When Mr. and Mrs. John E. Eddy of Hinsdale decided to spend the summer in Europe they offered their house to the young Robert N. McKennas [Katherine Thayer], who lost no time in closing up their town apartment and moving to the western suburb where they have so many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. McKenna established themselves in Hinsdale officially on Sunday, when they entertained at a "housewarming." Their small daughter, Alicia, is, of course, with them, and has joined the aquatic fans who gather every day around the swimming pool of the Hinsdale Golf club.

Lieut. Gen. Friederick von Boetticher, the military attaché to the German embassy in Washington, will spend this coming week-end in Evanston as the guest of Col. and Mrs. Edward Davis. When Col. Davis was American military attaché in Berlin some years ago, Gen. von Boetticher was on duty in the German war office and the friendship started.

Father, Daughter to Hunt in Arctic.

With the mercury soaring into the nineties, the vacation plans of Miss Dorothy Snyder and her father, Harry Snyder of Wilmette, will arouse envy.

Mr. Snyder and his daughter are going into the Arctic circle and on to the Arctic ocean on a hunting expedition and it will not be surprising to hear that they are snowbound in August. Hunting game in the arctic region has been Mr. Snyder's favorite pastime for a number of years. This trip, however, will be Miss Snyder's first.

Mr. Snyder already has left Chicago and Miss Snyder will entrain Sunday for Edmonton, Alberta. There she will board an airplane and continue to Fort Resolution, which is on the shore of Great Slave lake, to meet her father who will have spent a week in the barren lands just below the Arctic circle.

Proceeding on north together, Mr. Snyder will have his eye peeled for ball, a kind of mountain sheep reported to be almost extinct. He is very anxious to get a group of these sheep on this expedition. As the result of former trips he has made important gifts to the American museum in New York City, to the Canadian museum in Ottawa, and the Cleveland museum.

Whatever he gets of especial interest and value this time will go to one of these museums. Miss Snyder will bring back a pictorial account of the trip for she expects to do most of her hunting with a movie camera. Mr. Snyder and his daughter will return home about Sept. 15. In June Miss Snyder was graduated from Northwestern university.

Garden Show Today at Delavan Lake.

Many Chicagoans who once or twice every summer motor up to Delavan lake for the day will choose next Tuesday as one of the days on which to make the trip for on Tuesday, from 2 to 9 o'clock, the Delavan Lake Garden club will hold its annual flower show.

The show will be at the Delavan Country club and Mrs. John Troike, chairman, says there will be many new arrangements and features from the gardens of the members. Mrs. William R. Abbott is president of the club and among the members who have lovely gardens and whose entries in the flower shows always are interesting and worth seeing are Mrs. Anson Cameron, Mrs. Charles G. Stevens, Mrs. George Olmsted, Mrs. J. W. Moulding, Mrs. J. C. Cox, and Mrs. E. M. Willoughby.

There will be a lot of widows-for-the-evening next Wednesday night when the Louis-Levinsky fight is staged at Comiskey park and a number of "hen" parties are being planned by the wives whose husbands will be seeing the fight and earlier dining at the buffet dinner party President Sheldon Clark of the new Sporting Club of Illinois will give at the Racquet club.

The dinner party will be a sort of unofficial welcome to prominent out-of-town visitors who will be here for the fight, including Mayor La Guardia of New York, Gene Tunney, Bernard Gimbel, and Cornelius V. Whitney.

Among the Chicago sportsmen who will be present at the supper party and the fight are Seymour Wheeler, Leonard Florsheim, John A. Stevenson, Louis C. Seaverns, Sewell Avery, Howard F. Gillette, Harold F. McCormick, Thorne Donnelley, Paul Walker, John D. Matz, and George H. Malcolm.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This wrap-over house dress is wonderfully pretty and feminine in type. The ruffles on the waist, the patch pocket, sash in the back, and skirt ruffle all are becoming details. Of course, the skirt ruffle needn't be used unless one prefers it. Percale, dimity, poplin, and gingham are lovely materials for this type of dress.

The pattern, No. 2673, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4⅛ yards of 35 inch material, with 3¾ yards of braid.

Girl, 6, Sells Lemonade to Aid Ice Fund

Other Children Help by Giving Show.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Six year old Joan Hamme turned over $1.38 to the cashier of the Tribune Tower, the receipts of two benefit lemonade sales which she herself staged on the parkway before her home at 4938 North Lincoln avenue, for the benefit of the Tribune Free Ice fund.

"A little glass was two cents, and a big glass was five cents," she explained.

"Did anyone ask what the ice fund was?" she was asked.

"Yes," she replied. "I say for the poor children to have ice in their milk so it won't get sour."

This benefit lemonade sale is getting to be an annual affair with Joan. Last summer, when she was only five she held her first one, which netted more than a dollar.

Tickets to another juvenile benefit for the Tribune Free Ice fund were received yesterday. Printed on gay orange and brown cards, they bear the imposing title of "Benefit Entertainment by the Children of the Neighborhood at Mrs. Holth's House, Corner Ainslie and Lowell." The tickets are five cents for children; 10 cents for grownups. The time 3 p. m., Tuesday, Aug. 3.

"The Tribune Free Ice fund is the sole topic of nighborhood conversation," wrote in one of the sponsors. "Like Mark Twain, we are working up quite an effect, in getting up a cunning children's program—all neighbors—various solo pieces, dancing, two tiny playlets and a real magician who does tricks!"

Through the summer benefits of THE TRIBUNE's younger readers and the generous contributions of its older readers, the ice fund supplies free ice to mothers with sickly babies throughout the hot summer.

Thousand Laymen Attend Retreat at Notre Dame

Notre Dame, Ind., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Nearly 1,000 men from all parts of the country were registered here tonight for the seventeenth annual retreat for laymen to be held at the University of Notre Dame this week-end. The Rev. John B. Delauney, C. S. O., and the Rev. William A. Bolger, C. S. O., will deliver the sermons and instructions at this annual three day "spiritual house cleaning," which has become the largest single retreat for laymen in the world. The Rev. Patrick H. Dolan, C. S. O., head of the Holy Cross Mission band, is director of the retreat.

The Weather Halts Park Concert First Time in Season

For the first time since the concerts from the band shell in Grant park started a month ago, bad weather took a hand and halted the proceedings last night. The Chicago Symphony orchestra will, however, continue for three more nights, with Eric DeLamarter conducting. Tonight's program:

1. Overture, "Egmont" .... Beethoven
2. Symphony No. 3 ["Eroica"] .. Beethoven
3. Suite from the ballet "L'Oiseau de Feu" .... Strawinsky
4. Love song from suite, "Indian," Opus 48 .... MacDowell
5. Scherzo, "The Sorcerer's Apprentice" .... Dukas
6. Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2 .... Liszt [Clarinet cadenza, R. Lindemann; harp cadenza, J. Vito.]

The Star Spangled Banner.

There was a bit of a coincidence in yesterday's radio happenings. Those who tuned in about 1:15 in the afternoon to get the broadcast from Salzburg, Austria, heard part of Mozart's "Don Giovanni," with Edith Mason, Ezio Pinza, and Virgilio Lazzari in three of the principal parts, the same opera and the same singers that were heard in the Civic Opera house last winter.—E. "Cherry Tree" Is Simple Applique Design for Quilt

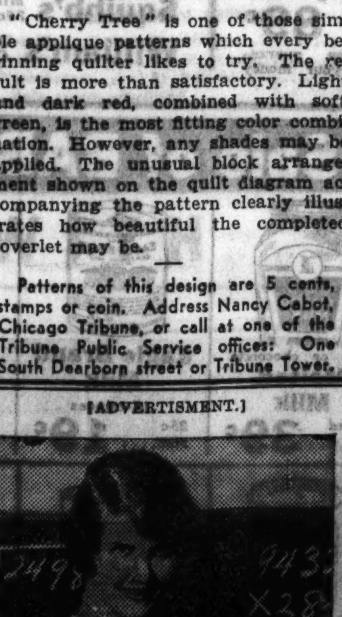
Cherry Tree

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Cherry Tree" is one of those simple applique patterns which every beginning quilter likes to try. The result is more than satisfactory. Light and dark red, combined with soft green, is the most fitting color combination. However, any shades may be applied. The unusual block arrangement shown on the quilt diagram accompanying the pattern clearly illustrates how beautiful the completed coverlet may be.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

[ADVERTISMENT.]



IT'S SIMPLY WONDERFUL! The new "Certain-Safe" Modess really gives women complete protection from embarrassing "accidents." This perfect sanitary napkin has longer tabs that can't pull loose from the pins. It can't strike through. And it's so much softer and more comfortable! Get a box today.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

SAFETY PLAY.

I have been playing quite a lot of rubber bridge recently and I have noticed a deplorable carelessness on the part of some of the country's finest players. The duplicate spirit is somehow missing—the old "die-for-team-of-four" spirit. Overtricks do not matter in rubber bridge, and with relaxation of the determination to get the last notch out of the contract there has been a consequent slip-shoddiness in the play of every hand. What odds? Another hand will be along in a minute.

I daresay that South would never have tried to drop the clubs 3-2 in duplicate. A minute's thought would have shown him the correct safety play. But South went ahead, slap-bang! Here is the hand.

NORTH.
♠ K-9-5-3
♥ A-7
♦ 8-5

WEST.
♠ Q-10-6
♥ 9-4-2
♦ J-9-4
♣ Q-J-6-3

EAST.
♠ 8-7-2
♥ K-J-8-5-3
♦ K-Q-7-2

SOUTH.
♠ A-J-4
♥ Q-10-6
♦ A-10-6-3
♣ 10-8-7

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 Cl.	1 Ht.
1 N. T. [1]	Pass	2 N. T. [2]	Pass
3 N. T.	Pass	Pass	Pass

1. A strong bid, after a third hand club bid. The overcall does not make the bid any the weaker, either.

2. Since South did not bid one spade over one heart, North may assume that he does not hold four spades. The raise in no trumps is correct.

West opened the nine of hearts. South ducked in the dummy and East won with the king, returning the five spot. Since I already intimated that South laid down the ace and king of clubs, there is nothing further to be said along those lines. South went down two tricks.

The safety play, since South assumes that the clubs will break three-two, is for the declarer to play the ace, and then a small one. Had the king of spades not been in dummy he would have made that play, said South afterward. Too bad! Just forget about kings of spades from this time on, South, old fellow.

East shows out and South puts up the ten spot. He wins the heart return with the Queen, finesses for West's jack of clubs and makes four odd by finessing the jack of spades. The jack of spades finesse does not win, my critics, but the spades break three-three.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

NORTH.
♠ K-J-6-5

♦ A-3

WEST.
♠ 4-3

A simple enough hand. Six spades is the contract.

DOCTOR SAID SHE NEEDED "BULK" FOR HER CONSTIPATION*

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief to Mrs. Maneely

"Up to five years ago, I knew no end of suffering caused by constipation.* I used all kinds of laxatives but only found relief till I got used to them. My physician told me to get some Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and instructed me how to use it.

"I did just as I was told by my doctor, and today I send my highest praise for what your ALL-BRAN has done for me."—Mrs. Jas. Maneely, Jr., 9 Kilburn St., Valley Falls, R. I.

*Due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to help overcome common constipation. It is also a good source of vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" of ALL-BRAN is often more effective than the "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not corrected this way, see your doctor.

Isn't this food much pleasanter and safer than risking patent medicines? Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Let Baby's Rest Anticipate, Not Cure, Fatique

Sleep Should Be Perfectly Geared to His Schedule.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

If you want to be informed on the subject of the baby's sleep I would advise you to follow this series on the subject, which is quite comprehensive. It began last week and will continue for about two weeks more.

Our previous articles on the baby's sleep have been a sort of preface, dealing with his room, his bed, how to make it, and so on.

Today and tomorrow we'll begin to discuss the subject of sleep itself, and go over briefly the amount of sleep children should have—at night and during naps.

In order to train a baby for proper sleeping habits it is necessary to plan a schedule based partly on his eating schedule. A well planned day is essential—feeding, rest, nap, fresh air, play, and so forth—all are essential to health. Plan his sleep and rest times to anticipate fatigue instead of curing it. Haphazard schedules make it difficult for both mother and child, or even too much variation from a good schedule causes trouble.

How many hours of sleep should children have? is a question that I am often asked.

There is no complete agreement as to the answer. Nutritionists, pediatricians, research groups, and clinics vary somewhat, for little is actually known scientifically about the amount of sleep needed by children of various ages and various temperaments in various climates. In the schedules worked out below a middle ground has been followed, tending somewhat toward those who favor the maximum amounts. Your doctor may disagree with these hours, or your child vary more in his needs than this schedule indicates, but the following is safe to use as a general guide.

For the first few weeks of his life the new baby sleeps almost all the time except when he is eating—from twenty to twenty-two hours daily.

By the third month he will need from eighteen to twenty hours of sleep.

By the twelfth month he will need up to sixteen hours.

From the second to the third year he will need from fourteen to sixteen hours.

From the third to the fifth year he will need from eleven to fourteen hours.

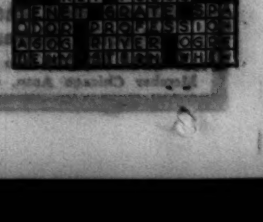
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



Parents Should Solve Problem of Date Hours

Subject of Concern in Most Households.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The eternal query about the right age for girls to go out with boys confronts us as it does in every morning's mail. It's youth's burning question, obviously.

We think there ought to be a vast parent congress to take up and thresh out this weighty subject. And don't you believe it isn't a serious problem.

Mrs. Blank's daughter, 14 years old, begs to know, impudently to Mrs. Blank's ears, why her next door chum, Jean, is allowed out nights with the boys and she is chased off to bed at 10:30.

There's an incredible amount of trouble over this boy and hour question. Personally, we stand with the parents who want their 14 and 15 year olds in the house and in bed before the clock strikes twelve.

We do not think that girls of 13, 14, and 15 should be permitted the advantages of mixed company. Boys should have a place in these building years, but not first place. They should be part of a social group, with frequent meetings, from which parental presence is not barred. But at 16 we feel that a young woman might be privileged an evening or two out with a boy, providing she has respect for the allotted homecoming hour. She should be allowed movie attendance with a boy.

But she should not be allowed to leave the house without giving a fair account of where she is going and when she will be back. And supervision of her boy companions should be a matter of parental duty. Even at 16, advanced as some of these youngsters think they are, they still are not entitled to the freedom permittted a sister, say 5, 6, or 7 years her senior. The girl is not through school, for one thing. Her health has to be guarded and her morals are still in the making, regardless of the precepts already established.

N. U. DEAN URGES STATE TAKE OVER "CRIME SCHOOL"

$50,000 Needed for Job, Leon Green Asserts.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The scientific crime detection laboratory of Northwestern university, which came into existence shortly after the St. Valentine day massacre six years ago, now is established in new quarters at 222 East Superior street, where seven separate laboratories are functioning in crime work for the police and private agencies.

The suggestion, made in various quarters, that this organization should be developed to a greater extent and made an agency of the state, county, or city, or a combination of these, has the approval of Dean Leon Green of the law school, with which the laboratory is affiliated.

"Its importance to this community demands that it be developed on an official scale," said Mr. Green. "Other communities are trying to start one. Ours has been successful in many ways. It should have $50,000 additional funds and should become a more active agency of the law.

Sponsored Crime Prevention.

"Northwestern university law school really started crime prevention work in this country. It was in 1909, at the fiftieth anniversary of the law school, that the first crime conference was held. This was the idea of Dean Emeritus John H. Wigmore. Out of it grew the American Institute of Criminal Law, the Journal of Criminal Law and Criminology, and various other conferences leading up to the recent national conference.

"Prof. Roscoe Pound, then a professor in Northwestern law school, said at the first meeting that no field of interest, legal or social, afforded a better opportunity for social service than the administration of punitive justice in this country. The crime detection laboratory was one outgrowth of that start. It has been made a part of the law school course and has proved its worth in many ways. It takes years, however, to develop real scientists in this field.

Budget Is Limited.

"The university has spent more than $700,000 on its work in crime, and $400,000 of this on the crime laboratory. We now are operating on a reduced budget."

The staf of the laboratory, which requires a peculiar combination of scholar and practical man, consists of the following:

LEONARDE KEELER, A. B., assistant professor of law in psychology, whose polygraph or lie detector tests recently were admitted in a Wisconsin court as evidence for the jury, and who has conducted experiments on thousands of criminals and suspects.

CLARENCE W. MUEHLBERGER, B. S., Ph. D., assistant professor of toxicology and pharmacology.

CHARLES M. WILSON, research engineer and instructor of police science.

KATHERINE KEELER, A. B., examiner of questioned documents.

FRED E. INBAU, B. S., LL. B., LL. M., instructor of police science.

M. E. O'NEILL, B. S., M. S., microscopist.

The new laboratory has a library and conference room, a machine shop where instruments are made if required, a pistol and rifle range for test shots, a chemistry laboratory where quantitative and qualitative analyses may be made. The microscopic laboratory has a number of different types of monocular and binocular microscopes, lenses and precision optical components and comparison devices.

Modern Ballistics Laboratory.

The ballistics laboratory has available the latest type of instruments and apparatus for the examination of small arms, fired bullets and shells.

The ultra-violet laboratory has every type of ultra-violet generator and a collection of monochromatic filters. The photographic laboratory and dark room is equipped with vertical and photomicrographic cameras, and horizontal copying cameras. The electronic laboratory has meters, vacuum tubes, photo-electric devices and electrical appartus for testing work in the field of deception techniques, wire tapping, alarm and protective devices.

The psycho-physiological laboratory consists of two acoustically treated rooms which are provided with so-called control conditions surrounding the polygraph or lie detector examinations.

NATIONAL GREEK SOCIETY TO MEET HERE AUG. 18-25

Plans for the annual convention of the Order of Ahepa, a patriotic and fraternal organization of Greek-Americans in the United States and Canada, to be held in Chicago from Aug. 18 to 25, were made yesterday at a meeting of the convention committee in the Hotel Sherman. The plans include the first national amateur baseball championship game of the Hellenic Youth Organization, to be played at Wrigley field on Aug. 18.

The Order of Ahepa was founded twelve years ago "to promote and encourage loyalty to the United States; obedience to its laws and reverence for its history and traditions." A feature of the convention will be an exhibit of merchandise and art products of Greek and American manufacturers.

MISS PAULINE MAY.
[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—His love rejected, Roy Daniels, 28, killed himself today in front of the girl who had refused his attentions.

The girl, Miss Pauline May, 19, told police Daniels had called for her at her home and they had started on an automobile ride. "Roy told me he loved me," she said, "but I told him he just thought he did and that he should forget it. I told him, as I had before, that I wasn't in love with him and never would be."

The girl said that as they drove home, Daniels drew a bottle from a pocket in the car and drank its contents. He slumped to the seat and died several minutes later. Daniels lived in St. Charles.

Rochester, Minn., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Senator James Couzens of Michigan, a convalescent here after an operation for a bladder ailment, underwent a second operation yesterday. Physicians said he probably will remain in the hospital a week.

THE AMERICAN TASTE IS BECOMING MORE CRITICAL

To people who think "Gin is Gin"

Are you one who believes the foolish legend that gin is gin?

That is an outgrowth of prohibition when throats became so seared by harsh, raw concoctions that they lost all appreciation for smoothness, bouquet and flavor.

Actually there is just as much difference between that kind of gin and Gordon's as there is between night and day.

If you doubt this, buy a bottle of Gordon's and compare it critically with most other gins.

In England, Gordon's is the best selling gin.

In frugal and fastidious France most of the gin sold bears the famous Gordon label.

Gordon's leads in Africa, South America, Australia, Canada and throughout the Orient.

Your own good judgment will tell you that Gordon's quality is one reason for such outstanding preference.

When gin is called for call for Gordon's.

INTERSECTIONAL RACE DEVELOPS AMONG COACHES

Bachman Leads in Nation-Wide Poll.

BY ARCH WARD.

The final drive to elect a staf of coaches to handle the greatest galaxy of college football players ever assembled has developed into an intersectional battle among the south, middle west, and Pacific coast.

FRANK THOMAS.

Leading the central states are Charles Bachman of Michigan State, Dr. C. W. Spears of Wisconsin, Elmer Layden of Notre Dame, Bo McMillin of Indiana, and Bernie Bierman of Minnesota. The south's standard bearer is Frank Thomas of Alabama and the coast is pushing Edward Madigan of St. Mary's.

Although the national poll, conducted for the purpose of picking three coaches to lead the All-Americans against the Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field Aug. 29, ends Sunday night, it is impossible to forecast the winner. During the early days of the poll the leaders were dependent chiefly on the following of their particular teams, but the competition now has become a matter of sectional pride.

South Backs Thomas.

The support for Thomas, Alabama's entry, is coming even from the border state of West Virginia. He is running far ahead in the poll conducted by the Huntington Advertiser and is a strong favorite in the Atlanta, Ga., Journal returns as well as points in Tennessee. The Birmingham News and Age Herald yesterday forwarded 45,000 votes, all marked for Thomas as first choice.

More than 100,000 votes for Thomas already have come out of Alabama where a systematic campaign was conducted that included scores of the smaller cities. His supporters expect at least 50,000 more before the polls close Sunday night.

E. E. Edgar, sports editor of the Detroit Free Press, reported last night that his desk was swamped with votes for Bachman of Michigan State, an aftermath of the statewide radio talk in his behalf the night previous by Gov. Frank Fitzgerald and Mickey Cochrane. Lansing sent in 19,213. Thousands more came from Grand Rapids, Muskegon, Flint, Battle Creek, and Benton Harbor. Bachman tops the standings this morning for the second straight day, but his margin over Thomas is only 2,037 points.

Phelan Gets Support.

The Seattle Times, whose sports editor is George Varnell, widely known football official, is making a determined effort to place Jimmy Phelan, University of Washington coach, on the All-Star staf. Votes are rolling into the Seattle office at the rate of 35,000 a day. Phelan yesterday got 21,016 first place votes and Elmer Layden 393. Gil Dobie of Cornell, former Washington coach, was third choice with 16,617 ballots. Spears picked up 393 votes.

San Francisco continued yesterday as the hot spot of the country. The bay district fans rolled up 45,207 votes for Slip Madigan. Tiny Thornhill of Stanford, got only 473. San Jose, Cal., only 40 miles from San Francisco, has cast 45,560 votes for Clipper Smith of Santa Clara through the Mercury-Herald. This figure, however, includes all those collected the last week. Madigan was second choice at San Jose and Thornhill third.

Louisville friends are rallying to the support of Bo McMillin. The Herald-Post yesterday reported 23,127 votes.

All $2.20 seats for the football game between the College All-Stars and the Chicago Bears at Soldiers' Field Aug. 29 have been sold. Only $1.65 and $1.10 seats are available.

The chance to see this huge football spectacle is not gone, however. There are thousands of good seats left at $1.65 and $1.10. These prices include tax. All seats are reserved.

Tickets are on sale at The Tribune's Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn and on the first floor of The Tribune Tower, until 10 o'clock every night, including Sundays. If you can't get to the ticket office, make out a money order or check to The Chicago Tribune and mail your application to the Football Ticket Manager, Chicago Tribune.

DELIBERATOR ON EDGE FOR $60,000 RACE TOMORROW

BY FRENCH LANE.

The wisest and most experienced trainers at Arlington Park have a good word to say these days for their youthful rival Sherill Ward, who will saddle Fred A. Burton's Deliberator for the $60,000 Arlington Futurity tomorrow.

In their own words he has done the "hardest Futurity job well." When the old-timers among the trainers say that much, it is the highest compliment a young fellow trying to get along in the racing game can expect.

Young Ward's job has been hard because he carried Deliberator through a busy winter campaign, has kept him on edge for the better part of seven months and to all appearances has him in better shape for tomorrow's rich prize than at any time since the son of Wise Counsellor came to the races.

He's Calm, at Any Rate.

Should Deliberator race as young Mr. Ward expects him to tomorrow his share of the Futurity prize will be in the neighborhood of $45,000. That's a pretty big job for a young fellow, 21 years old, to be carrying around on his shoulders, yet youthful Ward is either a gay deceiver or actually is cool and collected as the biggest turf venture of his short career draws near.

In the three years he has been training horses for Fred A. Burton, Chicago coal magnate, who races under the nom de course of Everglade Stable, young Ward has developed several good horses but none coming up to the promise of Deliberator. This colt, which will be one of the Futurity favorites, is a budding champion, many horse men believe.

Deliberator, in his first local appearance this week took the measure of several highly regarded Futurity candidates, including White Cockade, generally accepted as the smartest youngster shown in New York this season. That was the fifth victory in seven starts for the handsome son of Wise Counsellor and Azurita.

Sire Purchased for $66,000.

The Everglade colt is by a horse which Mr. Burton and John S. Ward, father of young Sherill, purchased as a two year old for $66,000. They were partners in the ownership of the Everglade Stable and under their red-starred banner Wise Counsellor captured the Queen City handicap, Kentucky Jocky Club stakes, the first International Special, beating Epinard, and other prominent events.

The elder Ward, who for many years had the reputation of being one of the nation's better horsemen, trained many prominent racers, including Dodge, which sired quite a few of the stock the younger Ward has had in his charge during the last three years. The young trainer's father also developed the great horse McChesney.

Young Ward was destined to be a horseman from the day of his birth. At that time his father already was

Louis Entertains Supporters with Gala Workout at Savoy

BY WILFRID SMITH.

"See Joe Louis, the brown bummer, who'll lick King Levinsky next Wednesday night."

This was the sidewalk ballyhoo yesterday on South Parkway in front of the Savoy arena. And more than 2,000 members of the Louis Marching club—women admitted for 10 cents—responded. It was the last gala afternoon of Louis' training period.

Today the former Golden Gloves champion will skip ring drills. Then he will finish preparations for Levinsky tomorrow and Sunday with a final rest period for two days before the battle at Comiskey Park.

Louis Pulls Punches.

Louis entered into yesterday's festivities perhaps too completely for his own good. It was all clean fun in which spar mates and spectators participated with intimate flashes of conversation audible throughout the sun baked bowl, hemmed in by dull red brick buildings that cut off the breeze.

Louis wasn't one of the conversationalists. He maintained his expressionless pose, but he did pull nearly all of his punches, was satisfied to block, and on occasion even took a couple of gentle smacks to the jaw. It wasn't the same Joe Louis we saw at Pompton Lakes, N. J., when he had no regard for his assistants and hammered them to the floor at every session.

Louis Shows Confidence.

This new Louis was a confident showman who suffered his subjects to prance about his majesty as long as he felt they recognized his superiority. James [Red] Johnson, No. 3 on the list of five opponents, was guilty of disrespect and Joe bombed him. The bell rang [by arrangement] and Johnson wobbled to his corner.

Louis' other opponents were Tiger Jack Payne, Willie Davies, Paul Embers of Detroit, who quit with the misery in his stomach after one minute, and Tom Jones, who went two rounds. With the possible exception of Jones, who was fighting when Joe was a baby in arms, the entire collection of practice fighters is worthless. Apparently, however, Louis is not conditioning himself by hard camp scraps. He is nearly down to weight, has limitless endurance because of his many mornings of road work, and now has become supremely confident he can whip Levinsky.

Levinsky Swings Hard.

This confidence may be Louis' pitfall. For Levinsky swings hard and reaches far. Jack Sharkey and Mickey Walker were knocked down by the Kingfish when they failed to estimate the margin of safety.

"What will you do if Levinsky knocks you down," we asked Joe this afternoon as he patiently watched Jack Blackburne bandage his hands for the workout. It was a one answer question, but Joe didn't even smile as he laconically replied:

"I'll get up." The innuendo was that if King Levinsky knocked Joe Louis down, King Levinsky had better start running.

Louis weighed out yesterday afternoon at 193 pounds, three pounds less than when he fought Primo Carnera. The extreme hot weather may be one answer, but another is that Louis is in perfect physical condition. He isn't temperamentally on edge, the supposedly correct sign to indicate readiness to fight. Louis isn't that type. In his dressing room he kidded with Paul Embers and Trainer Blackburne.

Sports Officials Attend.

Joe was praising Tony Piet's fielding in Wednesday's game against Cleveland, and incidentally, Joe rooted for Cleveland. His excuse, the Sox are too close to Detroit's Tigers, Joe's nominee for the championship.

Yesterday's drill attracted a number of prominent sports officials. Among those who saw Louis in action were Capt. Roy E. Davis and Ed Parkes, of the A. A. U.; Walter Wright, head of the municipal airport and playgrounds, and Herman Fischer, head of the board of education playgrounds.

Freeman Gosden, the Amos of the team of Amos and Andy, drew the applause when he carried coals to Newcastle with his dialect conversation over the loud speaker system.

PALS PONDER ODDS

Why is Joe Louis a 3 to 1 favorite to defeat King Levinsky in the ten round bout at Comiskey park next Wednesday?

That was the question on the lips of Levinsky partisans as the King sparred four rounds with three mates yesterday at his training camp at Round lake. These Levinsky followers, who yesterday included 60 members of the Allendale Boys school of Lake Villa, maintain that Levinsky will be the first real opponent Louis ever has faced despite the former Golden Gloves champion's perfect record

INDIANS ROUT FISCHER; HAAS' WRIST INJURED

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cleveland Indians don't mind being trimmed, but apparently do not subscribe to the theory that a left-handed pitcher can do the job. They disproved the southpaw angle yesterday and the demonstration was most convincing for Carl Fischer, who recently wrong armed his way to a one hit triumph over the Washington Senators. Fischer was rendered unfit for further services before four innings were completed and eventually the third place White Sox succumbed in the final of the three-game series, 8 to 3.

The eagerness with which the Indians took after Fischer, thereby causing him his fifth defeat of the season, also brought some disruption in the Sox plans to force the Yankees to vacate second place. A victory would have brought about a tie for the runner-up job but as it turned out the Sox now are a full game behind the New Yorkers. What's more they dropped another lap behind the leading Tigers who now own a four and one-half game edge over the Chicagoans.

Lee Keeps Sox Under Control.

The Sox are supposed to be bad money for left handed pitchers, but this was one of those rare occasions when it didn't work out properly. With the exception of two innings, and the game was gone at the time, they were completely under the control of Thornton Lee. After the fourth he choked them off on three hits. He's the fourth left hander who has gone the route and won over the Sox this season, but he had an edge even before he started. He was facing a team crippled by the absence of three regulars.

The addition to the hospital list, which previously was occupied exclusively by Al Simmons and Manager Jim Dykes, occurred in the pre-game practice. While swinging at a ball Outfielder Mule Haas pulled a ligament in his left wrist. Doctors who examined the injury ordered a vacation of from ten days to two weeks. He suffered a similar mishap to his right wrist while with the Athletics several years back and was on the side lines for three weeks.

The shakeup that separated Fischer from three runs in the second inning began with Knickerbocker's drive bouncing off the right field wall for a triple after Trosky had popped out. Fischer walked Hale and capped the gift with a balk, Knickerbocker scoring and Hale moving to second. Berger doubled over short and Hale ran home. Phillips singled to left and continued to second on Radcliff's return throw which was much too late to keep Berger from scoring. Lee singled to right, Phillips stopping at third. Fischer was able to nip the next two fellows.

Sox Go to Work.

Fischer did nobly by fanning two Indians in the first, but apparently by way of celebration the Sox knocked home two

VAUGHAN HITS HOMER; BASES FULL IN SECOND

Pirates' Big Inning Routs Warneke.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 1.—Arky Vaughan, who is leading the hitters of both major leagues with an average of .401, this afternoon put a severe crimp in Lon Warneke's deep laid plans to pitch the Cubs into a virtual tie with the first place New York Giants.

ARKY VAUGHAN.

The chunky Pirate from Clifty, Ark., socked a homer with the bases full off the skinny Cub from Mount Ida, Ark., to polish off a six run second inning. Fabian Kowalik held the Pirates scoreless after relieving the collapsed Chicago Arkansan, but the fruits of their second inning blast were sufficient for them to make it two straight by a score of 6 to 5. This again placed the Cubs a game behind the Giants, who were idle.

Cubs Threaten in Ninth.

The Chicagoans did not take their licking without giving the Pirates a scare. They made one run in the eighth and in the ninth. Freddy Lindstrom, making his first appearance since July 7, tripled to drive in two runs and then scored himself. The Cubs had the potential tying run on base with one out, but Phil Cavarretta and Ken O'Dea ended the threat.

The Vaughan No. 16 homer made the Cubs especially ill, as they thought it was a foul ball. But it was ruled a smack that had curled around the gas pipe marker in the proper manner and that was that.

Bill Swift was the winning pitcher, though he went away after Lindstrom's triple. It was his eleventh victory of the season. Aside from the scoring innings, the fourth, the eighth, and the ninth, the Cubs developed one excellent scoring chance in the fifth when Hack and Jurges arrived at third and second with none out. But the Cubs elected to let Kowalik bat for himself and that started a fadeout which gathered significance later in view of the Chicagoan's rally toward to the close of the game.

Warneke Fades Out.

There was no explanation for Warneke's blowup. He has been feeling fine and went to bed last night at 8:30 o'clock. During the July pennant drive he won six games while losing one and his recent form indicated he should have little difficulty setting down the Pirates. But Lon allowed a walk and a single in the first inning and in the second allowed four singles and hit a batsman before Vaughan did his cruel stuff. The Pirates made only four hits off Kowalik after the second inning.

Hits Homer With Bases Full.

The Pirates' second inning was indeed a riotous affair. Thevenow opened it with a single to left and went to third on Suhr's single to center. Things didn't look so bad when Grace was called out on strikes, but Swift promptly turned on the heat again by singling to left, Thevenow scoring and Suhr reaching third. Jensen singled to right, Suhr scoring and Swift stopping at second.

The runners advanced while Warneke was throwing out L. Waner and the bases were loaded when P. Waner was hit by a pitched ball. Vaughan [illegible] picked the pitch exactly to his liking and lined it into the upper

STARTING LINEUP OFFERS PROBLEM OF ALL-STARS

Every One on Squad Great Player, Hanley Says.

This is the second of a series of articles by Dick Hanley, former Northwestern university football coach, who was an assistant coach of the College All-Star team that met the Chicago Bears last summer at Soldiers' field.

BY DICK HANLEY.

[Assistant Coach 1934 All-Stars.]

Doctors are sometimes faced with the difficult diagnosis of an obscure ailment or disease. The commodity or securities broker in La Salle street may sit far into the night, pondering upon what is to be the future course of the market. Even you fellows who follow the bangtails may not be able to quite decide on which equine nose to place your wager. But all these problems are child's play. How would you like the task of selecting a starting lineup from 40 to 45 of the nation's best football players?

This will be the particular and very personal problem of the coaches selected to handle the College All-Star group in their contest with the Chicago Bears in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 29.

Must Work Together.

Press reports of a player's prowess can be cast into the wastebasket. A book of clippings does not gain ground against the type of defense that this year's professional horde will set up.

Weight is of secondary importance. Whom a star has played under or what style of play was employed at his college is not the paramount issue, as pointed out in the previous article.

The big job is to pick a combination that will function well together, to put the squad in the best physical condition possible, and finally to imbue it with the will to win.

The great show of the college group against the Bears will be with us now in a few weeks. But without the important elements named above being realized to their utmost it could become a sorry spectacle.

Whom Would You Pick?

How would you, Mr. Fan, place your All-Stars in combinations?

If you were a devotee of the Notre Dame style of play you undoubtedly would string along with men who've achieved reputations and experience under this system of football.

That undoubtedly would mean you would have at the end positions Hutson of Alabama and Borden of Fordham, both disciples of this famous offense.

At one of the tackle spots you would find Lee of Alabama. Schiralli, Notre Dame's watch charm player and Chuck Mucha of Washington, coached by Jimmie Phelan, might be your preference at guard. At center Jack Robinson, Notre Dame's fine pivot man, would be effective.

Howell of Alabama and Purvis of Purdue undoubtedly would be your half back—but for that matter, those fellows could play half back in anybody's language.

It's a Tough Problem.

Sulkosky of Washington is a Notre Dame style full back, while Salatine of Santa Clara would round out the back field at the important quarter back position.

Remember, this is not my lineup. It is simply one of the possibilities.

All the coaches will have to do now that you have made your selection of stars is to figure out who will start in the 60 minute, bruising encounter.

And that, my friends, will be something of a problem.

The third article by Dick Hanley will appear tomorrow.

PARKER-MANGIN TEAM WINS TWO MATCHES EASILY

Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Gregory Mangin, of Newark, national indoor champion, and Frank Parker, youthful Milwaukee star, scored two straight set victories this afternoon to gain the semi-final round of the Meadow club doubles tournament.

First they put out I. A. Powell, of Southampton, and William Robertson, of Palo Alto, Cal., 6-3, 6-4 and then they defeated the team of Norcross Tilney, South Orange, N. J., and Charles Harris, West Palm Beach, 6-2, 6-4.

Wilmer Hines, Columbia, S. C., and Henry Culley, Santa Barbara, Cal., second seeded favorites, gained the semi-finals after a hard struggle with Hal Surface and Wilbur Hess, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5, and a comparatively easy triumph over Jess Millman, Los Angeles, and Eddie Jacobs, Baltimore, 6-3, 6-3.

John McDiarmid and Lefty Bryan won their first match, with Martin Buxby and Bill Feibleman, 8-6, 6-3. Rain postponed their second round meeting with Sam Lee and Henry Prusoff.

Tomorrow's schedule also calls for the playing of the Meadow club's singles semi-finals. Culley will oppose Gil Hall. The Orange veteran who upset Mangin, and Parker will meet Clifford Sutter, Detroit veteran.

MISSES WHEELER AND BABCOCK WIN IN NET TOURNEY

Easthampton, N. Y., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Two Californians reached the semi-final round of the Maidstone club's annual invitational tennis tournament for women today before rain washed out the rest of the program.

Gracyn Wheeler, Santa Monica, Cal., listed third, conquered the hard hitting Mrs. Dorothy Andrus, Stamford, Conn., seeded sixth, 6-2, 6-3, and Carolin Babcock, Los Angeles, listed fifth, made short work of Mrs. John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, 6-0, 6-2.

As a result of the downpour, the remaining two quarter-final matches will be played tomorrow with Mrs. Sarah F. Fabyan, Brookline, Mass., going against Katherine Winthrop, also from Boston, for the right to play Miss Babcock.

Mrs. Moody to Leave for California Home Tonight

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Helen Wills Moody, former women's tennis champion, will leave New York tomorrow night for her home in California.

INSPECTOR-I WAS AMAZED WHEN YOU CALLED ABOUT HARBINE'S MURDER! -HE IS THE SECOND OF OUR ENGINEERS TO BE KILLED RECENTLY!
OBVIOUSLY SOMEONE IS TRYING TO CRIPPLE THE DRACO MINING COMPANY!-BUT WHY DO THEY ATTACK YOUR ENGINEERS?
YOU SEE-THE DRACO TIN MINE LIES INLAND NEAR JOHOR PROVINCE..IN ORDER TO REACH THE RIVER THAT LEADS TO THE SEA, WE HAVE TO TRANSPORT ORE BY PACK TRAIN ACROSS A LARGE SWAMP... RECENTLY WE STARTED WORK ON A CANAL TO FACILITATE SHIPPING..
...THE ROUTE OF THE CANAL RUNS CLOSE TO THE BOUNDARY OF THE LAND OF A POWERFUL TRADER NAMED KRUNCH!-HE TOO OPERATES A TIN MINE-AND WHEN OUR CANAL IS COMPLETED IT WILL SERIOUSLY CRIPPLE HIS MONOPOLY OF THE BUSINESS!
THEN YOU FEEL THAT IT WOULD PROFIT THIS MAN KRUNCH TO HAVE THE DRACO ENGINEERS FAIL TO COMPLETE THE CANAL?
I'M NOT ACCUSING HIM OFFICIALLY-BUT I KNOW HIM-AND I WOULDN'T TRUST HIM TEN FEET AWAY!-HE'S SMOOTH, TRICKY AND DANGEROUS!

Louis Holds Gala Workout in Savoy Ring

of 23 triumphs in as many professional contests.

Whom has Louis licked that can surpass Levinsky in youth, skill, ruggedness, and punching power, they asked.

King Misses Many Rights.

Levinsky almost answered the query himself by appearing below form yesterday. He opened the drill against Mickey Patrick of East Chicago for one round and, though he scored quite frequently with both hands to the body, the Kingfish didn't look his best.

He missed all except one of the numerous right swings he aimed at Patrick's chin. Levinsky's next partner was the Chicago light heavyweight, Roy Williams. The King unleashed a barrage of lefts and rights to the stomach at the start of the round, but he was slowed up by Williams' short counter punches to the head.

Against Williams the King, who weighed 201 pounds before the drill, appeared slow and listless. He perked up in the third round, against Jack Redmond, and then finished the workout by pounding Williams for one round.

Art Winch Is Called In.

Nevertheless, Levinsky's showing caused some consternation in the camp, for immediately after the workout it was announced Art Winch, comanager with Sam Pian of Champion Barney Ross and Davey Day, will assist Izzy Klein in keeping the Chicago slugger from overtraining.

The first order given out by Winch was that Levinsky should be given a rest today. Klein agreed, but only half way, so the King will do several miles' road work this morning. He will resume boxing tomorrow and continue Sunday and Monday.

Mr. Triner Sits in Middle.

Chairman Joe Triner, Commissioner Packey McFarland, Secretary Gene Meany and Inspector Harold Ryan, all of the Illinois Boxing commission, attended yesterday's drill. McFarland said that the King "has a very good chance of winning. Levinsky throws punches Louis never saw before." By that statement he meant the unorthodox style of Levinsky.

Chairman Triner was more diplomatic in his statement. He sided for neither fighter, but predicted the fight would be good.

"Both are in splendid condition," said Triner, who had watched Louis drill Tuesday at his camp at the Savoy outdoor arena. "I expect both contestants to suffer at least one knockdown. I think King Levinsky will be facing the hardest puncher of his career, not excepting Max Baer, and that goes double for Louis." Levinsky weighed 198 pounds after the workout.

Those who made the trip to Round Lake yesterday included Johnny Coulon, Leonard Sacks, Sergts. Harry O'Connell and Frank Reynolds, Harry Gahagan, Phil Caffarello, Promoter Joe Foley and Matchmaker Mickey Farr.

Farr announced that Andy [Kid] Miller, Des Moines, Ia., light heavyweight, has been substituted for Nathan Mann against Mickey Patrick in a four round supporting match Wednesday.

Red Burman to Get Chance.

John Emery, Allentown, Pa., heavyweight, arrived last night for his six round semi-final with George Brescia of Buenos-Aires. Brescia is managed by Louis Soresi, manager of Primo Carnera. It was learned that Clarence [Red] Burman, Baltimore, was placed on the card through Jack Dempsey. Burman will clash with Steve Roberts at four rounds.

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune.]

RALPH BIRKOFER, Pirate pitcher whose eleventh inning triple ended the Cubs' eleven game winning streak Wednesday, previously this year had made only four hits, all singles. . . . Steamboat Johnson, Southern league umpire, has seventeen pop bottle scars in his scalp. . . . Coach Ben Ogden of Temple university predicts that Eulace Peacock will jump over 27 feet when he learns to keep his feet ahead of his body. . . . He also believes Peacock has yet to reach his best form as a sprinter. . . . If Louis loses to Levinsky next Wednesday night he can blame it on the absence of his mother, Mrs. Lily Brooks. . . . She does not plan to attend the Chicago bout, although she has seen all her son's fights in Detroit and went to New York for the Carnera match. . . . Lefty Grove's comeback is due entirely to the development of a curve ball, Mickey Cochrane says. . . .

When Tuck Stainback, the dime novel scholar, heard the rat-a-tat-tat of a riveter on the resumed construction work at the University of Pittsburgh the other day, across from the Cub hotel, his eyes grew as big as fried eggs and he shouted: "Hist, fellow, the G-men are coming." . . . Bohn Hilliard, brilliant ball carrier from the University of Texas, will leave today by motor for the All-Star game in Chicago. . . . The squad will report at Northwestern university a week from Sunday. . . . Bill Lee, Alabama tackle, is driving up from Memphis. . . . Charley Hall, old Boston Red Sox pitcher, is now living in Ventura, Cal. . . . Purdue's football team has been the favorite in every game it has played the last five years. . . . Sir Francis Drake was an ardent bowler and at the time he was notified of the approach of the dreaded Spanish armada insisted on finishing his game before setting forth. . . .

The Sestrieres golf course in the Italian Alps, opened recently, is said to be the highest in the world. . . . It is 6,600 feet above sea level. . . . Pete Sarmiento, former Filipino featherweight boxer, who did much of his fighting in and near Chicago, has opened a gymnasium in Los Angeles. . . . Clyde Shoun, Birmingham southpaw purchased by the Cubs in a deal involving Clay Bryant, is known as Duster. . . . E. J. Baker's Greyhound is the "winter" book favorite in the $40,000 Hambletonian stake in the fall. . . . Veloz and Yolanda will set aside their dancing slippers long enough Wednesday night to see the Louis-Levinsky bout. . . .

Gus Van owes his stage career to baseball. . . . While serving as a motorman on a Brooklyn trolley he was catcher for the old Canarsie, New York, depot team. . . . On the drive through Brownsville, Williamsburg, the Rockaways, and Canarsie he sang most of the way and he soon found out that his voice on the stage was worth more than a catcher's mitt on the diamond. . . . The thing that aroused Wally Stephenson in Pittsburgh the other day wasn't so much the claim that Billy Jurges' grandpappy merely chased Stevie's grandpappy with a cornstalk. . . . It was the insistence of the Jurges backers that Grandpappy Stephenson had a loaded musket at the time of the alleged chase. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Cardinals, was leading the National league in batting with a .397 average. . . . Walter Johnson, Washington star pitcher, celebrated his 18th year in the big leagues. . . . Inclement weather prevented Gertrude Ederle's attempt to swim the English channel. . . . The United States Lawn Tennis association found William T. Tilden guilty of violating the player-writer rule, but allowed him to retain his amateur status.

MOHAWK WATER SYSTEM WILL BE DEDICATEDTODAY

The Mohawk Country club tomorrow will dedicate its fairway watering system with an all day golf program which will be headed by a Derby in which 32 golfers will be entered. These qualified for a place at post time tomorrow in events held at the club last Saturday and Sunday on an 18 hole low net basis.

In addition to this latter tourney to celebrate the completion of the watering system over the club's 27 holes, a twilight demonstration by Jock Hutchison of Glen View and Bob MacDonald of MacDonald's driving range will be presented.

Mohawk will hold its seventh annual Wah-Hoo day on Aug. 21, Lew Waldron and Jack Born announce, and a record field is indicated by advance entries.

Jackie Reed to Battle Alonzo Murphy Tonight

Jackie Reed and Alonzo Murphy, two of the most promising welterweight boxers in Chicago, tonight will meet in the windup of George De Bray's amateur show at Northwest stadium, 4848 Irving Park boulevard. They will fight five rounds. Another encounter at this distance will bring together Russ Nyberg, Allerton gymnasium, and Peter Andrews, novice Golden Gloves titleholder. Price Casey will battle Henry Newman, and John Pecora is matched with Sherman Edwards in two of five other encounters.

all for McMillin. The returns at Louisville included those from Danville, Ky., where McMillin played football four years at Centre college; New Albany, Ind., where Reed Kelso, Indiana's captain-elect lives; Jeffersonville, Paoli, Bloomfield, Salem, and Bedford.

Wisconsin Votes for Spears.

The Wisconsin State Journal at Madison forwarded 16,001 yesterday for Dr. Spears. Thomas of Alabama was second choice on about half of the ballots, the rest being divided among Frank Murray of Marquette, Don Peden of Ohio university, Stub Allison of California, and Dick Hanley, formerly of Northwestern. Hanley, by the way, received 23,000 last night from Chicago friends. Thousands also came in for Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern new football leader.

Layden of Notre Dame was backed in South Bend yesterday to the extent of 6,223 first place votes. Hanley with 24, Thomas with 2, and Bachman with one were the only other first place choices in the News-Times returns for the last 24 hours. Jack Chevigny of Texas was favorite for second place in the South Bend returns. Layden collected 2,490 votes in Davenport yesterday and thousands in Chicago.

Jacksonville, Fla., added 1,003 to Bachman's total yesterday and Streator, Ill., sent in 2,188 for Madigan. Ottawa, Ill., came through with 4,067 for Madigan. Fritz Crisler of Princeton is second choice in Ottawa. Bernie Bierman of Minnesota has been getting robust support from Minneapolis and St. Paul and thousands came in yesterday from Columbus for Francis Schmidt.

St. Louis remains loyal to state coaches. Jimmy Conzelman of Washington university is the top-heavy favorite. Jack Corcoran of St. Louis is second among the first place choices and Don Faurot, Missouri's new leader, is third.

Leo Johnson of Millikin received 6,299 yesterday in Decatur and he also is leading in Bloomington.

Golf Stars Open Four Ball Match Play Team Event

Toledo, O., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Sixteen of America's premier golf professionals started play today in a four ball round robin match play team event which will continue through Sunday and 126 holes. Prize money of $4,600 will be distributed.

At the end of today's matches the standing was:

Ky Laffoon and Sam Parks, plus 2.
Al Espinosa and Billy Burke, plus 2.
Harry Cooper and Horton Smith, 0.
Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta, 0.
Tommy Armour and Bobby Cruickshank, 0.
Leo Diegel and Jimmy Thompson, 0.
Vic Ghezzi and Denny Shute, minus 2.
Walter Hagen and Al Watrous, minus 2.

Points are awarded at the finish of 18 holes, the winners being given credit for as many holes as they are up on the foe, while the losers get a minus the same amount.

The best ball scores of the teams as matched today were:

Par—Out	443	444	435—35
In	445	344	444—36—71
Cooper-Smith—Out	333	444	334—31

Tomorrow morning the schedule will place Armour and Cruickshank against Cooper and Smith, Diegel and Thompson against Picard and Revolta, Ghezzi and Shute against Hagen and Watrous, and Espinosa and Burke against Laffoon and Parks. They will be switched around again for the afternoon play.

The players made 38 birdies today, only four of the holes on the course withstanding attempts to break par. The holes which defied the best the pros had to offer were the 210 yard par 3 eighth and the 15th, 16th, and 17th, all long par 4s.

BASEBALL LEAGUE MEETS.

The Cook County Baseball league will hold its weekly meeting at the Atlantic hotel, Clark and Van Buren streets, tonight.

Public Links Champion of 1934 Beaten

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Dave Mitchell, defending titleholder from Indianapolis, and Arthur Armstrong of Honolulu, 1934 runner-up were eliminated today in the quarter-finals of the national public links golf tournament. Joe Coria of St. Paul, Bill Russell, Indianapolis youngster; Frank Strafaci, Brooklyn High school student, and Robert Tomes of Long Beach, Cal., advanced to the semi-finals.

Of the four survivors, only Coria is known in record books of the tournament, having reached the 1934 semi-finals.

Coria Beats Rogers.

Coria, a 24 year old policeman, who patrols the Highland Park picnic grounds in St. Paul, defeated Lieut. Ken Rogers, army flyer from San Antonio, Tex., 2 and 1 in the morning and Wesley Casper of Louisville 5 and 3 in the afternoon. Over the 32 holes Joe had to travel, he was only three over par on one of the toughest municipal courses in the world.

Tomorrow Coria meets Russell and Strafaci meets Tomes over 36 holes, 18 morning and afternoon.

With Mitchell eliminated by Charles Amandoles, Staten Island, N. Y., machinist's helper, 2 up, Russell, Indianapolis city public links champion, gave the home folks a thrill by sticking in the battle. He defeated Earl Thomas, Richmond [Ind.] factory worker, 1 up, and then returned to defeat Mike Stefanchik, Gary steel worker, 5 and 3. Russell was eight over par for 33 holes.

Tomes Whips Armstrong.

Strafaci was only two over par for 31 holes on his jaunt, eliminating Bruce McCormick of Los Angeles, 2 up, and Amandoles, 5 and 4.

Tomes was the man who defeated Armstrong. He eliminated John Madara of Philadelphia, 4 and 2, and took Armstrong in stride, 5 and 3.

JONES SHOOTS 78 IN ADVERTISERS GOLF TOURNEY

Fifty members of the Chicago Confederated Advertising association held their annual golf outing at the Wilmette golf course yesterday. They use the chip system of determining winners. J. C. Jones was the low gross shooter with a 38—40—78, and Joe Kalowski was low net with 98—30—68.

The winners of the most chips in the various foursomes were:

Harvey Kobatz, Wilson Wadsworth, Fred B. Suite Sr., Charles Thompson, Robert Swartout, Stanley Sunderson, T. J. McCormick, Russell Van Dunten, David Preston, N. Marti, James Johnson.

HAGEN, SON MAY ENTER TOURNEY AT MIDLOTHIAN

Pater-Filius Event to Be Held Thursday.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Twenty-one years ago come Aug. 21, a 22 year old boy from Rochester, N. Y., by the name of Walter Hagen, won the national open golf championship of these United States at the Midlothian Country club, out Blue Island way.

On next Thursday, at this same Midlothian club, this same Walter Hagen, and another Walter Hagen, his son, are expected to compete in the 32d annual Midlothian Pater-Filius tournament, the best known father and son event in the game. David Johnson, past president of the club, who is in charge of arrangements for the day, has wired a special invitation to The Haig to take part in the show, with Walter Jr. as his partner. Hagen now is competing in the Inverness invitational match play tourney at Toledo.

No word of acceptance has been received from Hagen yet, but the presence of a number of other leading professionals, with either their fathers or sons, is assured. The pro-son feature of the event is new to the Pater-Filius this year, but is expected to prove one of the high points of the day on Thursday when the 36 hole play begins. First of the professionals to enter with their sons are Jack Daray of Mission Hills and Eddie Garre of La Grange.

Other combinations which may compete in the Pater-Filius are those of Jock Hutchison and his son of Glen View; Dave Foulis of Hinsdale and Jim Foulis of Ruth Lake; Syd and Harry Cooper of Glen Oak; Tommy Armour of Medinah and his son; Jock Patterson of the home club and his son, and a number of other leading stars.

The Pater-Filius carries with it an entry fee of $8 a team of father and son, which includes luncheon and the Pater-Filius dinner. The entry is payable in advance to Joseph G. Davis, secretary of the Chicago District Golf association, 14 East Jackson boulevard.

Possession of the team championship trophy of the Chicago District Golf association will be decided Sunday at the Medinah Country club, when the quartets representing Bob O' Link, 1934 champion; Edgewood Valley, and Glen Oak meet in a special 36 hole playoff of the tie resulting on July 23 during the regular event.

The Chicago amateur championship, oldest golf tournament in Chicago, will open next Monday morning on the Jackson park links and continue through Aug. 10. The tournament is entirely at match play, with ten trophies offered to the winners and runners-up in the five flights.

A separate locker building for juniors is the golfing innovation announced by the North Shore Golf club through its president, Joel M. Bowlby. Construction already has started and completion is set for Aug. 10.

HIGH HAT THE HUMIDITY! CLEAR HEADS COOL OFF WITH CALVERT!

Captain R. Stuart Murray, M. E. C., F.R.G.S., F.R.S.G.S., F.A.E.S., takes Calvert on expedition into British Guiana and scene of Conan Doyle's 'Lost World,' to cheat heat! . . .

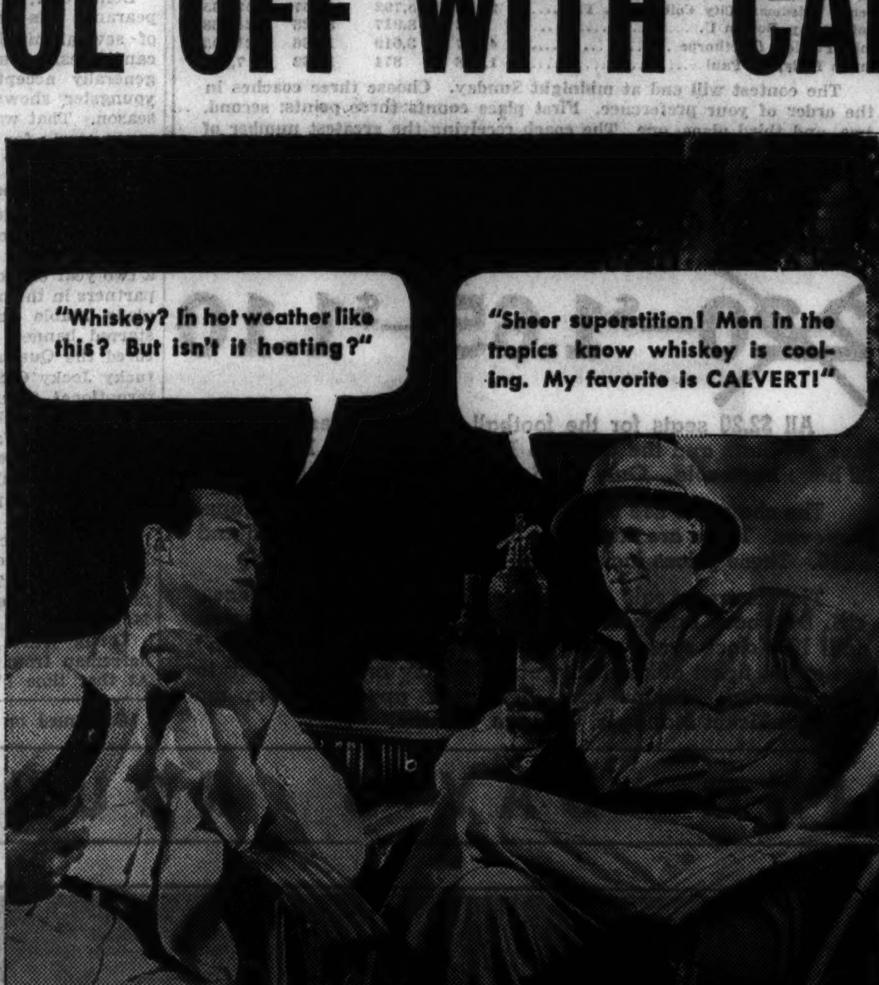
Amazing scientific evidence, plussed by tropical experience, proves Calvert cools!

HIGH hat the humidity! How? As Captain R. Stuart Murray, famous explorer, will in tropic British Guiana! With refrigerating CALVERT!

Tropical experience says, "CALVERT cools!" Below the Equator, for cooling off, whiskey is a 3-to-1 favorite over all other types of distilled spirits. Ecuador prefers it 7-to-1! Venezuela, 9-to-1! Colombia, 23-to-1!

And science upholds the experience of tropical countries! Proves that CALVERT does cool. Says, "causes more heat to be given off than its own combustion produces, so that . . . the temperature of the body is lowered."

So call for CALVERT! Because CALVERT is better whiskey . . . the best of the better blends . . . because, enjoyed in gentlemanly moderation, CALVERT leaves you cool tonight, collected tomorrow! Clear thinkers are CALVERT drinkers! Use good judgment . . . buy better whiskey . . . call for CALVERT!



"Whiskey? In hot weather like this? But isn't it heating?"
"Sheer superstition! Men in the tropics know whiskey is cooling. My favorite is CALVERT!"

Captain Murray tells a sweltering friend the secret of keeping cool in tropical countries. Says Captain Murray: "Whiskey heating? Sheer superstition! Throughout thirteen years in the hot, steaming tropics I've noticed that the men who know how to live well always call for whiskey—because it is by far the most cooling, restful drink. I'm taking an adequate supply of my favorite—CALVERT—with me to tide me over during my four months' isolation in the Guiana jungles this year."

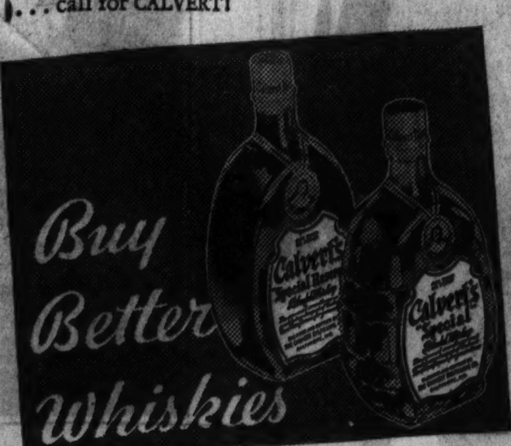
R. Stuart Murray
Leader 1935 British Guiana Expedition.

TRY CALVERT'S "POLAR BEAR FIX"

Simple to Make! . . .
Easy to Take!

Half fill a highball glass with shaved ice. Next, pour in 1 wineglass of CALVERT. Then add 1 large teaspoonful of powdered sugar dissolved in a little water. Now, pour in the juice of ½ lemon. Stir and decorate with fruit in season.

FREE! Write for CALVERT'S "Guide to Cooling Hot-Weather Drinks" . . . including 22 tall, frosty recipes made with 5 or less ingredients. It's yours for the asking.



CALVERT'S SPECIAL RESERVE and CALVERT'S SPECIAL Blended Whiskies are the best of the better blends . . . regardless of price the finest obtainable. Buy better whiskey. Call for CALVERT!

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Cincinnati's Reds slipped back to sixth place after a day in fifth position as the St. Louis Cardinals beat them 7 to 5 while the Brooklyn Dodgers were disposing of the Boston Braves. Dizzy Dean started for St. Louis but did not finish the game.

A four run drive off young Emmett Nelson in the first inning, aided by triples by Medwick and Collins and Gelbert's double, gave the Cards victory. Double plays in the eighth and ninth, the first with the bases full and only one out, killed Cincinnati chances.

The game was played in 95 degree heat that forced Umpire Dolly Stark to the clubhouse, leaving Rigler and Stewart to carry on.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Tom Zachary was more effective in the pinches than Ben Cantwell today and the Brooklyn Dodgers won the final game of the series with the Boston Braves, 4 to 2.

Each team made eleven hits, but Zachary kept the Braves' safeties scattered except in the third and sixth, when they scored their runs. The Dodgers put over two runs in the fourth and then came from behind to score the deciding run in the eighth when Leslie singled to score Bordagaray.

GLIDER CAPTURES SHERIDAN SHORE YACHT CLUB RACE

Glider, Albert Y. Bingham's and John Clay's fast Star boat, won the Sheridan Shore Yacht club's variety race week contest yesterday from 29 other boats off Wilmette. The Porter-Harvey syndicate's Jane II. was second.

After a postponed start due to a squall, the fleet sailed around the first part of the course in light winds. A calm set in, but on the last three mile leg a strong breeze from the northeast suddenly developed to push the yachts home.

Glider's victory makes it the fifth boat to win in the S. S. Y. C. series of five races. Two more events, today and tomorrow, will be sailed to determine the series champion. The Waage-Knight syndicate Star, Skipit, still leads in points for the series.

GREEK BASEBALL TEAMS WILL MEET FOR TITLE AUG. 18

The baseball championship of the Order of Ahepa, American Hellenic Progressive association, will be decided at Wrigley field, Sunday, Aug. 18, when picked teams from among the 300 lodges of the order will battle for the title. The game will mark the feature of a general athletic program for Greek-American young men. The championship game will be under the auspices of the Hellenic Youth organization, an offshoot of the Order of Ahepa.

In addition to the title game, patrol, zouave and drill squads from Ahepa lodges will perform before and after the contest. Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, Demitros Sicilianos, Greek minister to America, and other prominent men are expected to be in attendance.

Vince Dundee Improves After Operation on Jaw

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The condition of Vince Dundee, Baltimore, former middleweight champion, was reported as good, following an operation on his jaw which was broken in a bout several days ago. Dr. H. T. Buckner, who performed the operation, said the boxer would not leave the hospital until next week.

Tigers Score 6 to 3 Victory Over Browns

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The league leading Detroit Tigers battered three St. Louis pitchers for a 6 to 3 victory today, choking off a Brown rally in the ninth to gain a half game over the idle New York Yankees.

Alvin Crowder held St. Louis to four scattered hits until the ninth, when the heat got him and he was pounded for four more hits and three runs. With one out and one on Elon Hogsett was called in to halt the rally.

Van Atta started and faced only three men, issuing a walk and two hits for the first Tiger run. Detroit climbed on Walkup next for 11 hits and five runs. Fay Thomas finished.

Cubs Name Lee to Pitch Today in Game with Reds

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 1.—The Cubs will open an unusual series in Cincinnati tomorrow, unusual in that they will play a scheduled August and a scheduled September series in one set. The September trip will be eliminated by playing a double-header Sunday and a single game Monday, a scheduled day off on the Cub calendar.

Bill Lee will go after his eleventh victory in tomorrow's opener.

Reb Stephenson of the Confederacy rejoined the club this morning and reluctantly used Union money to pay for his breakfast. The young man seemed happy to be back, however, and may permanently reinstate himself if he is a nice boy while Gabby Hartnett's ankle is on the mend.

If the Cubs hadn't been nosed out in the second game of yesterday's double-header Warneke today would have been trying for the 13th victory of the season and the Cubs would have been trying for the 13th victory in their late lamented winning streak. One shudders to think what would have happened to Lon if he'd had to carry two thirteen hazards instead of just one.

deck of the right field stand, his No. 16 homer of the year and his second of the series.

Cubs Object to Ruling.

As Swift, Jensen, P. Waner, and Vaughan scored on the smash they had to fight their way through the entire Cub cast, which had swarmed around Umpire John [Target] Reardon protesting that the homer was foul. Reardon admitted the ball had hit the seats foul, but ruled that it had passed the end of the foul line in fair territory. The debate lasted five minutes and you guess who won the argument. When the game was resumed Young lined to Klein.

Kowalik batted for Warneke in the third inning and subsequently took over the pitching.

The Cubs made a run in the fourth. Herman beat out an infield single and reached third on Cavarretta's infield single and a high throw by Young. Herman scored on O'Dea's long fly to L. Warner. Demaree popped to Suhr and Klein flied to P. Waner.

Cubs Lose Opportunity.

Hack opened the fifth with a single to left and took second when the ball got through Jensen. Jurges doubled to right center and Hack, fearing a Waner catch, held up at second and able to progress only to third when the ball hit the turf. Kowalik, who has made one hit this year, popped to Suhr near the pitchers' box. Galan took his 15th straight futile time at bat with a short fly to P. Waner. Vaughan threw out Herman.

The Cubs made a run in the eighth on singles by Galan, Cavarretta, and Demaree.

Hack opened the home ninth by reaching first on Vaughan's fumble. Then Jurges walked. Lindstrom, making his first appearance in the Cub lineup since he was injured here on July 7, batted for Kowalik and tripled off the right field wall, scoring Hack and Jurges. Hoyt replaced Swift and Galan grounded out to Suhr, Lindstrom scoring the fifth Cub run. Herman walked. Cavarretta fouled to Grace. O'Dea ended the game with a popup to Young.

runs in their half of the inning. Hopkins led off with a single to center. Sewell flied out and Fischer singled past Berger. Radcliff kept things going by singling to right, Hopkins counting. Piet punched a single through second to score Fischer. A fly ball finished Conlan and a more or less intentional pass to Bonura filled the bases. Washington rolled to Trosky and the rally was finished.

Before Fischer received the eviction order in the fourth the Indians had dented him with four hits, two runs resulting. Berger opened with a double to left and scored on Phillips' two bagger to the opposite side of the field. Phillips went to third on Lee's bunt and scored on Vosmik's single to left. Dykes waited to see whether Fischer could get the next two batters, who are southpaws, but when Averill singled Salveson was called in. He got Campbell on a force play and covered first himself to take the throw from Piet who went back of first to grab Trosky's grounder.

Salveson did his part at bat to fetch a run across for the Sox in the home fourth. The bespectacled Californian, who is a pretty fair hitter in his own right, doubled to the left field scoreboard to score Sewell who had singled to left with two out. The Indians made amends for this in the fifth when Hale slammed one of Salveson's tosses for a homer into the left field seats, making the score 6 to 3. Salveson had another chance to do damage in the sixth, but lined to Campbell after Sewell had doubled with two out.

Knickerbocker Nipped at Plate.

Salveson would have been scored on again in the seventh if it hadn't been for the support of a couple of strong armed mates. Knickerbocker singled to left with one out and endeavored to sprint around to the plate when Hale hit the right field wall for two bases. Washington whipped the ball to Piet and Piet rifled it into the hands of Sewell to stop Knickerbocker just as he was sliding into the plate. Hale went to third on the play, but Berger couldn't assist him.

The Sox brewed a small portion of good cheer for themselves in the seventh, but the Indians corked it up with a double play. Radcliff was thrown out by Berger, Piet singled to right, and Conlan walked. This would have been an ideal spot for Mr. Bonura's 20th homer of the year, but it didn't show up. Instead Zeke rolled to Berger and the stifling double play was staged.

Berger Doubles with Bases Full.

The little affair that grew into Indian runs in the ninth began with Campbell's single to right. Trosky walked and Knickerbocker sacrificed. Hale was purposely passed, filling the bases. Berger doubled to left for his fourth hit, Campbell and Trosky scoring. Brenzel and Lee were thrown out on easy infield taps.

The Sox kicked up a harmless flurry in their half of the ninth. Pinch Hitters Shea and Hayes drew passes with one out, but Piet rolled into a force play and Conlan flied to Campbell.

Jones Choice of Sox Today for Browns' Opener

Sam Jones, who hasn't started a game since July 20, when the Washington Senators knocked him out, will draw the pitching assignment today in the first of the four game series with the St. Louis Browns. Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Browns, probably will start Dick Coffman or Jack Knott.

Umpire Red Ormsby, who was overcome by the heat during last Sunday's double-header between the Sox and Browns at St. Louis, was back at work yesterday. His associate guessers gave him the third base station, where the labor is light.

Al Simmons, one of the Sox's three cripples, put on a uniform and did a bit of running before the game, but because of his groin injury didn't indulge in batting practice. Manager Dykes hopes to have him ready by Sunday, but Simmons isn't enthusiastic about the idea. Dykes, who has a charley horse, probably will be out four or five more days.

If Dykes can get by successfully today with Jones he will be in fine shape for the immediate future, which will be strenuous because of six games in four days. There's a double-header booked with the Browns here Sunday and a bargain bill with the Indians at Cleveland on Tuesday.

Girls Play Three Games in Softball League

A triple-header will be played tonight at Mills stadium by the Chicago Major Girls Softball league. Second place in the slow pitching division will be decided in the second game between the Dennis A. Horan Boosters and Our Girls, and second place in the fast pitching division will be settled in the battle between the Felz Motors and Fellmeth Decorators. The opener will match the Dennis A. Horan Boosters and Narragan-NorClaire Drug Coeds.

Move to Stop New Dispute Over Olympics

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Steps to combat revival of opposition to American participation in the 1936 Olympic games at Berlin, growing out of the latest anti-Jewish and anti-Catholic activities in Germany, were taken today by Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee.

Brundage took sharp issue with his successor in the national presidency of the Amateur Athletic union, Jeremiah T. Mahoney, a former New York Supreme court justice, who came out today with a reiteration of his opposition to this country's entry into the Olympics, if racial discrimination is proved, and strongly condemned the German government's existing policies.

Brundage Gives His Views.

"Regardless in what country the Olympic games are held, there will be some group, some religion or some race which can register a protest because of the action of the government of that country, past or present," said Brundage. "Pledges satisfactory to the international and American Olympic committees have been made by Germany, respecting the treatment of its own athletes as well as those of visiting countries.

"If it develops these promises have been broken, further consideration can be given to the subject by the American Olympic committee. So far we have had no reports whatsoever, official or otherwise, that Germany has failed to give Jewish athletes a fair opportunity to qualify for Olympic teams. It is my understanding, in fact, that in the case of Helene Mayer, champion woman fencer, German sports leaders have sought earnestly to have her return from the United States in time to represent Germany in the Olympics."

Leaders to Confer.

Brundage expects to confer with Mahoney, as well as other Olympic leaders here, before returning to Chicago.

ARKY VAUGHAN LEADS BIG 6 WITH AVERAGE OF .401

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Arky Vaughan, the Pirates' slugging shortstop, was above the .400 mark again today as the result of two hits, including a home run with the bases full, in four times at bat yesterday. He leads the Big Six with a batting average of .401. Joe Medwick, Vaughan's nearest rival in the National league, and Hank Greenberg also showed gains.

Medwick boosted his average three points to .376, while Greenberg took possession of second place in the American league trio with a gain of four points as the result of three hits in four times at bat.

DEPLER RETURNS TO ILLINOIS AS AN ASSISTANT COACH

Champaign, Ill., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Heeding the appeal of his old coach, Bob Zuppke, John C. Depler, captain of the University of Illinois football team in 1920 and one of the most famous centers in Illinois history, will take a temporary leave from his life insurance business in Chicago and return to Illinois as an assistant varsity coach for the season of 1935.

Depler played on the Illinois championships teams of 1918 and 1919 and led the 1920 squad, which lost the title to Ohio State.

FUCHS RESIGNS AS BRAVES' HEAD; STOCK TO ADAMS

Quinn Reported Ready for Business Managership.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Judge Emil Fuchs, the Boston east side boy who ran a shoestring into the presidency of the Braves, is out of baseball. The technical turning over of his stock to his associate, Charles F. Adams, today opens the way for other changes in the club, one of which vitally affects the Dodgers' front office—the reported return of Business Manager Bob Quinn to Boston.

Fuchs tendered his formal resignation to Adams early this afternoon after announcing he had received word that two last minute tentative offers for purchase of his holding had been withdrawn.

Players of the Braves and Dodgers themselves appeared unconcerned about the business muddle.

Quinn is said to be all set now, with the passing of Fuchs, to make a triumphant reëntry into Boston next year. Fuchs and Quinn are old business enemies who made faces at each other for years over the back fences of Braves field and Fenway park.

The new executive lineup of the Braves has Manager Bill McKechnie sitting in the presidential chair—providing Bill doesn't receive too flattering an offer from the Cleveland Indians—and Rabbit Maranville made field boss. The Rabbit's playing days are numbered.

ALABAMA PITTS MAY BE SENT TO HARRISBURG NINE

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Edwin C. [Alabama] Pitts, who entered minor league baseball from Sing Sing's gates in the midst of a furor heard round the baseball world, may find himself playing the outfield for Harrisburg in the New York-Pennsylvania league next season.

Reports have been circulated that the husky 24 year old Alabaman, whose .217 batting average for the Albany Senators of the International league has been nothing to write home about, will be farmed out for further seasoning at the end of the year.

DELIBERATOR ON EDGE FOR $60,000 RACE TOMORROW

Old Timers Praise Ward's Work with Colt.

known on every major track in the country and when the son was graduated from high school in Miami his first desire was to become a trainer in his own right.

Following a year and a half of intensive instruction he was placed in full charge of the Everglade stable, which became the sole property of Mr. Burton at that time. Young Ward still was in his teens when he took out his first training license and became the youngest trainer in America.

Before the start of the present season young Ward raced with success Wise Daughter, Dartle, Wise Advocate, Dodgson and Silver Lake, but last winter at Hialeah Park he brought out two promising juveniles in Deliberator and Wise Duke.

Deliberator won his first four starts, and although losing two narrow decisions to Wise Duke in the Hialeah juvenile championship race and Aberdeen stakes, is still regarded as the better of the two.

Gives Dad Share of Credit.

Yet young Ward doesn't want all the credit for the development of the two young stars. "Remember dad lives in Florida and he was around to give me some pointers when they started to train," he said.

Coldstream, Deliberator, the Milky-way farm entry of The Fighter, Sangreal, and Forever Yours continued to be about equal choices in the Futurity field yesterday.

Last night it appeared that the Futurity starting field may number 17 and will be as follows:

Horse.	Wt.	Jocky.	Owner.
Grand Slam	122	G. Woolf	Bomar stable
Delphinium	122	J. Gilbert	B'kmeade stable
Deliberator	119	L.Balasgi	Everglade stable

DULCIMER PAYS $225

J. Van Winkle, Louisville, no relation to Old Rip, uncovered a real sleeper when his 2 year old Dulcimer, a daughter of Morvich, won the first race at Arlington Park yesterday. Dulcimer won by six lengths in a common canter and paid off at $225.80 for a two dollar ticket.

Van Winkle, who is a broker in Louisville, and his trainer, young Keene Daingerfield, were a little sad after the race. Neither had as much as ten cents wagered on the long shot.

Trainer Robert McGarvey gave The Fighter and Sangreal, the two principal futurity candidates of the Milky Way farms, their final workouts yesterday morning. They were sent six furlongs, the distance of tomorrow's race, and were timed in 1:13 4-5 after doing the opening quarter in :22 1-5, half mile in :46 1-5, and five furlongs in 1:00 2-5. The track was slow.

McGarvey was breathing easier last night because he had definite word from Alfred Robertson that the latter would be here to handle The Fighter in the futurity. Until Raymond Workman reported for duty at the C. V. Whitney stable at Saratoga yesterday, it was very doubtful that Robertson would be available to guide the fast son of Bull Dog, which has won four of his five starts, the last three consecutively. Red Pollard arrived yesterday from New England and may be astride Sangreal.

N. Y. CUBANS AND AMERICAN GIANTS PLAY TOMORROW

Two of the greatest baseball players ever to develop in Cuba will be in the lineup of the New York Cubans when they open a five game Negro National league series against the Chicago American Giants tomorrow afternoon at Cole's park.

Martin Dihigo, the playing manager, is acknowledged the finest player ever to come from Cuba, while Oms, an outfielder, is considered the hardest hitter in the Negro league. Dihigo has the strongest throwing arm in the league, bats either way, takes his regular turn on the mound, and at other time plays either third base or right field.

COAST PUTS 3 IN SEMI-FINALS OF JUNIOR TENNIS

Delafield, Wis., Aug. 1. — Three Pacific coast players and one Wisconsin youth today survived the quarter-final round of play in the western junior and boys' tennis tournament. The three boys from the west are Robert Riggs, Robert Harmon, and Joseph Hunt. Don Leavens, Milwaukee, is the other semi-finalist.

Leavens defeated George Pryor, Oklahoma City, 6-2, 6-3; Riggs triumphed over Robert Kamrath, Austin, Tex., 6-0, 6-0; Harmon won from C. Murphy, Chicago, 6-0, 6-2, and Hunt eliminated D. Cannon, Brownsville, Tenn., 9-7, 6-3.

MIDGET AUTOS TO RACE TONIGHT AT WOLF LAKE

A record entry list is expected for the Wolf Lake midget races in Hammond tonight. There will be nearly 100 laps of racing on the eight event card.

Among the pilots expected to compete are Ray Campbell, Red Milton, Charlie Spencer, Glenn Meyers, Ronney Householder, Ted Tetterton, Jimmy Rogers, Jimmy Snyder, and Johnny Baldwin.

The track is located on U. S. route 41 between Chicago and Hammond, Ind.

FIREMEN TO PLAY MILLS.

The Chicago Firemen will play the Mills Sunday in a double-header at Mills stadium.

Time, :24, :48 3-5, 1:01 3-5, 1:08 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Dulcimer, $225.80 straight, $34.60 place, $21.80 show; Stepinanna, $4.60 place, $3.20 show; Blue Alice, $9.60 show. Winner trained by K. Daingerfield Jr. Went to post at 2:15½; off at once. Start good from Bahr gate. Won easily; place driving.

DULCIMER, forced to race very wide in early stages, saved ground when coming away fast on stretch turn and, continuing well, was in wide command thereafter. STEPINANNA was under strong hand riding after three-eighths and held on well. BLUE ALICE tired badly, but was best of others. PARSLEY, taken back at the start, was never a factor and closed on own courage.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :24, :48 3-5, 1:02 3-5, 1:09 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Lady Confucius, $8.20 straight, $4.40 place, $2.80 show; Threadneedle, $4.00 place, $3.00 show; Roxana S, $3.40 show. Winner trained by H. H. Battle. Went to post at 2:44. At post 2½ minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won easily; place driving.

LADY CONFUCIUS, a strong factor from the start and raced wide for the firmer going the final three-eighths, disposed of THREADNEEDLE fast after reaching last eighth and won with something left. Latter improved her position with a rush on inside, was under pressure the final quarter and weakened after five-eighths. ROXANA S, a factor throughout, tired after reaching final eighth, where she bore over badly.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. [Daily double, 2d and 3d races, paid $117.40.]

Time, :24, :47 4-5, 1:14 2-5. Weather threatening. Two dollar mutuels paid: Flight of Gold, $19.00 straight, $11.80 place, $6.20 show; No Saint, $12.00 place, $5.80 show; Vacillate, $3.00 show. Winner trained by O. J. Averitt. Went to post at 3:11½. At post 3 minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won easily; place driving.

FLIGHT OF GOLD, much the best and away fast, was under strong restraint until reaching stretch, where he came gradually under a strong hand ride. NO SAINT, forced to outside for room after reaching the turn, closed with good speed in a fine effort. VACILLATE improved her position fast after reaching the turn and held on with good courage under a strong hand ride, but failed to hold NO SAINT.

FOURTH RACE—Seven furlongs, out of chute. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :23 3-5, :47 3-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:26 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Whipper Cracker, $31.60 straight, $10.60 place, $6.00 show; Penncote, $4.40 place, $3.00 show; Broadmeadow, $3.40 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 3:41. At post ½ minute. Start good from permanent stalls. Won driving; place same.

WHIPPER CRACKER, suited by the going, began to better his position fast after going to outside on stretch turn, but upon getting up in final eighth, could not draw away. PENNCOTE forced the pace under strong restraint and held on stubbornly when under pressure the last three-sixteenths. BROADMEADOWS, in the worst part of track throughout, had good speed, but tired in final eighth.

FIFTH RACE—Hertz course. One mile, out of chute. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :23 2-5, :47, 1:12 2-5, 1:40. Two dollar mutuels paid: Bebest, $9.00 straight, $5.00 place, $3.40 show; Sis Agnes, $5.80 place, $3.40 show; Lily May, $3.40 show. Winner trained by E. McCown. Went to post at 4:08; off at once. Start good from permanent stalls. Won driving; place same.

BEBEST, reserved off the pace and responding well when called upon, came around the leaders gradually and withstood SIS AGNES' bid. Latter, raced wide and under strong restraint for five-eighths, was slow to respond, but finished fastest and was wearing down the winner. LILY MAY, on inside throughout, was under strong urging after reaching final half mile and gave way slowly after seven-eighths.

SIXTH RACE—Hertz course. One mile. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $100; third, $75; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by W. Crees. Went to post at 4:33; off at once. Start good for all but Bugaboo. Won driving; place same.

FAIR TIME, under almost choking restraint for half a mile, raced to the lead with a rush on inside and tired after seven-eighths, but held BUGABOO safe. The latter, away poorly and raced wide throughout, was steadied along to stretch after being rushed to a contending position in first quarter and stood a drive gamely. ROYAL ROVER, well rated, held on courageously to final eighth before faltering.

THEOREM, on inside throughout, took a short lead easily after reaching second turn and tired after increasing the advantage soon after entering stretch, but lasted for a lucky win. FOOLHARDY, a strong factor throughout, held on gamely in an improved effort. MISS GLACE, probably much the best, but poorly ridden, lost ground throughout and, despite little assistance from her rider, just failed to get up.

TRANSPOSE took command easily, was under steady restraint for a mile and, continuing well under only light pressure thereafter, withstood OLD LADY'S challenge. The latter bettered her position gradually and, withstanding a hard drive gamely, was wearing down the winner. PRINCE TOKALON, badly outrun for three-quarters and brought to outside in stretch, closed fastest of all.

Science Finds Blue Herons Eat Few Fry

BY BOB BECKER.

The big blue heron, a bird seen quite frequently around middle western lakes and along streams in the Great Lakes states, doesn't destroy as many small trout as many fishermen believe it does, according to the latest evidence on the feeding habits of this water bird.

The stomachs of 150 blue herons recently were examined by scientists in the department of agriculture to see if they could figure the food habits of the birds. When the study was finished very little evidence that the blue heron eats a large number of game or commercial fish had been assembled.

Fish Destroy Trout Fry.

Studies of trout streams show that trout fry placed in the creeks and rivers suffer their greatest losses from sculpins, suckers, sticklebacks [small, handsome species that live in streams] and other fish. Other enemies of fish are water snakes and salamanders.

Nature tries to balance things by bringing birds to the streams that prey on these fish enemies. In fact, the fair-minded student of this intricate problem usually will state that fish eating birds more than make up for the harm they do by consuming the enemies of brook trout, rainbows, and other fish.

Not so Good Near Hatchery.

If you watch a blue heron or a black crowned night heron you will notice that it spends much of its time trying to get the type of food that is easiest to find. On a trout stream the blue heron will have much better luck in a marshy, grassy area along the stream where it can "spear" frogs than in trying to get a trout in a fairly good depth of water. There are many more frogs, big water insects, and even small snakes available than brook trout when the heron begins to forage for food.

When the stomachs of the 150 herons were examined it was found that a large portion of the food eaten consisted of so-called coarse fish and crawfish. There were few trout in the stomachs, although the birds were taken in trout waters. However, there is no denying the fact that a blue heron is destructive around a hatchery.

Naturally, when the bird finds many small fish easy to get it will take them. But this problem can be solved easily and it is not a general one along the fishing stream, according to the evidence.

U. S. TRACK STARS WIN 3 EVENTS IN NORWAY MEET

OSLO, Norway, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Touring athletes from the United States showed their superiority over Norwegian track and field stars by winning three of four events in today's international meet before eight thousand.

The Americans captured the 110 meter hurdles, the 200 meter dash, and the pole vault, losing only in the 800 meter run in which Johanessen Eckholdt beat Gene Venzke of the New York A. C. to establish a new Norwegian record of 1:53.6. Venzke, in second place, was clocked in 1:54.3.

Keith Brown, Yale, won the pole vault, clearing the bar at 13 feet 9 inches; Foy Draper, University of Southern California, accounted for the 200 meter event, leading two Norwegian sprinters to the tape in :21.4, while Al Moreau, Marksville, La., stepped the 110 meter high hurdles in :14.5 to defeat Albrechtsen and Seeberg of Norway.

The Louisianian has yet to meet defeat in Europe. Another meet will be held tomorrow.

GOOD NEWS FOR DUCK HUNTERS; 30 DAY SEASON

Government Plans Rigid Supervision, However.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—(AP)—A thirty day open season on ducks was promised hunters today, but under the most rigid regulations ever imposed by the government in an effort to reduce the annual kill.

The shooting season, applying to geese, brant, jacksnipe, and coot, as well as to ducks, will open in northern states Oct. 21 and will close Nov. 19. In southern states the season will run from Nov. 20 to Dec. 19.

Announcing the regulations with President Roosevelt's approval, J. N. Darling, director of the biological survey, said the restrictions were the only alternative to a closed season because "we've killed more ducks than we've hatched every year for the last thirty-five years."

Expect Half Will Die.

Darling estimated 24,000,000 ducks will fly south this fall and 12,000,000 will be killed by hunting or natural causes. He figured 9,000,000 were killed by hunters last year and the kill this year would be from 5,000,000 to 6,000,000.

Darling's program was assailed by John H. Baker, executive director of the National Association of Audubon Societies.

Baker said a closed season was vitally necessary. He declared migratory ducks now would be subject to withering gunfire for 110 consecutive days on their flight from Canada to Louisiana and added the responsibility for further reducing the ranks of the ducks would "lie at the feet of the federal authorities."

Remember These Rules.

Chief points of the new regulations:

Elimination of sink boxes, sneak boats and open water shooting.

Prohibition of shooting over baited water or land.

Prohibiting of live decoys.

Elimination of zoning by states and the substitution of two zones, northern and southern.

Restriction of shooting to the hours between 7 a. m. and 4 p. m.

Reduction of some bag limits.

Making illegal the possession of more than one day's bag.

The three shell limit placed on auto loading and repeating shotguns take effect this fall and regulations provide that hunters may use a shotgun only, not larger than No. 10 gauge.

TICKET ORDERS SWAMP CLERKS AT NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame, Ind., Aug. 1. — [Special.]—Ticket office employés worked overtime today as the Notre Dame football ticket sale opened. Although it was one of the hottest days of the summer, orders piled up in sufficient quantities to surpass any opening day sale for the last several years, according to J. Arthur Haley, business manager of athletics.

Army, to be played at New York Nov. 16, led the list of individual games, as usual. Ohio State, which Notre Dame meets for the first time at Columbus, Nov. 2, ranked second. Haley reported the season ticket sale for home games also to be the best in several years, with tickets for the Kansas, Pittsburgh, Northwestern, and Southern California games here being offered at bargain prices.

PACKERS WIN INJUNCTION ON PROCESSING TAX

Judge Barnes Doubts Constitutionality.

A temporary injunction restraining the collector of internal revenue from enforcing collection of processing taxes on hogs, wheat, and corn was issued late yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes. Petitions for the order had been brought by eighteen Chicago packing companies, the Quaker Oats company and Washburn-Crosby Company, Inc. Under the order the government is not only enjoined from collecting some $7,500,000 in taxes now owed by the companies which brought suit, but also from forcing collections on subsequently accruing taxes.

Judge Barnes declared that he believed the processing tax was a direct violation of the fifth amendment to the constitution in that it constituted "a deprivation of property without due process of law."

Position of Barnes.

"I do not believes," he said, "that it is a tax assessable under either the interstate commerce or taxation powers of congress."

The exact form of the restraining order was to be decided upon at a conference today between counsel for the suing companies and government attorneys. Judge Barnes said the packers would be ordered to post funds owed to the government with a depository to be designated later. He plainly indicated that he did not believe the processors should be allowed to retain the funds regardless of the ultimate outcome of the AAA legal test.

"I do not wish to enrich the processors by granting this injunction," he said. "I want the saving passed along to the consumer."

Not Government Purpose.

At another point in his brief oral decision Judge Barnes said that he did not believe the processing levy was applied for a "governmental purpose."

"It is not a government purpose," he commented, "to take money from the pocket of John Brown and put it into the pocket of John Smith, nor is it a government purpose when money is taken from the pockets of millions of John Browns and placed in the pockets of millions of John Smiths.

"I do not think," he added, "that this exaction upon processes is a tax, and therefore cannot come under the provision of section 3224 of the revised statutes which prohibits injunction because of the alleged unconstitutionality of a taxing statute."

May Have to Liquidate.

Robert N. Golding, counsel for Armour & Co., and Albert H. Veeder, representing Swift & Co., had voiced similar arguments in their pleas for the granting of the injunction. Charles Aaron, another attorney representing a group of small packing companies, claimed that his clients might have to liquidate if they were forced to pay the taxes. Dwight Green, former United States district attorney, said some of his clients would "have to close their doors" if they were not granted relief from the tax.

Issuance of the injunction was vigorously protested by United States Attorney Michael L. Igoe and two assistants, Carl R. Perkins and E. Riley Campbell.

Only twice since 1867 has the Supreme court sanctioned exceptions to the provision of the revenue act that prevents tax suits based on alleged unconstitutionality of the taxing statute, Igoe argued.

"Make Fun of Government."

"They have no right to be here," Igoe shouted, indicating the array of counsel for the packers. "They come in waving the flag and making fun of the government.

"I don't care if the law is unconstitutional. They are trying to get the court to give them large sums of money which they have no right to. They don't claim the money came out of their pockets. Either the producer or the consumer has the only just claim on the tax and no claims have been made on their behalf."

Assistant United States Attorney Perkins likened the position of the consumer to the "innocent bystander" in that he was paying the tax but making no claims for refunds. During his arguments Perkins asserted that process tax collections in this district have been greater than in any other section of the country.

Hits Small Packers.

Attorney Aaron charged earlier in the hearing that the tax had sapped the cash resources of the small packers, who would have to liquidate their business to meet the payments.

Judge Barnes said that a speedy review of the case by the higher courts should be pressed.

"If I am mistaken in my conclusions I do not want the government to lose money," he said. "I do not want the money tied up for a long period. Unless the case is given an early review I will vacate the order requiring the tax to be deposited."

Attorney Golding in making his plea said that the packers objected to being "experimented upon" by the government.

Golding ridiculed reasoning behind the AAA program during the course of his argument. He said the pending senate bill, which provides that refund suits may be filed against the government if it can be proved that the tax was not passed on offered no genuine relief. Conditions laid down by the bill are "impossible," he asserted.

"Under such legislation," he added, "they might as well say that a packer can get a refund if the president of the company can chin himself 250 times."

Earlier Golding had asserted that the tax is levied in accordance with an index of prices which is months old. "The secretary of agriculture acts today on a figure that is several months old," he said. "No human being can keep up with the theory of the tax."

Willys Hopes to Rescue Big Auto Company

BY HOWARD WOOD.

JOHN N. WILLYS.

The future livelihood of 3,000 Toledo workers and their families, plus several hundred dealers scattered throughout the country, rests largely in the hope of recovery of a 61 year old multimillionaire lying in a sickbed in his Fifth avenue home in New York.

Upon this man's recovery also hinges the future usefulness of one of the finest industrial plants in the country, covering 110 valuable acres in Toledo and comprising building with a floor space of 6,000,000 square feet, millions of dollars' worth of machinery, and nineteen miles of railway tracks.

If this great plant can be made to produce earnings for its owners it will employ not only its present workers but many thousands more, reducing the relief rolls and helping one of the country's important industrial centers to regain its lost prosperity. If it cannot be made to yield a profit its machinery must be sold for junk and its buildings and land sacrificed to the highest bidder.

Willys Plans Second Rescue.

John N. Willys, a small town automobile dealer, through his ingenuity and business acumen, saved this company from dissolution twenty-eight years ago, during a previous depression, saving the jobs of the workers and building a vast fortune for himself. Now, according to dispatches from Toledo, Willys plans to save it again if illness doesn't prevent.

Ever since it fell into receivership, in February, 1933, the Willys-Overland company has been making successive batches of automobiles, by permission of the federal court, to satisfy the demands of dealers, particularly in the southern states, who still experience a demand for the small cars produced by the company. On Tuesday Federal Judge Hahn issued an order permitting the company to make 10,000 more cars, the fifth such order since receivership began. This order will keep 3,000 workers employed until next February.

Try to Reorganize Company.

Meanwhile strenuous efforts are being made to reorganize the company's finances. A report from Toledo on Wednesday stated that John N. Willys, president, and co-receiver, had agreed to advance a half million of the $2,000,000 of new money necessary to reorganize. Attorneys for Willys yesterday refused to affirm or deny this report.

Willys suffered a heart attack on May 4 while attending the Kentucky Derby and was taken to New York in a private railway car, accompanied by his wife, secretary, two doctors, and two nurses. Physicians say his condition is serious.

His illness occurred just about the time a financial reorganization appeared imminent. One month earlier it was learned that bondholder and creditor groups had reached an agreement and were working with other interests to rejuvenate the company.

New Company Is Planned.

The plan called for the formation of a new concern with $10,000,000 capital. It was understood that creditors would accept 50 per cent of their claims in stock of the new company. Creditors' claims amount to $6,000,000. Under the plan they would receive about $3,000,000 stock in the new company. In addition there are outstanding $2,000,000 of bonds.

While desperate efforts are being made to save the big plant in Toledo, smaller branches are being liquidated. The Elmira, N. Y., and Toronto, Canada, plants have been sold.

John Willys returned to Willys-Overland in February, 1933, after giving up his ambassadorship to Poland. He had sold out his big holdings of common stock just before the 1929 stock market collapse, control passing to a Toledo and Chicago group headed by Marshall Field III. and Charles F. Glore.

Trust Buys, Then Sells Stock.

Some of this stock was placed in their investment trust, the old Chicago corporation, which became one of the biggest holders with 300,000 shares. This stock was later sold.

Willys, however, retained his preferred stock, on which dividends began to be omitted in 1931. After four successive failures to meet preferred dividends, Willys, as the largest holder of preferred, again found himself in control despite the fact that he had sold out his holdings of common at the peak of the bull market for $20,000,000.

Willys-Overland has paid no common dividends since 1930. It has not operated at a profit since 1928.

According to information from Toledo, under the reorganization plan now being worked out the common stock would be wiped out. There is no provision for setting up preferred stock in the new capital setup, present holders of preferred being given common stock in the new company in exchange for their shares.

Others May Furnish Capital.

In addition to the new money to be supplied by John N. Willys it is understood that some Toledo interests, including C. O. Miniger, may also put up some money.

Willys has been one of the most spectacular of American industrialists and one of the most successful. An Overland dealer in Elmira, N. Y., at the time of the 1907 panic, he rushed to Indianapolis, raised $350 to help meet the company's pay roll, reorganized the company with himself as head, and proceeded to make Willys-Overland a leading automobile producer during the next decade. In 1920 he hired Walter P. Chrysler, one time railroad mechanic, and paid him $40,000 per month to serve as vice president. On one occasion he hired Barnum & Bailey's circus for two days to entertain his employés.

Tax Recovery Suits Against AAA Near OK

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Congress apparently was determined tonight to expose the New Deal's farm processing taxes to recovery suits in the courts.

Senate and house conferees on the AAA amendments reached a tentative agreement—expected to become final before the week-end—to retain the senate's provisions permitting processors to sue for repayment of processing taxes provided they can show the levies were not passed back to the grower or onward to the consumer.

But while the house managers gave way to the senate on the tax question, the senators agreed to permit restoration of house language authorizing use of 30 per cent of customs receipts to help finance the export of surplus farm commodities.

Needs More Attorneys.

The set-back to administration requests for an absolute ban on tax suits coincided with a justice department campaign to make such recoveries difficult.

Atty. Gen. Cummings said at his press conference that more attorneys might be hired to help handle the mass of AAA litigation.

"The unusual volume and character of these cases has thrown a heavy burden on the tax division," Cummings said. "We may have to put on more men in the tax division if we can find men suitably trained."

Court attacks on processing taxes had an increase to 636 and the department was sending tax experts out to help local government attorneys combat the drive. A half dozen already were in the field on "key" cases, while others will leave next week.

Ninety Tax Experts Available.

Altogether, the department said, forty tax lawyers are available for the fight, while ninety tax experts are devoting their time to defense of the New Deal's farm program.

The congressional conference action today moved the delayed AAA bill much nearer final agreement.

BANK CLEARINGS OF 22 CITIES RISE 5.9 PCT. OVER 1934

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The total of bank clearings for the twenty-two leading cities for the week ended July 31, as reported by Dun and Bradstreet, was $4,779,240,000 against $4,513,069,000 a year ago, an increase of 5.9 per cent.

In the preceding week this year, the increase was 24.2 per cent. At New York City, clearings were $3,136,446,000, an increase of 4.4 per cent over the amount reported a year ago, while the aggregate for centers outside of New York of $1,642,694,000 was 8.8 per cent higher.

Clearings for the week this year covered the closing days of the month, whereas for the corresponding week last year, the heavier settlements incident to the opening day of August were included.

Chicago clearings were $244,400,000, against $213,900,000 in the corresponding period last year.

Lake Geneva Train Time Cut 1 Hour 50 Minutes

Running time of the midday train between Williams Bay-Lake Geneva and Chicago has just been reduced one hour and 50 minutes by the North Western railway. The road announced yesterday that the train will leave Williams Bay at 1:20 p. m. daily except Sunday instead of 11:30 a. m. It will arrive in Chicago at 4:15 p. m. as heretofore.

U. S. CONFIRMS ORDER RELIEVING INSULLS OF $70,000 TAXES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The United States board of tax appeals today confirmed and strengthened a previous decision in which it relieved Samuel Insull; his wife, Margaret, and his son, Samuel Jr., of approximately $70,000 in federal income tax claims.

The board held that the profit which the three Insulls made in 1930 on the sale of stock subscription rights in the Insull Utility Investments, Inc., was a profit on investments and not ordinary income, thus transferring it from a higher to a lower tax bracket. The decision, originally issued on April 30 and clarified today, upholds the argument presented by the Insulls.

GOLDSBOROUGH MAKES APOLOGY FOR SLUR ON SENATE BANK GROUP

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—An apology for his recent reflections upon members of the senate banking subcommittee which wrote the omnibus banking bill was made on the house floor today by Representative Goldsborough, thus ending a deadlock in the conference on the bill. Four out of six of the senate confrères had refused to sit in a conference with Goldsborough unless he retracted his statements that "influences dominated" the subcommittee, it was learned.

This ultimatum was laid down when the confrères arranged to meet for the first time yesterday but did not actually come together.

Asking the privilege of two minutes time, Goldsborough said to the house:

"I understand that certain members of the other body feel that some of my remarks reflected upon them. Of course, I was discussing issues and not personalities. In view of the understanding which certain members of the other side have, I desire to say that I intended no reflection on the high patriotism, absolute integrity and high purpose of any member of the United States senate. On the actual issues involved in the statement I made Monday I absolutely adhere."

Mr. Goldsborough made his charges about "influences" in connection with the provision whereby the banking subcommittee provided that the open market committee should include not only the federal reserve board but five representatives of reserve banks.

Immediately after the apology Senator Glass called another conference for Monday afternoon.

GUILDER DROPS AS DUTCH DELAY BUDGET REFORM

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The Dutch guilder resumed its decline in the foreign exchange market today after having given a good account of itself in the Wednesday session.

Apparently the announcement from Amsterdam by Premier Colijn that any attempts to change the policy of the government and rearrange the budget would be put off until September was seized upon as a point for further attacks on the guilder. The currency slipped as low as 67.67, after going to 68.02, and then rebounded to close at 67.75, showing a loss of 27 points for the day. Other gold bloc currencies acted in sympathy with the guilder and registered small losses.

The first of the $27,000,000 in gold engaged in Amsterdam for American account last week was received here today and totaled $3,029,900.

French francs dipped ¼ point today to close at 6.62⅝ cents, raising the value of the dollar against francs to $1.0015, compared with $1.0011 yesterday. Based upon the old parity of the franc, the dollar was worth 59.15 cents, against 59.13 cents yesterday.

The Bank of France's weekly statement, issued today, showed that part of the preceding week's loss of 175,000,000 francs in gold had been regained with reserves gaining 100,000,000 francs. Circulation during the week declined 109,000,000 francs.

Swiss francs were off 3 points today at 32.73 cents. The pound sterling gained ⅛ cent at $4.95¾ and Italian lire were up ½ point at 8.21 cents. German marks were 3 points lower at 40.35 cents.

Bar gold in London advanced 1½ pence to 140 shillings 9½ pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.89, while bar silver was unchanged in London and New York.

PROXIES ASSURE REFUNDING PLAN OF LOOSE-WILES

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—At the special meeting of stockholders of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit company, held here today to take action on the refunding plan whereby new 5 per cent preferred stock would be issued and the present 7 per cent preferred retired, proxies for more than two-thirds of the common were held by the management to be voted in favor of the plan. Two-thirds of the common and preferred must ratify the plan.

Since the management did not hold proxies for enough preferred stock to insure approval of the plan by this issue, the meeting was adjourned until Oct. 2. Meanwhile it is expected the directors will call the preferred stock for redemption on Oct. 1, so that the consent of this issue will not be necessary when the plan is voted upon by the common stock holders on the following day.

House Passes Bus and Truck Control Bill

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Another administration "desired" bill was virtually assured of enactment this session today when the house passed, with comparatively minor amendments, the senate approved measure to regulate buses and trucks.

Opposition, which yesterday delayed a vote, was unable to force a record vote, either on the Wadsworth [Rep., N. Y.] motion to substitute a less stringent house subcommittee bill or on final passage. The measure sailed through on a 193 to 18 standing vote.

The bill now goes back to the senate for concurrence with house amendments. It follows recommendations of Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation, looking toward a nationally coördinated and integrated transportation system taking in carrier by rail, highway, water, and air.

Bill Attacked and Defended.

Attacked as a railroads' bill and defended as imperative for protection of the fast growing highway industry and of the public, the measure places both common and contract carriers—bus and truck—under the interstate commerce commission, but generally exempts private truckers, as well as trucks hauling farm products, fish shell fish, or newspapers, and fram coöperative trucks. All of the latter, however, are subjected to commission safety and maximum hour regulations, one of the house amendments.

The house also wrote in a provision whereby boards made up of commissioners from states through which a line operates will have first say in determining regulations. Common carriers must obtain certificates of convenience and public necessity, but contract carriers require only permits. The former's rates are subject to the commission's determination, but the contract carriers are required to file only their minimum rates.

Eastman Calls Law Beneficial.

"I think the legislation will have a very beneficial effect on the whole transportation situation, although too much ought not to be expected of it," Eastman said. "It will help the railroads. It also will help the truck and bus industries, and it will not eliminate competition in the transportation field."

Eastman asserted federal regulation of interstate operation of bus and trucks would not necessarily mean increased rates for motor passenger and freight trafic.

"There isn't going to be any raise in rates above what the motor vehicles can do business for," he said.

A spokesman for the American Trucking association, Inc., composed of large truck operators, contended the bill would prove of benefit both to the industry and the public.

URUGUAY SENATE APPROVES PLAN TO REVALUE GOLD

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The senate today approved and sent to the house a government plan to revalue the gold stock in the Bank of the Republic of Uruguay in accordance with the present market value of gold and to issue new paper money to replace the bills now in circulation.

The government estimated such action would result in a government profit of 48,500,000 pesos, of which 12,000,000 pesos could be used for government internal financial operations, with 36,500,000 for public works. The measure, regarded as controled inflation, is designed to depreciate the value of the Uruguayan peso which, at present, is worth about 45 cents, United States currency.

It is expected the house will pass the measure and that it will be converted into law within two weeks.

COLOMBIAN LAW TO DEMONETIZE SILVER PASSED

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BOGOTA, Colombia, Aug. 1.—A law passed in secret sessions of the Colombian congress authorizes the government to demonetize silver and to prohibit trade or exportation of silver coins, according to the text published in the Tiempo today.

Exports of silver mined in Colombia to silverware manufacturers will require a license. Outstanding silver coins and certificates will be exchanged for nickel coins or bank of the Republic bills of issue, totaling 2,000,000 pesos, in half peso denominations.

Profits of the demonetization will be used to increase by 5,000,000 pesos the capital of the government agrarian industrial mining bank besides paying various debts.

PROFITS LARGER FOR MAJORITY OF BIG COMPANIES

Many Show Earnings Exceed Last Year.

Favorable earnings reports released yesterday slightly exceeded the number of companies showing declines in profits during June, the second quarter, or the first half of 1934, as compared with a year ago.

Among the reports showing improvement was that of the North American company and subsidiaries, which had net income of $11,570,539 after all charges for the twelve months ended June 30, equal to $1.13 a share on the 8,602,991 shares of common stock after dividends on the 6 per cent preferred. This compares with net profit of $10,713,049, or $1.05 a share, on the common stock during the preceding twelve months.

While the Illinois Bell Telephone company reported a decline in net operating income during June and the first half year, three other Bell companies showed an upturn during June and two reported increased net revenues for the half year.

Reports of Telephone Companies.

Illinois Bell had net operating income of $1,097,632 in June, compared with $2,827,301 in June last year, and for the first six months the company's net operating income totaled $5,646,802, against $8,108,454 a year ago.

Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania showed a net operating income of $1,205,177 for June, compared with $1,154,839 in the corresponding month of 1934. For the first six months net operating income was $7,047,498, against $6,265,092 in the 1934 period.

Southwestern Bell Telephone company's net operating income for June increased to $1,449,447 from $1,290,743 a year ago and in the six months period the total was $8,536,266, against $7,592,940 in the corresponding period of last year.

Southern New England Telephone company showed a net operating income of $315,050 for June, against $307,936 in June, 1934. During the first six months net operating income was $1,572,398, a decline from the $1,702,004 for the corresponding half of 1934.

Maytag Reports Larger Profit.

The Maytag company reported a net profit of $663,389 for the June quarter, compared with $586,193 in the second quarter of last year, and for the first six months of the year the company's net profit totaled $1,232,168, against $1,046,574 in the first half of last year.

The Reliance Manufacturing company of Chicago reported the company's net loss had been reduced during the second quarter this year, amounting to $87,041, compared with a deficit of $142,137 in the 1934 period. Current assets against current liabilities at the end of the June quarter this year were more than 6 to 1, it was stated.

The Scott Paper company reported net profits of $420,621 for the half year, subject to adjustment. After dividends on the 7 per cent class A and the 6 per cent class B preferred stock, this was equal to $2.07 a share on the common stock, compared with a net profit of $419,171, or $2.06 a share, in the 1934 period. For the June quarter the company's net profit declined slightly from a year ago, amounting to $200,204 or 98 cents a share, against $213,112 or $1.05 a share in the corresponding three months of last year.

CONTEST DELAYS REORGANIZATION OF REALTY TRUST

Hearings on the plan for reorganizing under section 77B of the $12,503,000 trust agreement No. 17,400 of the Chicago Title and Trust company yesterday were adjourned to Aug. 26, which Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson set as the date for final argument on the matter.

The Sabath congressional committee investigating bondholder reorganizations reiterated objections to the proposed plan through Attorney Newell Mecartney, who appeared as a friend of the court. Questioning by Mecartney of Attorney S. Ashley Guthrie, who filed the original receivership petition, became so sharp that nearly every question was objected to and finally was halted by the court.

"This hearing must be limited to the pleadings," said Judge Wilkerson. "Thus far it has transcended all methods of procedure with which I am familiar. After all, this is a court."

He ordered attorneys to file in writing all objections or other pleadings prior to the Aug. 26 hearing.

Mecartney avowedly is attempting to prove the reorganization a whitewash of the equity receivership and the trust management.

94 Favorable Dividend Changes Reported in July

New York, Aug. 1.—The records of dividend actions during July, as compiled by the Standard Statistics company, show 94 favorable changes compared with 106 in June and 98 in July, 1934. There were 20 unfavorable announcements against 24 in June and 46 in July of the preceding year.

July Auto Sales in Cook County Best Since '29

More new cars were registered in Cook county during July than for that month in any year since 1929. Figures released yesterday by R. L. Polk & Co. placed registrations at 9,896 for the month. This is 17 per cent more than the 8,454 total for July, 1934, and almost 20 per cent more than the 8,151 total for June this year.

The ranking of the first seven makes remained unchanged both from June and a year ago, with Ford the leader. Ford showed a sharp increase both from last year and the previous month. Chevrolet and Plymouth both gained over June, but the former was considerably below its July, 1934, sales. Plymouth was approximately even with last year.

Dodge Sales Rise Sharply.

Dodge reported the most startling advance, even approaching Plymouth's sales on a rise of 40 per cent from June and 80 per cent from July, 1934. Oldsmobile and Pontiac, next in line, both enjoyed more sales than in either previous period. Buick gained from June, but was below a year ago.

Both Packard and Nash-Lafayette forged across the 200 mark in sales to take eighth and ninth places, respectively, while Chrysler dropped from eith place to tenth, even though showing gains. Hudson-Terraplane, which was in tenth place, just ahead of Nash-Lafayette, in June, pushed its sales forward, but slipped to eleventh place.

In the high priced lines, Cadillac-La Salle sales were double a year ago and slightly ahead of June, while Pierce-Arrow was even with June and below 1934. Lincoln was approximately even with both periods.

The one change of position among makers selling less than 100 cars was Graham-Paige's nudging Auburn out of fifteenth place.

LITTLE SAFETY MARGIN IN MOP PLAN, SAYS JONES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The Missouri Pacific's present earnings do not allow it a very wide "margin of safety" over and above the financial obligations contemplated in the reorganization plan filed with the interstate commerce commission yesterday by O. P. Van Sweringen, Chairman Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation said today.

Jones added, however, that he did not believe the Van Sweringens would propose a plan "which will just fall over again' and put the road back into receivership. He remarked that "this year I don't suppose they would much more than earn their fixed charges."

Jones would not comment on the merits of the Van Sweringen plan as compared with others suggested and said he would do nothing further toward trying to reconcile the views of the bondholders with those of the Van Sweringens.

Jones announced today that the RFC had agreed to underwrite a $8,176,000 bond refinancing by the Fort Worth and Denver City railroad, a part of the Burlington system. The road's bonds do not mature until 1961, but it wishes to take advantage of existing low interest rates, Jones explained. The outstanding bonds bear 5½ per cent interest, while the refunding issue will carry 4 or 4½ per cent, Jones said. He said the RFC would merely absorb any bonds that the road could not exchange or sell for cash.

Stock Exchange Seat Sold for $114,000, New '35 High

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—A membership on the New York Stock Exchange was sold today for $114,000, which was a new high price for the year to date and an advance of $4,000 above the price named in the last previous sale. The latter was announced shortly before the new high price was reached on the latter transaction. The price of stock exchange seats advanced $6,000 over night. Yesterday a seat was sold for $108,000.

UTILITY ATTACK CAUSES DECLINE IN STOCK MART

Profit Taking Also Selling Factor.

Utilities Rise After Vote

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The stand of the house against the "death sentence" for utility holding companies gave the bull market a new upturn here late today. Pacific Lighting gained ⅛ point, making a new top at 40⅜. Pacific Gas gained ⅛ in an active close, and $15,000 par value Pacific gas bonds, 5s of 1941, sold up ⅛ at 119½. Food Machinery reached a six year peak at 46⅝, up ⅜, and Caterpillar Tractor went to its best price in five years at 55⅛, finishing up 1⅜ at 54⅞.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 1.—An upthrust of bearish feeling, generated in part by what the street felt was a new whispering campaign against the public utilities, got the better of the stock market today. Prices sagged irregularly lower in nearly all sections of the list, some of the recent market leaders losing as much as two points. The turnover approached 1,900,000 shares. However, there were some advances.

The adverse influence on the utilities was the renewed administration drive to force congress to vote the "death sentence" provision into the holding company bill. Commentators pointed out, also, that the ineptness of a few units of the industry in attempting propaganda along the lines exposed in recent events at Washington might very well result in some really destructive legislation for all in spite of the manifest backwardness of the house in jumping to the crack of the administration whip.

Utility Shares Decline.

The concern over such a possibility was evidenced in selling which came into the power and light shares after many of them had opened at new highs for the year. Peoples Gas for example, dropped nearly 3 points, Public Service lost one point a share and Consolidated Gas dipped below its previous closing level before steadying under late supporting orders. Several less important issues of the group sold down fractionally.

Profit taking on the sustained rise of the averages and a belief that the bull movement could not go on forever without a serious setback weighed down on leading issues throughout the list, particularly on the pacemakers of recent phases of the rise.

However, the lack of volume on the downside and the excellent resistance shown by leaders continued to make for confidence, external legislative and political developments being ignored by the rank and file. On the other hand, the degree of earnings betterment shown by numerous corporations in the second quarter and the optimism over prospects for the fall months provided fresh ammunition for renewed constructive efforts in individual stocks.

Low Priced Autos Gain.

Low priced automobile shares continued to attract attention. Hudson and Nash rose nearly a point each, and both Studebaker and Packard topped their previous closing prices by fractions. The twin leaders of the group, General Motors and Chrysler, however, had to give ground in the face of persistent realizing sales.

Some of the railroad shares attempted to shake off their dog day lethargy around midday, but the task was too much and the department finished generally lower.

A "weak sister" of the amusement list was Radio preferred, which dropped 3 points as abruptly as it had gone up in the preceding session. Other amusements fared better. Fox Film moved against the trend for a large fractional gain and Columbia and Warner Brothers held their own.

CHICAGO STOCKS STRONG

Despite a general easing off in prices yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange, nineteen issues scored new high marks for the year. Most of these were comparatively inactive stocks, however. Trading reached a 53,000 share volume.

Mickelberry and Walgreen were exceptions in achieving new tops in fairly brisk trading. Mickelberry, at 1 recently, closed at 2⅛ in 2,450 share turnover. Walgreen was up ⅜ at 30⅝ after touching 31.

Utilities were a strong spot in the market, Public Service common and no par making new 1935 highs of 40 and 40¼, respectively.

The motor accessories were hit hard after their strength Wednesday.

MEMBER BANKS SHOW INCREASE IN IDLE FUNDS

Due to Treasury Deposits and Gold Imports.

Further expansion in the already swollen bank reserves was the principal change reported in the weekly bank condition statements issued last night. The statement of the 12 central banks showed reserves of the member banks of the system had increased approximately 155 millions during the week.

Two factors served to swell the reserve funds, a transfer by the federal treasury of cash and deposits with the reserve banks and imports of 8 millions of gold.

Reserve Funds Near Record.

Reserve funds of the member banks are now near their all time peak. The total at the close of the week ended Wednesday was 5,519 millions, of which an estimated 2,510 millions represents an excess over legal requirements.

Total monetary gold stocks are now 9,143 millions, as compared with 7,932 millions a year ago.

The statement of the reserve member banks in New York City showed a marked contraction in total outstanding bank credit. Of the total shrinkage of 237 millions approximately 156 millions was due to the reduction in government bond holdings. The treasury last week retired the remaining $74,901,000 of 2 per cent consols used as collateral for national bank notes.

Other Investments Expand.

Other investments expanded slightly but all loans were below the level of the preceding week. Commercial loans fell 51 millions and brokers' loans declined 30 millions.

In Chicago the member banks reduced their commercial loans but showed a net increase in outstanding credit of 45 millions. Holdings of government securities were up 44 millions and other securities increased 4 millions.

WHEAT RECEDES UNDER WAVE OF PROFIT TAKING

Prediction of Short Crop Has Little Influence.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Wheat was the target of heavy profit taking sales in the Chicago market yesterday. Prices tumbled 1½ cents a bushel, erasing about half the gain made on the preceding day. Although crop news was of a highly bullish character it had little effect on the market.

The estimate of a leading commission house that the total harvest would fall below 600 million bushels came as an anti-climax to the damage reports that have peen pouring in for weeks. Speculators had already exploited the bullish news to the utmost and they evidently believed that it was a good time to take profits. The pace of trading slackened somewhat.

September Corn Advances.

Other grains, with the exception of September corn, declined moderately in price along with wheat. An advance of 1⅝ cents in September corn reflected the widespread belief that the scarcity of corn supplies will result in tight market situations before the future expires. Deliveries will be made under the contract before the corn harvest gets under way and current supplies may be taxed to meet requirements.

Closing prices on September futures, with comparative quotations, were:

	Yesterday.	Wednesday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$ .93¼	$ .94⅝	$ .86¼
Corn	.77⅞	.76½	.75⅝
Oats	.32⅞	.33⅜	.31⅝
Rye	.45	.46¼	.44⅝

The heaviest selling in the wheat pit came from commission houses which were heavy buyers during the last week. Brokers regarded the selling as liquidation of some big speculative holdings.

Wheat Importations Expected.

The prospect of early importations of foreign wheat has been heightened by the recent sharp upturn in prices. Reports suggest American milling interests have already made purchases of high quality Canadian wheat to supplement their supplies of domestic grain.

The severe injury to the quality of the spring wheat crop is giving a scarcity value to the higher grades. Stiff premiums are being paid on the best grades. Prevailing prices for high grade spring wheat are near a parity with prices on corresponding varieties of Canadian grain.

Receipts of wheat in the Chicago market yesterday totaled 256 cars, the heaviest this season. The movement of the winter crop is late and as a consequence the seasonal hedging pressure in the futures market has been delayed. An increase in the market pressure from hedgers is expected with expansion in the crop movement.

PREDICTS WHEAT CROP TO BE SHORT FOR THIRD YEAR

That the country's wheat harvest this season will fall short of domestic requirements for the third consecutive year is the conclusion to be drawn from Aug. 1 crop report of James E. Bennett & Co. which was released yesterday. Mrs. E. H. Miller, statistician for the firm, estimated the total crop will approximate 589 million bushels. The report was the first by the statisticians of the Chicago commission houses for August. The estimates of the other firms will be made public today.

The Miller-Bennett report places total spring wheat production at 182 million bushels with the explanation that the crop is still undergoing rapid deterioration. A month ago the department of agriculture forecast a spring crop of 273 million bushels.

The winter wheat crop has likewise undergone a reduction during the last month, according to the firm's calculations. It predicts the total winter wheat crop will amount to 407 million bushels, or 51 million bushels less than the government report predicted early in July. Last month witnessed a reduction in the total crop of 142 million bushels, according to the company's findings.

Indicated 1935 production of 589 million bushels compares 1934's harvest of 496 million bushels and the average crop over a five year period of 860 million bushels. Domestic wheat requirements for the coming year are in the neighborhood of 615 million bushels. July 1 estimates had placed this year's total crop at 731 million bushels.

STOCKS OF CURED PORK PRODUCTS DROP RAPIDLY

Stocks of cured hog products continue to decrease rapidly, contrary to the situation which normally prevails at this season of the year when accumulations are in order against the heavy foreign demand which develops later in the season.

Local stocks of lard showed a reduction of 9,600,000 pounds during the last month, being considerably in excess of trade expectations, and aggregate 30,449,000 pounds, the smallest at this season in over thirty years, comparing with 134,254,000 pounds in 1934. Stocks of meats dropped 12,600,000 pounds to a total of 55,846,000 pounds, the smallest at any period since Oct. 31, 1915, and are said to be the lightest at this season in about forty years. In 1934 they aggregated 97,929,000 pounds.

Profit taking and the weakness in grains led to scattered selling of lard futures on the Chicago Board of Trade and the close was at net losses of 2½ cents to 17½ cents with the September delivery leading. Liverpool advanced 6 pence to 1 shilling per 112 pounds, and sold at a new high for the season. Bellies were nominally unchanged. Cash lard closed at $15.15, loose $15.27, leaf $15.37, and bellies $18.57 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds follow:

TWO OF 20 BANKS REPORT REFUNDS DURING QUARTER

Others Reveal Progress in Liquidation.

Further returns to depositors during the quarter ended June 30 were made by two of the twenty closed banks for which State Auditor Edward J. Barrett issued statements of condition yesterday. These are the Marquette Park State and Maywood State. Since June 30, payments have been made by the Melrose Park State and Morgan Park Trust and Savings banks. Several others made progress during the last quarter and are expected to yield something more in the next few months.

Individual reports follow, showing the progress of liquidation, present condition, and future prospects of each of the twenty banks. Figures used apply to the entire receivership unless otherwise stated.

Marquette Park State Bank.

MARQUETTE PARK STATE—$588,300 receipts, $13,500 last quarter. Paid $106,000 prior claims and $170,000, or 17½ per cent, to depositors, 7½ per cent last quarter. Has $35,000 cash reserved for taxes, etc., with $23,000 toward next dividend. Hopes this and RFC loan applied for may yield further return by end of 1935. Final return might possibly run to 50 per cent. Advanced $169,000 to protect assets [$8,000 last quarter] with $161,000 returned. Costs: $47,500 clerical, $28,000 attorneys, $9,400 receivers.

MARSHALL SQUARE STATE—$353,700 receipts, $3,500 last quarter. Paid $199,000 prior claims and $47,600, or 10 per cent, to depositors. Costs: $29,000 clerical, $13,000 attorneys, $12,000 interest, $24,000 legal, $6,000 receivers. Cash of $23,500 mostly reserved, but may pay something before end of year as last $3,500 bills were wiped out last quarter. Substantially more expected, though final payout may not be high.

MAYWOOD STATE—$618,700 receipts, $36,000 last quarter. Paid $265,000 prior claims and $134,000, or 15 per cent, to depositors, 5 per cent last quarter. Liquidating well and is expected to return 60 per cent total eventually, though nothing for several months. Paid $137,600 [$12,000 last quarter] to protect assets with $106,000 refunded. Costs: $38,000 clerical, $24,000 legal, $8,000 receivers.

MELROSE PARK STATE—$653,000 receipts, $31,500 last quarter. Paid $264,400 prior claims and $163,700, or 25 per cent, to depositors to June 30—5 per cent more since then out of $42,000 cash on hand. Paid $105,000 to protect assets [$4,500 last quarter] with $95,700 returned. Costs: $44,400 clerical, $17,400 legal, $9,500 receivers. Prospects considered good for as much as 60 per cent total payout eventually.

Mid-West State Bank.

MID-WEST STATE—$49,700 receipts, $7,000 last quarter. Paid $37,300 prior claims, finally wiping out last $3,500 in bills during June quarter. Collections now can go toward payment of $66,000 deposits, but return is expected to be rather small. Costs: $5,700 clerical, $3,500 interest, $2,300 receivers. Owes some attorney's fees.

MILLARD STATE—$457,000 receipts, only $3,000 last quarter. Paid $37,000 prior claims and $254,500, or 35 per cent, to depositors. Has $33,000 cash and expects to pay 5 per cent more this quarter. Final payout easily over 50 per cent. Costs: $54,000 to protect assets with $31,000 refunded, $34,000 attorneys, $28,500 clerical, $15,000 receivers.

MONTROSE TRUST AND SAVINGS—$177,300 receipts, only $1,500 last quarter. Paid $86,000 prior claims and $14,000, or 5 per cent, on deposits. Still owes $26,300 to RFC, as well as some legal fees. Future returns to depositors depend on wiping these out. Liquidation slow and only small future return indicated—that not for long while. Costs: $28,000 clerical, $20,500 legal, $6,400 receivers, $6,500 RFC and interest, $13,000 to protect assets.

MORGAN PARK TRUST AND SAVINGS—$509,000 receipts, $60,500 last quarter. Paid $106,500 prior claims and $138,000, or 25 per cent, to depositors to June 30—7½ per cent since then from $35,000 free cash. Depending on liquidation of $53,000 still owed on RFC loan, final return of 60 per cent or more is hoped for. Has repaid $60,000 to RFC, $29,000 last quarter. Costs: $81,000 to protect assets with $72,000 refunded, $34,000 clerical, $24,500 legal, $4,400 receivers.

Morton Grove Trust-Savings.

MORTON GROVE TRUST AND SAVINGS—$180,000 receipts, $4,000 last quarter. Paid $60,500 prior claims and $87,700, or 37 per cent, of deposits. Some further return expected but not much. Liquidation slow. Costs: $10,000 clerical, $6,500 legal, $4,600 receivers, $8,000 to protect assets. Cash $3,000 but owe some legal bills.

MOUNT GREENWOOD TRUST AND SAVINGS—$37,000 receipts, $1,500 last quarter. Paid $11,600 prior claims and $8,400, or 22½ per cent, to depositors. Cash of $3,000 reserved, but $2,700 free indicates some return before end of year. Final payout not to be high. Costs: $6,300 clerical, $3,100 legal, $1,900 receivers, and other items.

NOEL STATE—$2,517,500 receipts, $70,500 last quarter. Paid $1,077,500 prior claims and $350,500, or 10 per cent, on deposits. Cash of $117,000 reserved for taxes, attorneys and other bills. Free cash now $124,000 after adding $23,000 last quarter. Needs $55,000 more for 5 per cent. Between collections and application now being made for RFC loans, hopes for some further payment by end of year. Fairly substantial returns indicated, depending on real estate. Paid $543,400 [$42,500 last quarter] to protect assets with $323,500 returned. Costs: $151,000 clerical, $136,600 legal, $15,300 receivers.

NORTH AVENUE STATE—$2,202,000 receipts, $56,500 last quarter. Paid $552,000 prior claims and $930,000, or 45 per cent, of deposits. Good prospects for more than 60 per cent final payout after paying $356,400 still due RFC. Has paid RFC $125,000 [$24,500 last quarter]. Costs: $377,000 to protect assets with $227,000 refunded, $76,700 clerical, $63,000 legal, $3,600 receivers, $17,700 [$10,000 last quarter] interest. Cash of $57,500 in reserve.

Northbrook State Bank.

NORTHBROOK STATE—$106,600 receipts, $2,500 last quarter. Paid $44,700 prior claims and $26,400, or 20 per cent, to depositors. Has repaid $11,000 on RFC loan but still owes $22,000. After this is disposed of, at least 20 per cent more is expected for depositors. Costs: $11,000 clerical, $2,100 attorneys, $2,400 receivers, $2,800 interest. Cash of $5,900 reserved.

NORTH TOWN STATE—$723,500 receipts, $44,000 last quarter. Paid $298,500 prior claims and $221,700, or 40 per cent, to depositors. Repaid $32,000 [$22,000 last quarter] on RFC loan. Balance of $47,000 precedes depositors, but they are expected to obtain substantial further returns later. Cash of $35,000 now. Advanced $43,300 [$21,000 last quarter] to protect assets with $35,000 refunded, $24,000 last quarter. Costs: $47,500 clerical, $30,000 legal, $11,000 receivers, $4,500 interest.

NORTH-WESTERN TRUST AND SAVINGS—$8,480,500 receipts, $239,000 last quarter. Paid $1,570,000 prior claims and $4,734,500, or 50 per cent, of deposits. Further returns depend on whether anything is left after RFC loan is repaid. Balance of $1,810,700 remains after repayment of $300,000 [$170,500 last quarter]. Advanced $1,184,600 [$47,000 last quarter] to protect assets with refund of $611,500 [$24,000 last quarter]. Costs: $271,000 clerical, $218,000 legal, $35,000 receivers, $7,400 interest. Cash of $160,000 in reserve.

NORWOOD PARK TRUST AND SAVINGS—$72,500 receipts, $3,500 last quarter. Paid $9,200 prior claims and $17,700, or 25 per cent, of deposits. Fairly substantial further returns expected, but depend on paying $23,500 balance due RFC. Liquidation slow. Cash of $6,000 but little free. Advanced $21,600 to protect assets, but all returned. Costs: $7,500 clerical, $5,200 legal, $1,400 receivers.

Novak-Steiskal State Bank.

NOVAK AND STEISKAL STATE—$459,500 receipts, $23,000 last quarter. Paid $175,500 prior claims and $114,300, or 20 per cent, on deposits. Has $18,700 reserved cash and $22,000 free toward 5 per cent more, which is expected by October. Final payout of over 50 per cent indicated. Advanced $55,000 to protect assets, but $65,600 returned from this source. Costs: $40,000 clerical, $26,300 legal, $7,800 receivers.

PAPANEK-KOVAC STATE—$363,000 receipts, $22,000 last quarter. Paid $98,500 prior claims and $171,200, or 52 per cent, of deposits. Another 15 per cent or more expected, depending on repayment of $27,000 still owed RFC; has already repaid $28,600 [$9,500 last quarter]. Costs: $19,400 to protect assets [$9,000 returned], $20,500 clerical, $6,500 legal, $3,200 receivers, $2,100 interest. Cash of $13,000 in reserve.

PARK RIDGE STATE—$771,400 receipts, $12,000 last quarter. Paid $304,000 prior claims and $155,000, or 30 per cent, of deposits. Cash of $216,000 being held pending settlement of $229,000 public fund claim for preference. Further returns indicated, but total payout not expected to reach 50 per cent if claim gains full preference. Costs: $42,000 to protect assets, $29,000 clerical, $19,000 legal, $5,400 receivers.

PARKWAY STATE—$35,700 receipts [$10,900 from RFC], only $855 last quarter. Paid $9,000 prior claims and $10,350, or 20 per cent of deposits. Has repaid nothing to RFC and owes for attorneys and taxes. Nothing more for depositors until these are cleared up, and little expected then. Costs: $8,000 clerical, $2,200 legal, $2,800 to protect assets, $157 receivers.

William L. O'Connell now is receiver for all twenty of these banks.

RFC'S PUNISHMENT OF ROCK ISLAND MAY END, JONES INDICATES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The Reconstruction Finance corporation may rescind its order which hiked the interest it is charging the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway because the railroad hired Otis F. Glenn, former Republican senator, as one of its attorneys, Jesse H. Jones, RFC chairman, said today.

Jones said he was considering the question of the RFC's action against the road and was expecting a letter on the subject from former Gov. Frank O. Lowden and Joseph B. Fleming, two of the road's trustees. He said that he had talked the Glenn incident over with Lowden and Fleming and that they had agreed to set their case forth in a letter which he had not received. Any change in the previous order would be made retroactive, he added.

"I don't think we will ever collect 6 per cent," Jones remarked with a smile, indicating that the RFC was finding its "punishment" of the Rock Island an empty victory.

The road is not even earning the 4 per cent interest charges which, up until the hiring of Glenn, it was supposed to pay on its loan from the RFC. The RFC's action in boosting the interest rate was taken under terms of a contract with the railroad which provided for RFC supervision of salaries in return for the 4 per cent rate. The trustees for the road secured the approval of Judge Evan A. Evans, whose court is supervising the bankruptcy of the road, before appointing Glenn, but the RFC cracked down on the road nevertheless.

BUTTER PRICES ARE HIGHER AS PRODUCTION DECREASES

Reports of steadily decreasing production of butter, with a consequent falling off in the into storage movement, and continued hot weather brought in more aggressive buying of futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. The November delivery advanced ¼ cent and closed at 25 cents per pound, a new high on the current upturn. Into storage movement at the four leading points fell 27,000 pounds below last year. The American association report showed production 3.2 per cent less than the preceding week and 1.5 per cent less than last year.

October eggs were firm early, but reacted and closed unchanged at 25¼ cents per dozen. Net withdrawals of eggs from cold storage Wednesday were 7,622 cases, compared with 8,588 cases last year. Reports on collections of eggs in the middle west indicated production continued in excess of last year. Sales of butter were 46 cars and eggs, 53 cars. Prices follow:

BUILDING HERE IN JULY SHOWS GAIN OVER JUNE

113 Permits Issued; Cost Is $1,294,990.

BY AL CHASE.

Building construction in Chicago for July showed a sharp increase in both number of permits and dollar value over June, according to Richard E. Schmidt, building commissioner. There were 113 building permits issued last month, calling for construction valued at $1,294,990. This compares with 90 permits in June, totaling $741,850.

Comparison of the seven months of 1935 with the same period last year also disclosed an increase. This year the total was $7,096,022, compared with $4,915,176 in 1934. The number of buildings in 1934 was 266, compared with 505 during the seven months of this year.

Comparison of July building figures with the same month last year showed an increase in number of permits, but a falling off in dollar value. The July total of 113 compares with 47 in July, 1934, and the $1,294,990 total for July, 1935, compares with $1,385,965 in July last year.

Home building showed the largest gain in July's totals as compared with the same month last year. Permits were issued for 47 single family dwellings as compared with only 9 in July, 1934. Compared with the June total of 52, the July figures showed a slight decline.

Business buildings led all classes in number, totaling 54, as compared with 32 in June and 30 in July, 1934. Permits were issued for two churches and for seven office structures.

PRICES OF HOGS ADVANCE TO NEW 82 MONTH PEAKS

Hog prices yesterday advanced to new 82 month—almost seven years—highs as packers continued their drive to build up stocks of pork in store despite the light receipts and the sluggish condition of the wholesale markets for fresh pork.

Upward to $13.35 was paid for selected new crop 189 to 225 pound stock, including the processing tax, the new high going back to September, 1930, for an equal. The average also set up a new high of $12.50.

All packers were in the market for numbers again yesterday, paying fully 10 cents higher prices for the bulk of the crop, and in places advances of 15 to 25 cents were found in the underweights.

Lambs met better demand at 10 to 25 cents higher prices, all interests paying up to $8.75 for selected natives.

The recent sharp rise in the cattle market, which advanced as much as 75 cents to $1 in a week's time on some classes, curtailed the demand for steers yesterday and prices were barely steady to slightly lower. Some kinds lost as much as 15 to 25 cents of the recent upturn, the plainer classes of steers and long yearlings indicating the most weakness.

Nothing in yesterday's run was good enough to sell over $11.15 and the bulk of the steers brought $9.00 to $10.50.

JULY LIVE STOCK RECEIPTS HERE AT RECORD LOW

AAA and Drouth Reduce Supplies of Meat.

The volume of live stock receipts at the Chicago Stock yards in the last month dropped to the lowest levels on record for July. Only 10,117 carloads of cattle, calves, hogs, sheep, and horses were received during the month, as compared with 16,787 carloads a year ago. Official records on cars received at Chicago are available back to 1882. The smallest July total known until 1935 was 11,614 back in 1883.

The Chicago market handled only 76,355 carloads during the first seven months of the year, showing a decrease of 38,448 cars, or 33 per cent, compared with the same period in 1934.

Hit by Drouth and AAA.

The program followed by the AAA and the 1934 drouth are responsible for the ruinously low volume of supplies now being handled by the packing industry. Since 1933 the government has killed off well over 18,000,000 meat animals, aggregating a total weight of more than 6 billion pounds in a nation-wide drive to cut supplies and raise prices.

Chicago cattle receipts for July at 147,940 head were second smallest for that month since 1882 and compared with 276,173 a year ago, including 108,061 bought by the government to be slaughtered. The seven months' cattle total at 1,043,003 shows a decrease of 397,365 compared with the same period last year.

Calf receipts for the month at 35,122 were second smallest for July since 1916. A year ago Chicago received 91,722, of which 54,429 were government owned. The seven months' calf total at 283,071 compared with 394,411 a year ago.

July Hog Receipts Fall.

The July hog receipts fell to 249,886, the smallest total for that month on records back to 1878, thirteen years after the official opening of the stock yards on the present location. The previous low for July was 278,000 back in 1879. In September, 1917, Chicago handled 251,000 hogs, but the average for July for the last fifteen years exceeded 575,000 hogs. A year ago the July total was below normal at 405,497.

Chicago has handled only 2,179,393 hogs the first seven months of 1935, compared with 3,935,204 a year ago.

Sheep receipts for July dropped to 198,491, the lightest for July since 1894, but the seven months sheep total at 1,845,816 shows an increase of 270,823 over the same period last year.

CUMMINGS SAYS GOLD SUITS BILL IS SATISFACTORY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Senate banking committee changes in the administration's resolution outlawing suits on gold payment obligations, so as to permit filing of actions within six months after the resolution is adopted, were accepted today by Attorney General Cummings as "satisfactory."

"It isn't what the President proposed or the department of justice, but it may be regarded as a fair compromise," he said. "It merely postpones the effective date. The effect would be that people who want to bring suits will have to do so within six months."

The senate draft differs from the administration's proposal also in that it does not quash suits pending at the time of the resolution's expected adoption. Thus the department of justice will have to defend several suits, two of which are already pending in the court of claims.

FEE OF $450,000 GIVEN ATTORNEY IN BANKING SUIT

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—A fee of $450,000 was awarded today to David L. Podell, attorney for stockholders in action against the former National City company, which he accepted on the basis of "winner take all."

Supreme Court Justice Edward S. Dore awarded Podell a fee representing 25 per cent of the judgment recovered, or approximately $450,000, against the award of $1,847,933. Podell asked the court for $850,000.

The suit was brought for an accounting of $70,000,000 against directors of the former National City company. Justice Dore found that directors of the National City company had authorized "imprudent" transactions.

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The majority of listed bonds just about held their own in today's market dealings, although here and there a few especially firm or heavy spots were noted.

The news appeared to be neither particularly depressing nor stimulating. Prospects for fall and winter business improvement were still viewed as encouraging. Another defeat in the house for the administration's "death clause" in the utility holding company bill did not come until after the close of trading, consequently power liens were not affected.

Rails Lose Early Strength.

Secondary rails found an early following, but most of these dropped back later. At the same time, New Haven collateral 6s held a gain of 2 points and moderate advances were retained by Baltimore and Ohio 6s, Cleveland Union Terminal 5s, Erie 4s at 79, Nickel Plate 5½s and Southern Railway Consolidated 5s.

Among the better industrials were Chile Copper 5s, International Paper 5s and Penn Dixie 6s. Utilities that got ahead moderately included American Water Works 6s, Laclede Gas, 5½s, Tennessee Electric Power 6s, and Western Union 4½s.

Motion Picture Issues Rise.

Bonds of the major motion picture companies all reached new high marks for the year. Reflecting improvement in earnings and outlook, Paramount Famous Players Lasky 6s moved up 2⅜ and Paramount Publix 5½s gained 3¼ and Radio Keith Orpheum 6s made an advance of 11 points.

United States government bonds were fairly steady, minor gains and losses being about equally divided. The activity in the federals was again small, the turnover approximating $440,000, against $920,000 on Wednesday.

A slightly easier tone was exhibited by the foreign section. Italian 7s lost 1½ points, and German government 7s were off as much.

Government Expenditures.

Investors' Guide: The question has arisen as to what goes to make up the federal deficit of about 3½ billions of dollars for the year in view of the fact that there is only a difference of about 900 million between the cash on hand now and the balance at the beginning of the year.—J. P. W.

Answer: The government's expenditures during the last fiscal year exceeded its income. The full amount of that difference is not apparent in the figures showing cash on hand in comparison with last year. The government sold bonds for cash to keep its cash position satisfactory.

Illinois Central Lease.

Investors' Guide: Can you give me the details of the lease under which Illinois Central operates Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific Railway company?—S. H.

Answer: The properties of Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific Railway company were leased to Yazoo and Mississippi Valley Railroad company, an Illinois Central subsidiary, for 357 years and three months, until July 1, 2282. The lessee has the option to extend the lease for an additional term. The lease became effective on June 2, 1926.

The lessee agrees to pay taxes, assessments, government charges, bond interest, 5 per cent dividends on both classes of stock, maintenance and other expenses.

Performance of the lease is guaranteed by Illinois Central Railroad company.

Registration for Listing.

Investors' Guide: I have noticed where several companies will not apply for permanent registration on the New York Stock exchange. Will you kindly explain what effect this will have on the stock of those companies in the future? Thank you for the valuable information I have received from you in the past.—A. H. J.

Answer: Stocks of those companies that do not apply for registration on the New York Stock exchange will be delisted. The main effect will be a lessening of the marketability of the stock. They will be relegated to over-the-counter trading.

British and Australian Pound Sterling.

Investors' Guide: Can you give me the value of the British pound sterling in terms of Australian money?—D. C. E.

Answer: Since December, 1931, the Commonwealth Bank of Australia has maintained the rate of exchange of 125 pounds Australian per 100 pounds sterling. Each pound sterling, therefore, would be worth 1¼ pounds Australian.

COTTON FUTURES WEAKEN ON SCATTERED LIQUIDATION

Cotton markets weakened yesterday as the result of scattered selling and commission house liquidation which disclosed a lack of aggressive buying. Owing to the light speculative trade the markets are easily influenced. Closing trades here were at net losses of 14 to 18 points, while New Orleans dropped 11 to 18 points and New York 12 to 19 points.

Crop reports continue decidedly favorable. Nat C. Murray, of Clement, Curtis & Co., estimates the crop at 11,217,000 bales, against 9,636,000 bales harvested last year. Another report placed the yield this season at 11,647,000 bales. Spot cotton closed 10 to 15 points lower, with New Orleans 11.95 cents, Houston 11.70 cents, Galveston 11.80 cents, and New York 12 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound follow:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Small sales of print cloths were made today on a basis of 5⅝c per yard for 38½ inch 64x60s. Increased sales of yarns to knitters were reported. Finished cottons are being bought a little more freely. Rayon yarns for September delivery were offered at unchanged prices. Fancy rayon dress fabrics showed some activity. Silk goods were in moderate call at unchanged prices. Tropical worsteds for spring 1936 were offered at advances ranging from 7½ to 10 per cent over a year ago. Burlaps were quiet, with trading light.

CANADIANS MAY SELL 76 MILLION OF BONDS IN U. S.

Plan to Register Issue in Washington.

The sale of $76,000,000 of Dominion of Canada 10 year bonds in this country was indicated with the announcement yesterday by Dr. William C. Clarke, federal deputy minister of finance, that the dominion government plans to register the issue with the United States securities and exchange commission tomorrow.

The issue would bear a 2½ per cent coupon rate. Proceeds from the sale of the bonds will be used to repay a one year bank loan contracted in the country in 1934 and for the redemption of the 7 per cent bonds of the Canadian Northern railway, which are guaranteed by the Canadian government.

The First Boston corporation, eastern investment house which has a branch in Chicago, has been selected to head the offering syndicate, according to information here.

Government Gets Premium.

Last Monday's offering of $100,000,000 of 2⅞ per cent treasury bonds by the United States government drew bids totaling $320,981,000, according to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau yesterday. The government realized a cash premium of $1,663,836 on the sale of the bonds.

The bonds mature 1955-'60. Bids for $106,483,000 of the bonds were accepted at prices ranging from 101 24-32 down to 101 17-32 plus accrued interest. Average price of the bonds was about 101 18-32. The yield is about 2.771 per cent to the earliest call date, March 15, 1955, and about 2.787 per cent to maturity, March 15, 1960.

The seasonal influence of hot weather proved to be a damper on the market for new issues yesterday. Halsey, Stuart & Co. reported that the $4,450,000 issue of territory of Hawaii bonds, due Sept. 1, 1939 to 1944, was moving slowly. The issue is priced to yield 1.25 to 1.80 per cent.

The $1,000,000 issue of Bridgeport, Conn., notes, dated Aug. 1, 1935, and maturing June 1, 1936, fared about the same. These notes are priced to yield .40 per cent.

Seeks Note Issue.

The Nickel Plate road [New York, Chicago and St. Louis railroad] yesterday asked the interstate commerce commission for permission to issue $15,000,000 of new or extended 6 per cent three year notes to meet a note of the same amount maturing Oct. 1.

The private sale of $50,000,000 of its first and refunding 3½ per cent bonds, due 1956, was revealed yesterday by Public Service Electric and Gas company. The bonds were taken up by insurance companies and financial institutions at par. The company retained $15,000,000 of the $65,000,000 issue in its treasury.

A. G. Becker & Co. reported that the sale of the 15,000 shares of A. M. Castle & Co. stock which it is handling is proceeding satisfactorily, although the entire block has not yet been sold. The stock was acquired from a bank and interests close to the company. It does not represent new financing.

The village of Kenilworth yesterday called $84,000 of its 5 per cent water fund certificates for payments on Oct. 1. They will be replaced by a like amount of 4 per cent bonds, maturing serially from 1937 to 1960. The refunding issue has already been sold to Bacon, Whipple & Co. Savings from the deal will run more than $10,000.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today at 3.20c per lb for spots in the absence of sales, but the undertone was slightly easier as offerings became available at this level, representing concessions in sellers' views. Refiners were holding off. Futures were quiet easing slightly under commission house liquidation in September. Exchanges from September to December accounted for a fair part of the day's transactions. Final prices showed net losses of 1 to 2 points on the No. 3 contracts while the No. 1 was 1 point lower to 1 point higher. Sales 3,750 tons in the former and 150 tons in the latter.

Raw sugar prices in cents per pound:

YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Would you be interested in starting in business for yourself without one cent of investment on your part?

Well, that is exactly what we have done for many men in this territory.

These men were previous storekepers, doctors, lawyers, shop workers, mechanics, etc., and are now earning and receiving in net profit as much as $50 for a single day.

We are an old line, nationally known manufacturer of electrical units that defy competition and for which there is a constant, increasing demand.

Now here are our requirements—you must be under 50, preferably married, honest, reliable, possess a neat appearance and possess at least a grammar school education.

At this time we will only interview men living on the South Side of Chicago, northern Indiana and northeastern Illinois.

Every man answering this advertisement will be given a confidential interview and, if selected, will be trained at our expense in our methods, which are successful.

There are no strings attached to this offer, as we even pay rent, light, heat, telephone girl hire, consign your merchandise, and finance your accounts.

Apply Friday only between 9 and 11 a. m. Ask for Mr. Lovell, Suite 404, Maryland Bldg., 63d-st. and Maryland-av.

BURNHAM'S

(for 64 years the world's largest beauty school)

ACT NOW.

It is to your particular advantage to register now even if you cannot start your course until later. Call, phone, or write at once.

The easy-to-learn Burnham System quickly enables you to become a skilled beauty operator. Plenty of living models. You learn by doing rather than by studying. Each teacher a specialist. Fewer pupils per teacher. 64 years' knowing how to teach gives you a flying start.

SEE FOR YOURSELF WHY MORE GIRLS ENROLL IN BURNHAM'S THAN IN ANY OTHER BEAUTY SCHOOL.

BURNHAM'S AWARDS TRIP TO PARIS TO STUDENT. Geneve Huffman, 1601 Thome-av., winner of semi-annual Burnham scholarship for efficiency while in training, sailed June 19 on S. S. Manhattan with all expenses paid. Burnham's offers opportunities not found elsewhere.

DAY AND EVENING CLASSES. Pay for MOST of your tuition after graduating. Open every day and on Monday, Wednesday, Friday evenings until 9 p. m.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

July [illegible] 1935

Dear Dad
I left home because I was so miserably unhappy over losing Louise that I couldn't get along with anyone and was making everyone unhappy at home thought maybe if I [illegible]
here I could [illegible] but I [illegible]
so I am going [illegible] end it all Dont let Louise know about this as I love her [illegible] dont want make her unhappy I ~~[illegible]~~ suppose she is better off married to that doctor [illegible] she would have been to me she [illegible] me before I come up here she was happy and
I am glad for her.
